THE RUNAWAY CRISIS

Premature Freedom, Unsettled Times Linked To The Problem

By THERON A. NEWELL

(Second of three articels)

Marin County youngsters are running away from home in alarmingly increasing numbers and troubled law enforcement officers, as well as troubled parents, seek the reasons why.

They find almost as many reasons as there are runaways, as if each crisis were tailored to each unhappy child.

Marin County averaged 39 runaways per month in 1964. By last year, this had increased to 53 per month. The first nine months of this year, it had increased to 63 per month.

Walter H. Busher, head of the Marin County Probation Department, blamed the changing culture in which the teen-ager must find his way with inadequate guidance.

THINGS FLUCTUATE

"In our society, the material things are constant, but the non-material things fluctuate," Busher said. "The kids are given premature freedom and are living in unsettled times in the shadow of Vietnam."

"They are not properly trained and cannot accept frustrations, so they run away," Busher observed.

"A problem kid is the product of a problem family," said Fredric M. Latty, supervisor of field services for the probation department. "A kid is a symptom of the family and as soon as we find a runaway kid, we start looking at what's wrong with the family."

MOST STABLE

"We've often found that the kid who runs away may be the most stable in the family," Latty concluded.

"They are searching for a meaning, a religion in life," observed James B. Soetaert, director of probation services for the probation department.

"These runaway kids come from all types of homes — poor, medium class and moderately wealthy, and broken homes. There is no pattern to it," said Novato Police Chief Robert de Grazia.

Several of the officials think that the greater freedom for girls is a big factor in the increasing number of runawyas.

MORE THIS YEAR

"The girls have taken over this year; we have more of them listed as runaways this year than last," said Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr. He pointed out that there were six boys to nine girls listed as runaways in Fairfax this year.

Novato statistics also show this trend. Novato had 35 boys and 44 girls listed as runaways the first nine months of 1967.

Sgt. Albert Howenstein, juvenile officer of San Anselmo, backed up this observation, pointing out that there were 22 boys and 24 girls listed as runaways in San Anselmo this year.

SPECTRE OF DOPE

The spectre of dope hangs over this problem of runaways. Sergeant Howenstin observed that runaways immediately pose a narcotics problem.

"The lure of the Haight-Ashbury district draws them to it and they are staying away from home longer now than in the past years," Sergeant Howenstein said.

"This increased use of drugs is accompanied by a marked decrease in the use of alcohol," Latty observed.

He blamed the parent's attitudes toward this as part of the problem. "All former taboo subjects are now freely discussed by the teen-age group," he said. In spite of this the kids cannot communicate with parents or teachers on these subjects.

"If a kid mentions the use of, or questions his parents about

Scientists Give Mariner 5 Rest

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — After a spectacular October flyby of Venus, Mariner 5 will get a rest until next fall. But Mariner 4's cameras have been turned on again for the first time since it took photographs of Mars in 1965.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory ended the newer spacecraft's mission yesterday by changing its transmitter from a high-powered to low-powered antenna.

It remains in solar orbit between the orbits of Venus and Mercury. Spokesmen said Mariner 5's mission could be resumed next September when its high-powered antenna will be pointed at earth again.

A 'Thanksgiving-Day' Prize: U.S. Captures Strategic Hill

Fortress Captured In One-Hour Charge

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. troops today seized the Communist fortress atop Hill 875 in a one-hour Thanksgiving Day charge and immediately dug in to hold it from harassing North Vietnamese sniper and mortar fire.

The first elements of five companies from the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade and 4th Infantry Division flashed word back from the summit, "We've got the hill."

Two Americans were killed and less than a dozen wounded in the final push for the top. The climb to the summit ended one of the bloodiest fights in the three-week-old Central Highlands battle around Dak To.

The victorious Americans ate their first hot meal in 12 days in the ruins of the North Vietnamese bastion — a Thanksgiving meal of hot turkey.

Capt. Ron Leonard of Hayes City, Okla., company commander of the 173rd's 4th Battalion, was the first to reach the summit. As soon as he reached the top he shouted behind to his men to "stay loose."

Communist sniper fire rang out and Leonard's men hit the dirt.

A few moments later mortar fire began falling around them.

Leonard radioed back to Maj. Richard Scott of Shreveport, La., who was directing the operation from the base of the hill, "I've got my people settled and quiet but I believe we are going to need some dustoffs."

Leonard referred to medical evacuation helicopters which came in to take out the wounded despite the sniper fire.

FIND TUNNELS

The Americans found a network of tunnels and underground fortifications 40 to 50 feet deep on the top of the hill. Most of the North Vietnamese who had manned them and withstood a massive American onslaught for five days had withdrawn. But a small task force had been left behind to harass the American advance.

Communist mortar fire still zeroed in on a helicopter landing zone about 400 yards down the hill.

The charging Americans who reached the summit passed the bodies of some of their buddies who had been killed in earlier fighting for Hill 875. Some lay within 25 feet of the Communist fortress. Many were charred from napalm bombs dropped by American planes.

1,400 REDS KILLED

About 1,400 Communists have been killed in the highlands battle, at least 88 on Hill 875 before the U.S. charge smashed into the 50-foot-deep peak bunkers which American officers said had been a key North Vietnamese regimental base. But hundreds of Americans fell in the five-day fight for the hill.

At Saigon, U.S. spokesmen reported that last week American casualties in the war included 225 dead, 1,356 wounded —half seriously enough to need hospital treatment, and 22 missing.

BOOSTS LOSSES

Most of the losses came in the highlands fight near Hill 875, they said. It boosted U.S. war losses since Jan. 1, 1961, to

Envoys To Try To Head Off Cyprus War

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Cyrus R. Vance, President Johnson's special envoy in the Cyprus crisis, arrived in Turkey today.

Another special envoy, from United Nations Secretary-General U Thant, was en route to Turkey as fears of a Turkish-Greek war over Cyprus increased.

Turkey announced early today it was turning down a Greek proposal for further talks. The Turkish government reaffirmed its determination to ensure the security of the Turkish Cypriot minority on the island 40 miles off the Turkish coast, increasing speculation that the Turks were on the verge of landing troops on Cyprus.

LBJ RESPONDS

President Johnson, who intervened when war on Cyprus appeared imminent in 1964, responded to the new threat by sending former Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance to Ankara with orders to proceed from there to Athens. Vance, now a New York attorney, served Johnson as a trouble-shooter in last summer's Detroit riots.

Diplomatic sources said they believed it unlikely that Turkey would attempt any military action against Greece, like it a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, before Vance's arrival.

Also heading for the Turkish capital and then Athens was U Thant's special emissary, Jose Rolz-Bennett of Guatemala, a U.N. undersecretary for political affairs.

NEW BATTLE

The new crisis, part of a centuries-long history of strife between Greeks and Turks on Cyprus, developed after a battle last week in which 25 Turkish

Senators Still Divided Over Vietnam Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever its impact on the country, Gen. William C. Westmoreland's optimistic assessment of Vietnam war progress has left senatorial critics and supporters of President Johnson's policies as sharply divided as ever.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., a spokesman for dissenters, said he has no doubt Westmoreland, the U.S. field commander, and Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, "believe what they are saying when they report progress."

"But I can't believe we are making all that progress," Clark said. "Their reports are certainly in disagreement with those we get from intelligent, responsible newsmen on the scene."

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., a strong supporter of Johnson's policies within the divided Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview he thinks Westmoreland and Bunker gave "very satisfactory answers" to questions about the progress in both military and civilian programs.

"I think their optimism is justified," Sparkman said. "From them and other reports I have received, I think we are on the road to attaining our objectives of giving South Vietnam freedom of choice and of stemming Communist aggression."

While Sparkman said he thinks the intensive wave of optimistic statements carried on in recent days by Johnson, Westmoreland, Bunker and others will increase support for the President's course, the critics did not seem to agree.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a dissenter, told his colleagues Wednesday he couldn't understand why Westmoreland was making speeches at home while some of the most critical battles of the war were under way.

At about that time, Westmoreland was terming the 20-day Dak To battle "the beginning of a great defeat for the enemy." He said at a Pentagon news conference he had just spoken by telephone to his deputy, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr., who

ABC Technicians Have New Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co.'s technicians have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a new contract, and the network says they will be back on the job Saturday after a two-month strike.

The vote among 1,166 members of the AFL-CIO National Association of Broadcast employes and Technicians was announced last night as 906 in favor and 260 against the new contract.

Thant Urges Peace Talks For Mideast

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant is expected to follow up the U.N. Security Council's unanimous approval of a British peace formula for the Middle East by sending trouble shooter Gunnar Jarring to the area to try to get negotiations started.

Informed sources said Thant would name Jarring, a veteran Swedish diplomat who has served in the Middle East, as U.N. mediator under terms of the British resolution the 15-nation council approved late Wednesday.

KEY POINT

Key point of the resolution was a call for withdrawal of Israeli troops from territory it seized from Egypt, Jordan and Syria in the June war.

Israel has stressed that it will not give up any territory until the Arabs agree to direct peace talks. But the fact that both Israel and the Arab states raised no major objections to the British formula was considered a major step forward after months of futile bickering.

Israeli officials in Jerusalem welcomed the Security Council action as "the first step" toward peace.

SPEECH DUE

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser was expected to give authoritative Arab comment in a speech later today to the National Assembly in Cairo, his first public statement in four months.

The British resolution specifies that a vital factor in lower-

Sinatra, Mia Agree Upon Separation

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "A trial separation has been mutually agreed upon."

The bare announcement signaled a rift in the 16-month marriage of Frank Sinatra, 51, and Mia Farrow, 22, and touched off speculation over reasons for the break.

The news was released yesterday by James Mahoney, publicity agent for the two stars. He said neither of the Sinatras had comment.

THEIR JOBS

The twice-divorced Sinatra married the young star of television's "Peyton Place" on July 19, 1966, in Las Vegas, Nev. Their job often kept them apart, as she made a film in England with Lawrence Harvey and he continued his far-flung activities in the show world.

But the pair appeared to be in accord during the times they were together. A few weeks ago she was much in evidence as the singer taped his latest television special.

Earlier this week, the Sinatras held a small farewell party for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton who visited here briefly.

CURRENT FILMS

Friends indicated problems between Sinatra and his young wife were aggravated by troubles concerning their current films. Miss Farrow has been starring in "Rosemary's Baby," and the film, directed by Polish Roman Polanski, lagged behind schedule. She had been slated to join her husband in filming New York locations of "The Detective."

Sinatra, who likes to make his films rapidly, became irritated because his wife was unable to join him in New York. Angry telephone calls were reported between Sinatra and officials of Paramount Pictures, which is producing "Rosemary's Baby."

Quasars were discovered in 1963. Their name is short for quasistellar radio sources, but no one knows what they really are.

He'll Be Himself If He Runs, Says Nixon

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richard M. Nixon says that if he seeks the presidency next year he will present his own personality for judgment by the people—not an artificial one.

"I'm not going to take any speech lessons; I'm not hiring any high-powered public relations firms," Nixon told a newsman Wednesday night. "When a man is constrained or artificial, he doesn't get through."

Nixon's comments followed an appearance on NBC's "Tonight" show where he told host Johnny Carson that his faulty makeup for the televised Kennedy-Nixon debates was a big factor in his 1960 loss to John F. Kennedy.

FIRST CHOICE

Nixon, already tagged as first choice for the Republican presidential nomination by delegates to the 1964 convention who responded to a recent Associated Press poll, got more good news. CBS reported its surveys show he's practically a cinch for the nomination if he wins the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries. And when Carson asked his audience to indicate whether they would vote for him, the applause meter was driven to its limit.

As for that make-up problem: Roy Voege, makeup man for the "Tonight" show, revealed he probably will join Nixon's staff. A Nixon aide said Voege appears to know how to erase the five o'clock shadow which Nixon seems to have on television.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who has announced his candidacy for the GOP nomination, also discussed his public image, telling a news conference in Lansing that news reports of his Vietnam statements have been on a "piecemeal approach."

Romney said this sometimes makes him appear to be inconsistent on the war issue when, in fact, "if anybody takes the time to go back over what I've said, they'll find a very consistent position."

Romney also said he has received excellent cooperation from the State and Defense departments in planning a near four-week trip that will take him next month to Europe, Asia and the Middle East. Among those he hopes to see, he said, are top leaders of the Soviet Union.

Brothers Given 30-Year Terms In Border Slayings

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Alfred Montoya and his brother Harold have been sentenced to two concurrent 30-year prison sentences in the execution-style killings of two border patrolmen.

The sentence was imposed Wednesday by U.S. Dist. Judge Manuel L. Real after the Montoyas pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

"I deeply regret my involvement," Harold, 30, told the court. His 33-year-old brother said they didn't realize the patrolmen would be shot to death by Victor Bono, 28, and Florencio Mationg, 33, who have been sentenced to two consecutive terms each for the killings.

Execution Date Set For Lara

An execution date of Jan. 31 at San Quentin Prison has been set for convicted murderer Tony Montoya Lara, 21, although the California Supreme Court has stayed all executions until it decides the constitutionality of the state's capital punishment law.

The date for Lara was set Nov. 13 by Superior Court Judge Beach Vasey of Los Angeles County.

Lara, a laborer, was convicted of kidnaping Raymond Mitchell, 19, in his own car at Wilmington, Cal., tying his hands and shooting him to death.

No Recruiting

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, has announced suspension of all on-campus recruiting by military organizations pending assurances from the government that students who interfere with recruiting will not lose their draft deferments.

Head Of Office

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Charles P. Smith of Pacific Palisades has been named head of the newly created State Office of Management Services.

Smith, 35, named yesterday by Gov. Reagan to the $22,500-a-year post, is a technical adviser for System Development Corp. in Santa Monica.

Seizes Stock

SAN BRUNO (AP)—The Bank of America seized the 400-car stock of Peninsula auto dealer Gil Hile Wednesday, explaining "we exercised the right to take our collateral."

Asked whether some financial trouble was involved, a bank spokesman replied, "Basically, you might call it that."

New Research

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Acquisition of a research and teaching device hailed as a "breakthrough" in biological and medical education was announced Wednesday by the University of California at San Diego.

The device, a Mills cinemicrotome, automatically stains, slices and photographs tissues. The filmed sequence then can be projected as a motion picture enabling viewers to "see through" the object under study.

"The potentialities of this equipment for visualizing human and comparative, normal and pathological anatomy of many organs and embryological materials provide a veritable breakthrough in biological and medical education," said Dr. Robert B. Livingston, chairman of the UCSD Department of Neurosciences.

Self-Paying Forecast For New Airport

Marin's new county airport at Novato will be able to pay for its own maintenance and operation from rentals and fees collected airport manager Francis E. Torr predicted yesterday.

Two fixed base operators, who have agreed to put up office buildings and hangars will pay rentals amounting to about $3,000 per year. In addition the county will collect one per cent of the gross receipts of the fixed base operators.

The new airport will have 90 tie-down spaces for private aircraft, with each space renting for $15 per month. If all of these spaces are filled, the county will get $16,000 per year in space rentals, Torr pointed out.

"I think we are safe in saying that the revenues from rentals and receipts will more than offset the operational cost of the airport," Torr concluded.

Undersized Crabs Bring Charge

A Daly City man was charged yesterday in Northwest Marin Justice Court with having 122 undersized crabs near Paper Mill Creek Tuesday in violation of the state fish and game code.

Henry A. Passanisi, 50, was scheduled by Judge David R. Baty for appearance at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Bail was set at $250.

Passanisi was arrested by Game Warden Laighton McLaughlin, but formal charges were not filed until yesterday.

AT REDWOOD HIGH

President Says His School Is Wonderful

By MARY LEYDECKER

"Most of the kids take everything at school for granted," Bob Figari, student body president at Redwood High School says. "They've had everything given to them in elementary school, too, so they don't feel any reason to take care of the school."

Figari, 17-year-old senior, can compare Redwood to private schools because he attended Town School for seventh and eighth grades and Lick-Wilmerding High School during his first two years of high school. Both are private boys' schools in San Francisco.

"The equipment at Redwood is wonderful," he said, "especially in such classes as chemistry." This subject is one of his favorites as he hopes to study medicine in college.

Figari says that probably only about 300 of Redwood's 2,400 students are interested in student government. "We have great officers," he added, but said that general interest in student activities is lacking.

"Getting in with the right group," he said, is what keeps most students from interest in other activities. He said that "school spirit" is something that many students feel they might be critized for by their contemporaries.

The student president sees no problems with hippies at Redwood. "Everyone kind of leaves everyone else alone. Everyone is different," he added. When asked about student dress, he stated that girls are required to wear dresses, and boys shirts and trousers except on Friday when senior girls may wear long pants, and boys, shorts.

Although he himself is busy with studies, athletics and student activities, Figari said that many students are active with political groups.

"There are so many things I'd like to do, but I just don't have time."

"I think most people at Redwood are pretty interested in the outside world," Figari explained, saying that discussion of Vietnam is common in classes.

The senior said he likes going to school with girls after his four years at boys' schools.

He hopes to enter the University of California at Davis and feels his chances are good for getting in as he has a B-plus grade average.

Figari used to work as a bag boy in a San Rafael supermarket but is too busy now with student activities and athletics. He is a swimmer and also plays basketball.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall B. Figari of 40 Delmar Drive, Tiburon.

3 DAYS ONLY!

See how excited our men's wear buyers were the other day . . . and for good reason! They'd made a fantastic purchase of brand new all-wool worsted suits and sportcoats for the San Rafael area store only. We went down and looked over the selection they'd chosen from our regular quality maker, and we, who write the ads, were pretty amazed too! Talk about styles, talk about new shades, talk about a great size range! Well, we both got together and decided to put a bit of our talk and enthusiasm into an ad. Put yourself into your nearby Macy's and see if a bit of excitement doesn't rub off on you. Frankly, we predict a complete sellout — for good reason.

ing tempers in the Middle East is withdrawal of Israeli forces from the lands seized.

It also calls for termination of the Arab state of belligerency against Israel and recognition of the right of all nations in the area "to live in peace within secure and recognized boundaries."

It seeks further to solve two other sources of Middle East friction: the Arab refugee problem, and Israel's claims to the right to use the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba as international waterways.

STICKING POINT

The question of the territory seized by Israel promises to be the main sticking point.

The Israelis have made plain from the start that they have no intention of giving up any part of Jerusalem and have vowed that the city will never again be divided.

Israel has also declared that the west bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip were held by the Arabs not by right but by force and that the 1949 armistice agreements recognizing the Arab occupation of those areas were nullified by what it calls the Arab "aggression" last June.

Indications are that the Israelis will dig into their occupied areas to prod the Arabs into direct peace talks, or failing that settle down to a prolonged occupation.

EXPECTED TO HOLD

The Israelis are also expected to hold on to the east bank of the Suez Canal until they are assured of free passage through the waterways now blocked by the Egyptians.

Jarring, 60-year-old Swedish ambassador to Moscow, speaks Arabic and has traveled or served in various parts of the Middle East as well as many others parts of the world.

Battery, Stereo Taken From Cars

Two car clouts Monday night and Tuesday morning, were reported to sheriff's deputies.

Sandra Murphy said someone took her car battery and replaced it with one that did not fit while the auto was parked in front of her house at 360 Jean Street between 6 and 9:30 p.m.

Robert D. James of 419 Drake Avenue, Marin City, said someone stole the $103.95 stereophonic set from his car while it was parked on the street early Tuesday.

Boat Owner Pulled To Safety On Bay

Herman Bosch, 50, of 11 Meadow Drive, Santa Venetia, was pulled from the bay off China Camp by Marin sheriff's deputies yesterday after his small boat capsized in the wake of a bigger craft, deputies said.

Bosch was taking his 10-foot aluminum craft to a duck blind when it dunked him. He managed to swim to the blind and hold on until help came.

Pair Believed Marijuana Source

Two youths, who San Anselmo police said may have been the chief suppliers of marijuana to Sir Francis Drake High School students, were sent to juvenile court yesterday to face marijuana possession charges.

Thomas David Conner, 18, and Michael John Cardamon, 19, both of 215 Laurel Avenue, San Anselmo, were arrested by San Anselmo police Nov. 11.

Officers said they found large amounts of marijuana and supplies for smoking it in their room. The search came after numbers of youngsters were observed going there at various times.

Police claimed the two said they took money from high school students when they had money and otherwise gave them marijuana.

marijuana, the adult world blows up," Latty said.

Soertaert observed that both parents are working in many cases and giving their children the material things they had not received themselves.

"This means that the kids are not working because the mother is working," he said. This gives them idle time to themselves and less attention from their parents and less of a home life.

"It still remains that the reasons for teen-agers running away are as varied as there are runaways," Latty said.

The kids today are a little different and families are a little different than in the past, he said.

"All the data we have collected for years has not told us anything that will materially help us in coping with the problem of runaways," Latty stated.

So officials themselves are baffled by the rapid increase in juvenile runaways.

Bullet Found In Car's Door

When Shayer O. Robinson of 123 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley, returned from work in San Francisco Tuesday, he found what appeared to be a bullet hole in the left rear door of the car he had been driving.

He called sheriff's deputies, who found a spent projectile imbedded in the padding of the auto's back seat.

Robinson said someone must have shot at the car while he was enroute home.

CYPRUS

Cypriots and two Greek Cypriots were killed.

About 80 per cent of the island's 600,000 inhabitants are Greek Orthodox, the rest Turkish Moslems. The two communities have been in a state of armed truce since a U.N. peace force ended civil war in 1964 that followed the Greek Cypriot majority's revocation of special rights given the Turkish minority.

Following the battle last week, the Turkish government charged that Greece had landed troops on Cyprus in addition to those it is allowed by the Cyprus independence agreement. The Turks said they would send troops to the island if Greek forces were not withdrawn.

GREEK DENIAL

Greece denied she had sent more troops to Cyprus and proposed talks to work out measures to calm the tension and a joint study of ways to ensure the security of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities.

The Turkish Cabinet, following a hard line born of Turkey's superior military position and political tension in Greece since the military coup there, announced after a six-hour meeting it would not wait for more talks.

"The Turkish government," a spokesman said, "is determined to ensure the security of fellow Turks on the island."

In Cyprus, the Turkish minority seemed jubilant over the prospect of a Turkish landing but like their Greek neighbors concerned about their safety if war breaks out.

Greek Cypriots watched developments anxiously while their national guard readied for action. In a move to clear their wards in the event of battle casualties, Greek Cypriot hospitals discharged their patients.

Some 140 U.S. State Department employees and dependents, part of the 1,000 Americans on the island, were evacuated from a radio monitoring station on the north coast facing Turkey and sent to the capital city of Nicosia.

KING'S COUNCIL

In Athens, King Constantine presided over an urgent conference of leaders of the supreme military council and the military regime. The atmosphere in the city was tense and Foreign Minister Panayilotis Pipinelis called for calm.

Greece's armed forces were placed on the alert and military airfields throughout the country were blacked out. Heavy troop movements were reported in northeastern Greece, near the Turkish border, and Turkish forces were believed massing on the other side.

Watch Stolen

Andrew Cedarblade of 49 Vallejo Avenue, San Rafael, complained to the Marin sheriff's office Tuesday that someone stole a $100 watch and $2.75 in change from his car parked on Brighton Street in Bolinas Sunday afternoon.

Phoenix Sails From Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The pacifist American Quakers aboard the yacht Phoenix apparently are returning to Hong Kong after being refused permission to deliver $6,250 worth of medical supplies to the South Vietnamese.

Vietnamese navy boats towed the Phoenix out of Vietnamese waters near Da Nang yesterday, and reliable reports said she was sailing north-northeast today. One of her crew had indicated they might try to go to Saigon.

The Saigon government refused to accept the medicines or let the yacht tie up in Da Nang because her crew offered the cargo to the North Vietnamese first. Hanoi said it wasn't safe for the Phoenix to come to Haiphong because of the threat of American bombing. .

The boat is the same one on which Phillip Drath of San Rafael, with others, took medical supplies to North Vietnam in March.

WAR

14,846 killed, 93,227 wounded and 848 captured or missing. Military spokesmen said South Vietnamese troops last week suffered 269 men killed and 632 wounded with other allied forces losing 10 men killed and 20 wounded.

IN COPTER

Col. James Johnson whirled above the flaming, smoking peak in a helicopter and watched his battalion of paratroopers smash through North Vietnamese bunkers to the front and crush hand grenade attacks from the rear. He ordered helicopters to fetch his conquering troops the turkey dinners cooks had kept warm far below the heights of Hill 875.

But Capt. Leonard radioed from the summit that he wanted something else. 'We are getting some incoming rounds," he shouted into a radio, referring to Communist mortars firing from a nearby hill.

HEAVY FIRE

Moments later the Communist fire died in a tornado of heavy American bombardment.

Bullets from Communist guns still ricocheted in the splintered logs, mangled trenches and mowed bamboo jungle that had been the North Vietnamese fortress. But Leonard's tired men of Bravo claimed the peak.

Down below they could see the ridgeline spot, 300 yards away, where they had started. Just beyond lay the shredded jungle where the lost battalion of paratroopers scored something of a triumph simply by surviving from Sunday through Tuesday—a 50-hour period in which helicopter help could not reach them and in which wounded men died of dehydration.

BODIES STACKED

American bodies, wrapped in green rubber ponchos, had been stacked there when the helicopters finally broke through the Communist fire.

In the air war, U.S. pilots reported bombing North Vietnam Wednesday in raids that hit supply dumps near the major port of Haiphong. They also struck rail yards and a military barracks northwest of Hanoi.

U. S. Air Force B52 Stratofortresses struck North Vietnamese positions poised on South Vietnam's northern frontier, spokesmen said.

Veterans Insurance Dates Announced

Veterans recently separated from the armed services may retain their individual life insurance policy without taking a physical examination, the Veterans Administration reminded former servicemen today.

Veterans have 120 days from the date of their discharge to apply to continue the insurance, if they had it while in service. Veterans may apply to any of the 540 participating insurance companies or may obtain further information from Veterans Administration offices such as the one at 49 Fourth Street, San Francisco.

had been to Dak To and had made an aerial reconnaissance of the battlefield.

MORE KILLED

"With due respect to Gen. Westmoreland," Hartke said, "more people have been killed in Vietnam while he was here telling us about the great victories in that war. The most serious battle of the war has been going on over there in the meantime.

"We have a half million of the best trained American troops there, all our technology, all of our planes, all of the money of the greatest, most powerful nation in the world. Yet, in some way, we do not seem to be able to win because it is that kind of war."

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said his Foreign Relations Committee may learn next week whether Secretary of State Dean Rusk will make a public explanation of the administration's war policies. Rusk has declined previously to testify in open session but told the committee last week he would think the matter over.

'STUPID POLICIES'

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said if Rusk again declines to appear he will push a motion to have Fulbright take the matter up with Johnson. Fulbright, who took occasion to criticize "our stupid policies in Southeast Asia," did not indicate whether he thought such an appeal would be successful.

The Foreign Relations panel filed its formal reports on two proposed resolutions touching on the Vietnam policy controversy.

It termed imperative that the United States take the initiative to bring about a U.S. Security Council vote on peace moves in Vietnam to force member nations to "show the world where they stand" even if an American resolution were rejected.

MANSFIELD TO POSTPONE

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he will call up next week a committee-approved resolution requesting the President to take the initiative in urging United Nations action.

But Mansfield said he will postpone until next year discussion of another committee-backed resolution. It would put the Senate on record in demanding congressional action before the President commits American troops to support any other nation in the future, except in case of attack or to protect U.S. citizens.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, D-Ore., a critic of Johnson's policies, read to the Senate a letter from Marine Capt. Milton G. Kelsey, killed earlier this month in a helicopter accident in Vietnam which also killed Maj. Gen. Bruno Hochmuth and four others.

Hatfield quoted Kelsey as writing in the Nov. 11 letter to his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCormack of Highland, Ind. that parts shortages had grounded "about 60 per cent of our choppers."

Hatfield cited the letter as an example of what he termed failure of costly U.S. defense outlays. He urged a Senate Armed Services Committee probe of the captain's allegations.

High-Speed Chase Ends In Arrest

A Vallejo man was booked into county jail today by the California Highway Patrol for reckless driving and suspicion of possessing marijuana after a high-speed chase on Highway 37.

Patrolman Charles Heart reported that at 1:50 a.m. he chased a car driven by Gary Douglas Price, 26, of Vallejo at speeds up to 100 miles an hour, finally stopping the car at the intersection of Highway 121.

A search revealed three sugar cubes, believed to be LSD, in a brown envelope in one of Price's coat pockets, the officer said. Two hand-rolled cigarettes and a butt which appeared to be made with marijuana were found above the driver's sun visor, according to officers.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Herbert Bayard Swope Is Dead At 77

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Herbert Bayard Swope, widow of the famed newspaperman who won the first Pulitzer Prize, in journalism died early today in Columbia Presbyterian Hospital after an illness of five weeks. She was 77.

Mrs. Swope, witty, petite, brown-haired and brown-eyed, made her home into a gathering place for writers, politicians and intellectuals during the 1920s and 1930s.

Her husband, who died in 1958, won the first Pulitzer Prize in 1917 for a book called "Inside the German Empire." He became executive editor of the New York World in 1921 and was chairman of the state race commission in 1933.

She was born Margaret Honeyman Powell in Far Rockaway, Queens.

Survivors include a son, Herbert Swope Jr., a film and television producer; and daughter, Jane Swope Brandt, both of New York.

Drug Abuse Orientation Program Set

An orientation program in drug abuse will start Saturday in the Board of Supervisers Chambers at the Civic Center.

The program, running from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for three consecutive Saturdays, was announced by Marin County Superintendent of Schools Virgil S. Hollis.

The program has three themes: medical aspects, educational techniques and control, according to Dr. Sanford J. Feinglass who is coordinating drug abuse education for the county schools.

Speakers for this Saturday will include Dr. Daniel C. Beittel, San Rafael psychiatrist, on the subject of narcotic drug addiction; Dr. Kay H. Blacker, senior staff psychiatrist at the Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute, on chronic LSD users; Dr. Gerald Hill, San Rafael psychiatrist, on smoking and health.

Dr. Wendell R. Lipscomb, chief of research at Mendocino State Hospital, on the treatment of alcoholism and Dr. Robert Mogar, associate professor of psychology at San Francisco State College, on psychotropic drugs, methedrine in particular.

Thomas Jefferson for many years kept detailed records of the weather at Monticello, his Virginia estate. For a time he compared his data with a friend's reports for Williamsburg.

Foes To Second Deck Are Due Out In Force

Opponents of a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge should turn out in "a major outpouring" at a meeting of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the administration building at the toll plaza, the Marin Transportation Action Committee urged today.

Directors are to adopt a resolution to shelve the proposed second deck, thus making official the 8-4 vote last Friday when they met as "a committee of the whole" on the resolution by director Thomas D. Hardcastle of Marin.

The resolution makes it district policy to take no further steps toward a second deck until a modern public transportation system is set up and proves unable to relieve congestion without the deck.

"Votes can change and strong pressure will be brought on some directors to switch their vote," the Marin committee warned in a newsletter to members. "If we can hold the present eight votes," it said, "the second deck will be dead for at least a few years."

The committee was formed last month to fight the proposed second deck, and to promote ferry and bus transportation.

The bridge district directors' meeting will be preceded at 10 a.m. by meetings of their finance and auditing committees.

Sewage Systems Proposal Is Due Bolinas Discussion

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District will continue discussion of proposed sewage treatment systems in a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the district office, 270 Elm Road.

The district was told last week by the Regional Water Quality Control Board to resume talks with Stinson Beach County Water District for a joint treatment system before building its planned $236,000 plant for Bolinas alone.

The Stinson Beach board has been invited to a Nov. 29 meetng of the Bolinas board, also at 7:30 p.m. at the Bolinas office, which is to be a continuation of the Nov. 15 meeting.

The Bolinas Board will name two new directors, expanding the board to five members, at the Nov. 29 meeting.

If NEA Backs Teachers' Strikes Can State Group Be Far Behind?

The teachers' strike is no longer "unprofessional" in the eyes of the National Education Association.

In fact, the NEA is now committed to backing strikes by its member teachers, and is building up a war chest with which to do it.

What this mean to California public schools is much greater threat of walkouts by teachers hereafter. Up to now, the only teacher strike in the Golden State has been a brief one last year by a minority of Richmond teachers who were members of the California Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

THE NEA, parent organization of the powerful California Teachers Association, until this year ruled out strikes as "unprofessional." But what was unprofessional in 1966 is no longer so in the fall of 1967, it appears.

The new militancy of the NEA was made plain by its new executive secretary, Sam M. Lambert, in his inaugural address last month in Washington, D.C. He said:

"THE WAVE OF trouble with teachers this fall —the strikes, mass resignations, special meetings and demonstrations involving as many as 35,000 at one time — is just the prelude to really big trouble in the years ahead. . .

"Lest there be some misunderstanding, I want you to know where the NEA stands. It stands solidly behind these teachers, helping to the full extent of all of NEA's financial and manpower resources."

NEA-AFFILIATED teachers figured largely in the strikes at opening of the school year to which Lambert referred. According to a tabulation by Education News, a new McGraw-Hill publication, NEA affiliates went on strike in 25 Michigan districts; in Broward County, Fla.; McCracken County, Ky., and Pike County, Ky. Although these strikes did not get the national attention of the big American Federation of Teachers walkouts in New York and Detroit, they interrupted school for about a quarter of a million children, according to the Education News tabulation.

These strikers presumably received financial help from NEA's DuShane Fund for Teachers Rights. The November issue of the NEA Journal called on every member of the organization to contribute $10 to this fund, which, it said, "provides money for legal fees, subsistence loans, and other emergency needs" but "has been nearly depleted by financial advances made to teachers in at least 26 states since June, 1966."

AS THE NEA claims more than one million members, $10 each would add up to quite a war chest.

In pledging the organization's backing to striking members, executive secretary Lambert was merely implementing a policy which was voted by delegates to the NEA's national convention last June in Minneapolis. The delegates at that time approved support for strikes by local affiliates.

While adopting the strike, NEA has not abandoned "sanctions," the method of persuasion (or coercion) which it formerly contended was professional though strikes were not. Sanctions were invoked briefly this fall against all public schools in Florida, then withdrawn for a promise of greater state financial support.

WHEN SANCTIONS are imposed against a school district (or a state), no NEA member is supposed to sign a contract to teach there.

Lambert's predecessor as NEA executive secretary, William G. Carr, in his annual report last year praised the effectiveness of sanctions while denouncing strikes. "Sanctions," he said, "do not violate contracts, or encounter court injunctions and restraining orders."

THE CALIFORNIA Teachers Association has invoked sanctions against several school districts in the past, following the policy of its parent organization.

Now that the policy of NEA is also to support strikes, it may be fairly assumed that CTA will support strikes, too.

Center Upkeep To Be Studied

Should the Terra Linda Recreation Center grounds and parks maintenance be contracted on a monthly basis?

This will be discussed by the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District board at 8 p.m. Monday at the Terra Linda Community Center.

If the maintenance is to be handled through a contract, a reorganization of district personnel will be required, chairman Norman Gurin said.

Psychiatric Examination Is Canceled

The order for a psychiatric examination of Dr. Henry Chaker, accused of over-charging county welfare patients, was canceled yesterday by Marin Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating.

A jury trial on grand theft charges was scheduled for Nov. 29 at 10 a.m. before Keating.

The jurist ordered the psychiatric examination, on request of Chaker's attorney, George T. Davis, after an incident in chambers Nov. 15, as jury selection for the doctor's trial was about to begin.

Chaker later said he had told the judge he wanted to renounce his citizenship and return to his native Lebanon. American doctors in Lebanon, he reported telling Judge Keating, "should be retaliated against" for the treatment he has received here.

Chaker, formerly of Novato, has a $5 million suit pending against what he asserts is a "personal society" of Marin physicians and hospitals.

The Shell Beach, San Luis Obispo County, physician claims the "society" blocked his right to practice.

Probation And Fine On Drunken Driving

James Russell McElhattan II, 37, of 31 Jewell Street, San Rafael, was placed on six months probation and fined $289 for drunken driving yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

The California Highway Patrol arrested him Saturday on Highway 101.

Nothing like the I-J to produce store traffic and profitable sales

Puts your ads in the most powerful reading light in Marin--42,661 volts*

It's no secret why the I-J brings results. Our 42,661 subscribers turn on the bright light of readership . . . enough "volts" so that your store, your merchandise, is seen from one end of the county to the other.

This BIG READING LIGHT turns on every night in 7 out of every 10 homes in Marin . . . by far the brightest and biggest of any advertising medium here. No wonder ads are seen, read, discussed– and acted upon!

Realize that you're not buying space, but TRAFFIC . . . direct interest in news of your store, your merchandise, your quality, your prices. For the I-J is the home newspaper with the powerful current of local appeal connecting you to the reader.

Now is the time to think about adequate promotion. Are you keeping YOUR store in the bright, white light of public buying interest? Is your merchandise in the dark– or where people can see it? Are you consistent enough with your ads, so that people don't forget you? And above all, do you want your sales to grow?

If you're progressive, put that 42,661 volts to work for you. Turn on the lights . . . let the buyers SEE you! The I-J's professional staff will help you make a solid connection– fast.

SHORT SKIS

Practice skiing on your 10-minute coffee break? Learn to ski in one day? In your living room?

Believe it or not, this is true and now possible, according to a six-foot-two-inch mountaineer and ski instructor from Brattleboro, Vermont, Clif Taylor. He has introduced to the sport—at Aspen, Colorado—short skis only 33 inches in over-all length. He assures beginners to the slopes, and novices to any sport, that they can ski in one day—with control—on his short skis.

Instruction and the learning process, he claims, can be accomplished on a 10-minute coffee break at the office, or in the quiet of your own living room. Taylor offers a kit to novices: an Indoor Parallel Ski-in-a-Day Lesson Kit.

The lesson involves standing on a pair of fiberboard skis (supplied), with their tips pointed toward a printed "parallel turn meter". A phonograph (yours) is turned on and a record (supplied) is played. The record describes the action. With friendly voices, incidentally, belonging to known radio and TV personalities.

"Parallel Skiing" is a term applied to turning with both feet together, rather than "stemming" or "snowplowing"—long-ski terms, where the feet are separated. Parallel skiing looks more graceful, and is usually the mark of an expert, according to Clif Taylor.

Short skis—and their use, as tutored by the Taylor instruction system—help in easy and quick learning of the basic method used by olympic skiers and ski racers.

With our own winter just around the slope, one might say, maybe we'll hie ourselves to the nearest snow-capped mountain and give those little flat boards a go . . . If you're game, join us!

Short Stop Opening Third Store; Warenback Joins New TV Station

Now planning to open its third food market in Marin County is Short Stop, Inc., headquartered at Concord.

This one will be at 1601 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, at the southwest corner of Drake and Kent Avenue in Farifax. The property is now vacant and a new building will be constructed with off-street parking in front. An application has been made for an off-sale wine and beer license and an opening is anticipated in about 60 days. It will be company-operated — not a franchised store.

Short Stop now has stores in San Rafael and Novato and 25 others throughout Northern California.

FIRST REACTION on the part of homeowners and apparently some general contractors to the new "notice law" under which subcontractors and material-men are obliged to give written notices within 20 days of any work performed or materials delivered is either confusion or annoyance — or both.

The subcontractors are finding themselves in a tight squeeze. Some are being told arbitrarily by their prime contractors to discontinue sending such notices or they will be "cut off from further work."

But Sections 4209 and 4210 of the California Government Code require them to send out three notices: To the property owner, to the general contractor and to the lending institution (if any) — otherwise they are subject to disciplinary action by the Contractor's Board.

A homeowner can be excused for not understanding the situation. But no contractor should take out his annoyance on the subs because he didn't bother to read the law.

MEL S. WARENBACK of Terra Linda has joined the new San Francisco UHF television station KBHK-TV, Channel 44 of Kaiser Broadcasting Corp. The station goes on the air Jan. 1. Warrenback, who has been asstant advertising director for F. W. Woolworth Co. in 11 western states, was a candidate for the Marin County Board of Supervisors last year. Before joining Woolworth he operated his own advertising and art agency for 13 years in San Francisco.

REAL ESTATE appraiser and consultant David F. Benson has moved from 402 D Street to larger quarters at 1010 B Street, San Rafael. His appraisal staff has been increased to cover the fields of machinery and equipment and business evaluation.

WILLIAM K. KITCHEN of Santa Venetia, a staff member and officer of the Canners League of California, will be installed as president of the Northern California Society of Association Executives in San Francisco. He is also an officer of the Santa Clara County Canners Association and executive secretary of the Northern California section.

GEORGE R. PAOLINI of Novato has been cited as the leading salesman in Northern California for the Lake Los Angeles planned community in Los Angeles County, with sales totaling $400,000. He has been in land development since 1962. Last spring he joined his cousin Fred E. Paolini's firm in San Francisco. He was formerly sales manager for Perma-Bilt Enterprises, Inc.

MEETINGS, Louis F. Czufin of San Anselmo, manager of advertising and public relations for Chevron Chemical Co., will address the Association of Industrial Advertisers at the University Club, San Francisco at a lunch meeting Dec. 11. . . . G. C. Rear, manager of the Northgate branch of the Morris Plan Co. of California, recently attended the company's two-day managers conference at Solvang.

Sears Reports Record Quarter

CHICAGO (BW) — Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s net income established a record for the third quarter, it has been announced.

Net income for the nine months ended Oct. 31 was slightly lower than a year ago.

Third quarter net income was $76,569,000, or 50 cents per share, an increase of 3.5 per cent over net income of $74,007,000, or 48 cents per share last year.

Sears noted that this represented the first increase in profits over the previous year since the second quarter of 1966.

Utah Construction Debentures Offering

NEW YORK — Public offering of $25 million Utah Construction and Mining Co. 5 per cent convertible subordinated debentures, due Nov. 1, 1992, is being made by an underwriting group jointly headed by Dean Witter and Co. and Lehman Bros. at a price of 100 per cent plus accrued interest.

Net proceeds from the offering will be used for expansion of existing mining projects, principally coal, and for construction and land development activities.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Avoiding Speculation Is Commendable Idea

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own Eastman Kodak, California Standard, Marine Midland, UTD Corp. and White Motor. I have insurance and ample savings. I want growth and income since, when I do retire, I will get no pension. Should I invest available cash in any more of the foregoing stocks or would you suggest a change? I cannot afford to speculate in any degree.—R.P.

A. You have selected a sound list of stocks and I commend you for refusing to speculate. This is a form of activity which is rarely profitable except for unusually lucky, well-informed or well-advised people. I advise no great change in your present holdings which, on the whole, seem suitable for your objective. I like Marine Midland for its good dividend and very high quality, but from the standpoint of profitability the stock has been a slow performer over the past decade. In your particular circumstance, I would be inclined to switch it into Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust, largest in Chicago, which has nearly doubled in price in the past decade. With your available cash, I believe you should increase diversification and I suggest a stock with lower yield but a strong growth potential. My selection would be Walgreen which sells at a reasonable multiple of its expected earnings this fiscal year.

Q. I have $5,000 to invest in bonds. Do you consider these a stable investment and what issues do you recommend?—G.C.

A. Stability is a relative term. Bonds are more stable than stocks, but bonds themselves have been subject to wide variations in recent years. The price of bonds is determined largely by the supply of money and its rate. You can buy Philadelphia Electric 1st 6 ⅛s of 1997 at about 98 to yield 6.25%, but there is no certainty that their price will hold if money continues to harden. If you want absolute stability, I advise you to buy Series E or H savings bonds.

(Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally, but will answer all questions possible in his column.)

Sales Off But Income Rising

CLEVELAND (BW) — White Consolidated Industries, Inc., has reported increased net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, even though sales for the period declined.

The company reported that consolidated sales totaled $110,708,007 with net income of $7,471,635, before extraordinary income of $800,000.

Net income per share of common stock, equaled $2.01 per share (excluding extraordinary income of 24 cents per share), compared to income of $1.91 per share (excluding 37 cents of extraordinary income) for the same period in 1966.

Money's Not Evil, And It's Essential

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Money is the root of all evil, somebody once said, and after the British pound devaluation there are many who are quite willing to believe it.

Not by a fraction, however, do they compare with the millions now confused by the subject. Clear up the confusion and it becomes clear also that money, rather than being evil, is essential to economic health.

But what is it?

Money is a convenience to facilitate trade. It is a symbol of a nation's economic health or illness. It is a symbol of productivity, a claim on goods, a device that helps you convert your labor into something you desire.

WITHOUT MONEY

Some primitive societies have gotten along without money for awhile. They barter, just as the white settlers of America bartered beads for Indian lands. But an all-barter society remains a primitive society.

In a developed society, and especially in trade among developed societies, bartering is nearly impossible, although it does exist. Instead, symbols are used. That is, a goods or service is sold in return for a paper guaranteed to buy a certain amount of other goods and services.

Money permits specialization of functions. It creates middlemen who really don't want to consume your goods but who wish to store them or resell them elsewhere. It also eliminates the urgency of time, for money can be saved.

THREE REASONS

Money, therefore, enables everyone in society to exchange his labor or products for something he needs or wants. It relieves the seller of trying to find a specific someone willing to buy what he offers and willing to repay in what he needs.

Three of the most important functions of money are: money as a medium of exchange, as a measure of value, and as a storer of value — savings — for possible use later.

Now, as long as the society's supply of money continues to grow in relation to its productivity, most people remain confident that they can exchange their money for an equivalent in products and services.

However — and now we apply theory to current conditions — if the supply of money is permitted by a government to grow faster than its production of goods and services, as in the United States, then the value of money is diluted. It has an inflated value. It won't purchase as much as it did before. Confidence wanes.

Norris Sets Preferred Stock Issue

LOS ANGELES — Shareholders of Norris Industries at their annual meeting authorized the issuance of a new class of preferred stock.

The new stock, issuable in series by the board of directors, consists of five million shares without par value.

It will "provide additional funds for working capital and or capital expenditures, and for other purposes including acquisitions of other businesses," officials said.

Norris Industries established record highs in sales and earnings for its first quarter, company spokesmen reported.

For the three months ended Oct. 31, net income was $3,328,000, or $1.26 per common share, on sales of $61,640,000.

The results represent a gains of 98 per cent over the net income of $1,681,000, or 64 cents per common share, posted for the like period a year earlier. Sales increased 83 per cent over the $33,729,000 of the comparable quarter in fiscal 1967.

Teen-Age Girls Hurt As Auto Rolls On 101

Two teen-age girls were injured when their car glanced off another, bounced into a guard rail and overturned several times on Highway 101, just north of the Linden Lane undercrossing in San Rafael, last night.

The California Highway Patrol said a car driven by Florence W. Pearce, 17, of 143 Blackstone Drive, Marinwood, collided with a car driven by Robert A. Meadows, 39, of Petaluma, as both were traveling south at 7:50 p.m.

The Pearce car, passing on the right, apparently drifted into Meadows' lane and bounced off his right front door before careening into the guard rail at west side of the highway, officers said. Miss Pearce, who suffered a cut finger, was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Her passenger, Pamela J. Davis, 18, of 337 Holly Drive, Terra Linda, who suffered cuts and bruises, was reported in fair condition at the hospital.

Exec In Bombing Of Plane Is Free On $100,000 Bail

CHICAGO (UPI) — A bottling plant executive charged with planting a bomb aboard a jet airliner which carried his wife and 79 other persons was free on partial payment of his $100,000 bond today.

Earle Theadore Cook, 37, Suburban Naperville, went free yesterday after U.S. District Judge Richard B. Austin ruled that a $10,000 payment would be enough.

Cook, a $15,900-a-year manager of a Coca-Cola bottling plant in suburban St. Charles, is charged with placing a bomb aboard an American Airlines Boeing 727 Nov. 19. The bomb exploded in a baggage compartment while the plane was en route from Chicago to San Diego but not much damage was done and no one was hurt.

The plane landed safely at its destination.

The FBI said a man said Cook, on a number of occasions had asked him to kill his sickly wife for him, and at one time had offered him $2,000 to do it.

Cook's wife, a former elementary school teacher, was last reported at her parents' home outside San Diego, recuperating from an illness which forced her to be hospitalized off and on since last spring.

Fern Kills Bugs By Rapid Aging

WASHINGTON (SS) — The bracken fern produces hormones that protect it against insects, agricultural scientists find.

The fern produces two strong hormones that cause the insect to molt.

Certain other plants contain similar substances but bracken fern is the first known plant source of two insecticide chemicals. Before an insect can cause serious damage to the fern, the substances make the insect molt prematurely and die without maturing.

Woman Injured As Car Hits Tree

A San Rafael woman was hospitalized early today when her eastbound car veered off North San Pedro Road and hit a tree two blocks east of the Civic Center.

California Highway Patrol said the accident occurred at 3:10 a.m.

The driver, Joyce Bradford, 35, of 705 Adrian Way, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital with possible head injuries and a possible shoulder fracture.

Pleads Guilty In Check Forgery

Harry Burt Jacobson, 48, former Sausalito resident, pleaded guilty to a charge of felony check forgery in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

The district attorney's office said it will recommend his case be handled as a misdemeanor when Jacobson reports to Superior Court for sentencing Dec. 18. A second count of forgery on his complaint was dismissed.

Jacobson, of Carson City, Nev., was arrested on a Sausalito police department warrant in Twin Falls, Ida.

He was charged with passing checks under the name of his former employer, Jean Smith, co-owner of the Hurrican Gulch Cleaning Center at Second and Valley Streets, Sausalito.

Pleads Innocent To Forging Check

Judy Ann Wells, 24, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of forging a $25 check July 29 with intent to defraud Montgomery Ward and Co. in Corte Madera.

Miss Wells, of 2 Oak Avenue, San Rafael, is to appear at 9:30 a.m. Dec. 4 for a preliminary hearing.

Astronomy Study Session Slated

The Star Observers of Marin, an astronomy study group, will have a session of observing at 170 Hillside Avenue, San Rafael, on the evening of Dec. 1, weather permitting.

The group will have its annual Christmas dinner Dec. 16, reported Mel Back, secretary.

Woman Suspected In Forged Check

Shirley Jean Fabian, 22, of 18 Crestwood Drive, San Rafael, was arrested by San Rafael police yesterday on suspicion of forgery and possession of a forged check with intent to pass it.

Police aid she passed a fraudulent payroll check from Mahoney Painting of San Rafael at the Bret Harte Supermarket Tuesday for $85.50.

Police booked Miss Fabian at county jail and Superior Judge Thomas F. Keating ordered her released on her own recognizance.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

Legislators observed the first day of a three-day holiday today before returning for Sunday evening sessions in which the Assembly is expected to renew its partisan battle over reapportionment and Medi-Cal.

THE ASSEMBLY

Put AB 3, Fenton, the congressional reapportionment bill, on inactive file, allowing revival later.

Amended AB 5, Veneman, so that all money raised from the closing of a tax loophole on personal income tax will go to the Medi-Cal program.

Bill introduced:

Medi-Cal — Allows borrowing of $35 million from special state fund to cover Medi-Cal deficit, calls for program review in 1968; AB 7, Ralph, D-Los Angeles.

Resolution introduced:

Audit — Orders independent audit of Medi-Cal, and asks governor to restore previous cuts; ACR 10, Burton, D-San Francisco.

THE SENATE

Motion to reconsider granted:

Reapportionment — Condemns State Supreme Court for ardering congressional reapportionment this year, rejected Tuesday; SCR 5, Schmitz, R-Tustin.

Resolution adopted:

Sonoma — Calls for immediate investigation of conditions for the mentally retarded at Sonoma and Napa State Hospitals; SR 23, Collier, D-Yreka.

Reed Trustees Agree To Lease Portable Rooms

Trustees of Reed School District Tuesday approved the leasing of two portable classrooms for Granada School to relieve an enrollment problem, according to Supt. H. Joe Edington.

Approval was conditional on a "more detailed cost analysis" by Edgington to lower, if possible, his estimated cost of $5,500.

The portables will be used until a permanent addition is completed next September, Edington said.

Ron Young, architect for the new Reedland Woods School, was hired last night to also design the new cluster for Granada School, for a fee of eight per cent of the total price of the addition.

Bond monies will provide $175,000 for the addition, making the architect's fee $14,000.

Domestic Sues For $100,000

A San Rafael couple was sued for $100,000 yesterday by their former domestic employee who claims she was badly burned Dec. 12 1966, when a vacuum bag she was emptying exploded.

Named as defendants are Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon Brown of 1235 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

The plaintiff, Everlean Jones, alleges the Browns asked her to empty the bag into an incinerator which still contained hot ashes. The bag exploded, burning her badly over the body, the suit says.

Mrs. Jones asks $100,000 general damage and unspecified amounts for medical expenses and loss of income.

WINNER AGAIN — Don Micheletti, 13, of Terra Linda, backhands an Independent-Journal onto a front porch after being named "Carrier of the Month" for November — his fifth such honor. (Independent-Journal photo)

Carrier Of The Month Has A Purpose In Life

Don Micheletti is a 13-year-old Terra Linda boy with a purpose in life.

Competing with more than 800 other industrious Independent-Journal newsboys, he has been named "Carrier of the Month" for November — the fifth time he has won the honor in 13 months.

Don also has won 19 monthly achievement awards, for which carriers must meet strict requirements: at least three new subscriptions a month, all bills paid early in the month, and no more than one complaint a month. The "Carrier of the Month" is selected from boys winning monthly awards, and also wins a $25 savings bond.

BORN SALESMEN

Don is a born salesman, having sold 140 new subscriptions just this year. One month, he got 30. "I ask a lot of people," he says. And none of Don's customers has complained once about his service.

Don, an eighth grade pupil at Vallecito School in Terra Linda, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Micheletti, 6 Trellis Drive. His father is an assistant cashier for a San Rafael bank.

Don is an old hand at the carrier business — he started in third grade when he took over the neighborhood route held for four years by his older brother, Tom. Since then, Don has built the route from 35 to 58 home delivery customers. He also sells about 35 papers a day from newspaper racks.

All this work takes him only about 15 minutes a day, Don says, "including folding, if I hurry." He also won top honors the past two years in the I-J's newspaper folding and throwing contests.

Don makes about $40 a month — which he is saving for college. "And there's no tax," he adds.

Don plans to be a forest ranger "in Yellowstone, or some state park, or anyplace that will have me." He says he's particularly interested in "conservation and wildlife sorts of things. I like the outdoors, and I like animals," he adds.

THREE TIMES'

Don credits his dealer, Knight (Mickey) Parsons "with all my success." Parsons tips him off to possible new customers, Don says, but Parsons insists "Don is the one who gets them."

Don has missed winning the monthly achievement award only three times since it was started, once when he was away, and twice "before I caught on."

His "worst problem," Don concedes, "is customers who don't pay on time."

To top off his honors, Don was among 43 carriers who flew Sunday to Los Angles for a day at Disneyland, their prize for getting 18 or more subscriptions during a recent six-week contest. He also went last year.

Carrying newspapers is a six-day-a-week profession, and Don concedes he looks forward to Sunday afternoons "just to goof around."

The term "hot dog" is attributed to sports cartoonist T.S. Dorgan "Tad" who first used it in 1903.

Another Round Of Talks Due On Middle School

The Mill Valley School District board will again discuss the proposed middle school at Project 17 when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday at Park School.

The board and the city council have nearly reached an agreement on a land exchange for the project.

The board will also hold a special meeting Dec. 4 at a time and place to be announced to hear results of soil tests taken on two parcels at Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue, where the school is to be built if it goes on Project 17.

Tests have been made on one acre owned by Adolph Biggio, but owners of the other 2.6 acres, Mary Biggio and her son, David, reportedly have refused to allow soil borings unless the school district makes a firm offer to buy the land.

State Spending Slightly Up

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State spending during the first third of this fiscal year increased slightly and income increased considerably, compared with the same period last fiscal year.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy said Wednesday that state income from July through October of this year was $734.6 million — a boost of 29.7 per cent over the same period of 1966. The increase is due in part of the recent new taxes.

Spending increased 9.2 per cent, for a total outflow of $969.8 million.

No Objections Received On Fill For Tiburon Road

No objections to placing fill along the Tiburon Peninsula for a future four-lane highway had been received by the Army Corps of Engineers by deadline date yesterday.

The State Division of Highways has requested a three-year extension of its permit to dump approximately 450,000 cubic yards of fill to a height of 15 feet above mean lower low water lever.

The fill project begun in 1964 is about half completed, the highway division reported. The fill will be along Richardson Bay from Trestle Glen Boulevard to San Rafael Avenue in Belvedere. The highway would be constructed on the fill then turn inland to end at Main Street, Tiburon.

A spokesman for the corps of engineers said he did not know when corps officials would make a decision on whether to allow continuance of the fill. Objections could be on the question of whether the fill would adversely affect navigation, recreation, wildlife, water purity, aesthetics or ecology.

The division of highways also must obtain fill permission from the Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission.

Awning Sign Wins Approval

Tiburon Board of Design Review Tuesday night approved an awning sign for the Home and Land Co., 1690 Tiburon Boulevard, according to development administrator Phil V. Scott.

Approval was granted also to Fred Zelinsky to construct additions to the Maritime Building, 1640 Tiburon Boulevard, redesign the Sawtooth roof line.

Anthony Marelich was given permission to construct three apartment units at Mariner Way and Harbor Oak Drive.

Boat Speed Limit Set For Lagoon

A five-mile per hour limit for boats operating in Bolinas Lagoon was set last night by directors of the Bolinas Harbor District.

Directors named Lawrence Bauer of Bolinas, operator of a commercial fishing boat there, to act as unsalaried patrolman for the lagoon.

Agricultural Specialist To Give View On Vietnam

An agricultural specialist who has worked in Vietnam for nine years before resigning as head of International Voluntary Services (IVS) will speak in Belvedere Sunday on "Vietnam: An Inside View."

Don Luce, formerly head of IVS in Vietnam, an aid group organized by Stanford University and financed by the U. S. government, will speak at 7 p.m. at Whitaker Hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Luce went to Vietnam with the program nine years ago after gaining a degree in agricultural economics at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., and later became its chief. He resigned recently, along with three other senior staff members of the organization, in protest of U. S. policy.

His talk will be sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee.

Board Of Appeals Reduced Marin Taxes By $8,000

The Marin County Assessment Appeals Board, which has heard 214 tax appeals, has granted reductions amounting to $8,000 in taxes. It has reduced assessed valuations by $80,000.

The board still has 673 applications for assessment reductions to process.

In addition, 556 applications for reductions have been settled by stipulation between the assessor's office and the individual taxpayers. These amount to $80,000 in reduced taxes, or $820,000 in assessed valuation.

The total tax levy for the county is about $49 million.

The board, which ordinarily meets Friday, will not meet tomorrow, because of Thanksgiving.

Car Stop Brings Marijuana Arrest

An East Bay youth, stopped by the California Highway Patrol for mechanical violations on his car, was booked into county jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

Officer Kenneth D. Parker reported he stopped the car of Frederick Elmer Hitzeman, 19, on Highway 101 at Marin City at 5:50 p.m.

Checking the car, which allegedly had a defective tail light, inoperative brake lights, horn and hand brake, Officer Parker said he saw a half-smoked, hand-rolled cigarette which appeared to contain marijuana on the floor of the auto.

Parker told the officer the cigarette butt did not belong to him. His bail was set at $625 and he was to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow.

Medi-Cal, Remapping Battles To Continue

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblymen face a renewed, partisan battle over Medi-Cal and congressional reapportionment when the Legislature returns from its three-day Thanksgiving holiday Sunday evening.

Assembly Democrats and Republicans bitterly debated both items yesterday. The hassle delayed a decision on reapportionment and set the stage for angry disagreement over financing the state's plan of medical care for the poor.

Republicans continued to boycott a congressional reapportionment plan designed to preserve seats of incumbent congressmen.

WINS SUPPORT

The Democratic - sponsored measure won bipartisan support in the Senate as the best way to satisfy a State Supreme Court ultimatum that the Legislature reapportion U.S. House districts by Dec. 7.

Meanwhile, Democrats staunchly insisted the state pump some $35 million of new money into an expected Medi-Cal deficit, thus blocking the administration's plans to cut back service.

Gov. Reagan's administration prepared proposals designed to overcome a State Supreme Court ruling against its cuts in Medi-Cal without spending more money.

TO INTRODUCE

Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-San Diego, said he will introduce the governor's Medi-Cal legislation early next week.

The Legislature is forced to return Sunday evening by a rule technicality. Members had hoped to have reapportionment wrapped up by now and be adjourned.

With addition of Medi-Cal to the special session call, "now we're hoping to wind things up before Christmas," said the Assembly's Republican leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy.

Burgener said three Medi-Cal bills are being drafted — to shorten Medi-Cal billing time from six months to 60 days, to make sure 160,000 medically indigent persons would not be dropped from Medi-Cal, and to clarify the Legislature's intent for Medi-Cal cutbacks.

Last Monday, the State Supreme Court ruled that the Reagan administration strayed from legislative guidelines in cutting Medi-Cal spending to keep in within a $600 million limit for 1967-68.

It's urgent, Reagan said, that the legislature give him authority to go ahead with the cuts as planned.

But Democrats and some Republicans questioned the urgency of the situation and the administration's latest estimate that Medi-Cal faces a $71 million deficit instead of the $210 million previously estimated.

"I'm not ready to concede there is a deficit in the Medi-Cal program," said one of Reagan's fellow Republicans, Assemblyman John G. Veneman of Modesto.

UNRUH VIEW

Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh accused the Reagan administration yesterday of juggling Medi-Cal figures.

"If the fact that money isn't available in the Medi-Cal program is the only reason the governor says we have to cut people off the rolls, then I say let's give it to him," said Unruh, D-Inglewood.

Unruh then successfully pushed through an amendment to a bill Reagan wanted in order to close a $25 million to $50 million "loophole" in the new tax law. The amendment, passed on a 37-32 partisan vote, now earmarks those funds to offset any Medi-Cal deficit.

Two other Assembly Democrats introduced legislation to cancel the administration's Medi-Cal cuts. Assemblyman Leon Ralph, Los Angeles, proposed that the state borrow $35 million of its own special funds to finance Medi-Cal while John Burton of San Francisco proposed full restoration of Medi-Cal services until the Legislature determines the exact financial position of the program.

Formal Complaint Filed Against Garnet Brennan

The Nicasio School District Board filed a formal complaint in Marin Superior Court yesterday to dismiss Garnet E. Brennan, their marijuana-smoking school principal.

The board asked the court to find their charge that Mrs. Brennan's affadavit admission of 18 years of marijuana smoking, contrary to state law, constituted immoral conduct and is true.

It also seeks court affirmation that this is sufficient grounds for dismissal and that the board has authority to fire Mrs. Brennan.

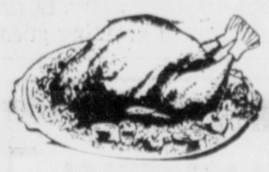
Center, big, bold bands of sunshine color accent White Stag's Signal Top of shantung terry. The slim, seaworthy, pull-on boy shorts are cut in the same lustrous cotton knit. At right, a crisp tennis pantdress by Internationale Set plays a cool game. Shown in citrus yellow, paired with white, the banded neck gets the victory sign for the sleeveless pullover.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

A Change Of Pace Party On The Bay



By MOLLY MARIN

Seven marin women who formed a "Hiking and Toasting Society" closed their first season of hikes along Marin nature trails with a change of pace party Saturday. The group cruised the Bay on the "Konel," owned by Ben Ballard, and had dinner at San Francisco Yacht Club, Belvedere, where the club president, Mrs. Helen Swanson of Tiburon, awarded trophies for performance and endurance.

The women's weekly hiking excursions have taken them up Mount Tam's most rugged slopes, Bear Valley's eight mile trek to the sea and along the historic Dipsea Trail to Stinson Beach. They are so enthusiastic about their new activity that they are seriously considering entering one of their members in the Dipsea Trail race next spring. Members are Mesdames Richard Vulte, Mill Valley; Ben Ballard, Ross; Thomas D. Woodward, Belvedere; Marilyn Fischer, Strawberry; Robert Ragland, Ross; and Caryl Coleman, Ross.

MEMBERS OF THE Howard family gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Howard in Tiburon for brunch Sunday to greet Lt. Joseph C. Howard Jr., who is on leave after returning from duty in Vietnam. During his month of leave he toured Europe, and soon leaves for Fort Lewis, Wash., where he has been reassigned. Also a houseguest is Mrs. Howard's daughter, Vicki Sexton of Provo, Utah. The 20 family members came from San Francisco, Belvedere, Hillsborough and San Mateo for the reunion.

THE ELLIOT Seymours of Tiburon have just returned from Santa Barbara and La Jolla where they celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with old friends. The William Jagers of Newport, who helped them celebrate, flew to the Bay Area for the big game Saturday with the Seymours, then onto dinner at Ondine's.

THE LEONARD Blakelys have returned to Sausalito from their seasonal trip to Palm Springs, where they were joined this year by the James Betts of Mill Valley.

THE GUS NIEDERHOLZERS of Kentfield will be having one of the larger Thanksgiving dinners in Marin, with some 25 guests invited.

OLD FRIENDS who traditionally celebrate Thanksgiving together will be meeting at the home of Thomas Lacey in Belvedere this Thursday. The Wallace Boyers, former Belvedere residents, are coming from Riverside to join the group, which includes Mrs. B. G. Johnson, Mrs. Margaret Wilson, the Jack Welisches, Richard Ollers, and Russell Gomezes, all of Belvedere.

A MOVE FROM Salem, Ore., to Eureka brings Mr. and Mrs Jefferson D. Lamoree closer to Belvedere where Jeff grew up. The couple will spend Thanksgiving with Jeff's family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lamoree in Belvedere.

THANKSGIVING DINNER at Corinthian Yacht Club is attracting some local families. Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Stannard Jr. of Tiburon will be joined by Mr. Stannard's father, Milton L. Stannard of Glendale, their son, Bruce, home from California Western University in San Diego, and their older son and his wife and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Stannard and Susan of Tiburon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cutler of Mill Valley will also host a table at the yacht club.

THE REX BRUNSINGS and Frank Colvans are combining forces to celebrate Thanksgiving with a large family group at the Brunsing home in Belvedere. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lucich are entertaining family members from Sacramento at Thanksgiving dinner at their home on the Belvedere Lagoon.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD Friedman of Tiburon are giving the Thanksgiving dinner for 20 family members.

A HOLIDAY TRIP is in store for Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Frisbee of Belvedere who leave in early December for a stay in Puerta Vallarta . . . Mrs. Mark Noble of Belvedere will visit relatives in San Miguel, Mexico, next month.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT C. Reed of Mill Valley will be spending Thanksgiving in Yosemite skiing, "if there is snow," they say hopefully. This is a regular Thanksgiving holiday for them and their two children, Ron and Debbie.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Teen-Agers Tell Of Many Things They Are Thankful For Today

DEAR HELEN:

You always have a "Nothing But the Good" column on Christmas. Couldn't you have the same thing on Thanksgiving, except just for teens? — HOW ABOUT IT?

DEAR HOW:

And How! (An elderly slang expression meaning "Boss idea!") Forthwith:

DEAR HELEN:

I'm writing this to set girls with kid brothers straight. They aren't that bad. I have a 13-year-old brother with a paper route. He's always willing to lend me money, at only a small interest rate. He even does his share of the housework, if I feed him constantly.

He can repair anything, from an earring to a broken heel. And he'll do it, too, because I have learned the secret: Praise and appreciation. I think his jokes are funny, and I think he's great, and I let him know it. BROTHER APPRECIATOR

DEAR HELEN:

We were married when I was 17 and my husband was barely 18. We've had our share of troubles, but you know, Helen, we're envied by all our friends and relatives. We never have fights, they say. Ha! Of course we do, but even in the midst of a battle royal, we know that we truly love each other and are just letting off steam.

We share everything, even those nutty little thoughts that ordinary people would think silly. Hes' my best and most loyal friend. He's my date on special evenings. He doesn't bring me flowere or candy (I'd faint if he did), but my biggest moment in the day is when he walks in the door and says, "Hi, honey, I'm home!"

While I won't ever recommend teen marriages to our children, I know they can work. Ours has, for nine years, and it gets better all the time. — MRS. H. D. W.

DEAR HELEN:

Here's one for your Teen Boost of the Month. Each year the Luther League, a teen youth organization of Gethsemane Lutheran Church in San Antonio, Texas, has a milk drive. They collect canned evaporated milk for babies in our welfare centers. This year their goal was 350 cans, but their enthusiasm was so contagious that, when the count was made, they found they had 20 cases — 1,000 cans. They certainly spread the milk of human kindness! —CHURCH MEMBER

DEAR HELEN:

So often you have letters from teens who can't get with their parents. So I want to tell you about a very happy family — my own.

There are 10 of us. We are all very close. Whenever we have a problem we can go to our parents without fear of being shunned. They listen and they help. Sure we have disagreements. We're human. But we discuss them and you'd be surprised at how often we learn to laugh at them.

We all help areound the house, and sometimes we get in our mother's way but she doesn't mind. Just as long as we are happy, she and my father are too.

Some of the kids who complain "My folks don't understand me" should try to understand their folks first. That usually helps. At least in our family it does. — PAT

DEAR HELEN:

I'm an average female teenager. Like others, I'm not sure of myself or my decisions. My Mom is the greatest. She has never treated me as a stupid child who wouldn't know trouble if it sat on her. She knows more about my faults, assets, failures, triumphs and many problems than anyone else does. She may not be perfect (she's the first to admit it), but she lets me think for myself and with just the right amount of help.

I just want to thank her for being my friend, my doctor, my lawyer, my psychiatrist — and, most of all, my mother! — R. G. K.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

COTILLION DEB HONORED

San Francisco Cotillion Debutante Molly Wheary, center, who grew up in Belvedere, was honored by her former neighbors at a tea yesterday hosted by Mrs. Edwin G. Weed. Assisting their mother in greeting guests were Cynthia, left, and Margot Weed. Molly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wheary of San Francisco and Stinson Beach. The honor guest is a freshman at the University of California and is a pledge of Kappa Kappa Gamma. (Independent-Journal photo)

Club Will Hold A Holiday Display

Sausalito Woman's Club members will show their work in an arts, crafts and Christmas display on Nov. 30 at 2:30 p.m. at the clubhouse. Tea served from 2 until 4 p.m.

Works shown will include paintings, calligraphy, drawings, plastics, clay sculpture and pottery, embroidery, weaving and other examples of fine art and craftwork.

Members whose imaginations spark at holiday time will exhibit unusual Christmas trees, wreaths, swags for the front door, fancy candles, wrapped packages, decorated living plants, tree ornaments and many other colorful items for holiday dressing-up.

Entries are to be submitted Tuesday from 10 a.m. through 1 p.m. at the club.

Chairmen and committee members planning the display are Mesdames Perry L. Brock, Edward D. Bronson Jr., George R. Chapman, Francis J. Griffin, Wint F. Saint, Howard A. Shapiro, Patrick E. Taylor and Earl G. Thompson.

Greeting members and guests will be Mesdames Richard Kehue, Fred A. Baker, Jackson Perry, H. C. McVean Jr., Bowen Wands and Bernard Gratama. Pouring from 2:30 to 3:15 p.m. will be Mesdames Alan Conner and George Quinn and from 3:15 to 4 p.m., Mesdames Conrad Kett and Ernest King.

Gerraldine Miller Recites Vows With Dean J. Glaser

Gerraldine Mae Miller of San Francisco exchanged vows with Dean Joseph Glaser of Daly City in a 6:30 p.m. ceremony yesterday at Northbrae Community Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Glaser and the grandson of Mrs. Marie Glaser, all of San Anselmo, and Mrs. Amy Barricklo of Mill Valley.

The bride's father, Vernon E. Miller, flew here from his home in Rastanura, Saudi Arabia, to give his daughter in marriage.

She wore a cameo satin floor length gown with lace mantilla forming the train. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Frank La Pointe of Richmond, wore a floor length brandy velvet with lace at cuffs and neckline.

Best man was Gerald Lockhart of San Rafael. Showing guests to their seats the bridegroom's brother Dale W. Glaser of San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Glaser attended Harry Ells High School and received her degree from San Francisco State College. She is employed at Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco. Her sister, Trudi Miller, lives with their parents in Saudi Arabia, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, are from Richmond.

The bridegroom attended Sir Francis Drake High School and received his B.A. from San Francisco State College. He is working toward his teaching credential and is employed with Lucky Stores.

After a reception in Richmond, the couple left for a wedding trip in Scotia. They will live in Daly City.

Mrs. Magee Is Bride In San Rafael

Mrs. Miriam Janice Magee of San Rafael became the bride of Louis P. Bonner of Sacramento at a 12:30 ceremony today at First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael. The new Mrs. Bonner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Street of Piedmont.

The bride wore an oyster white gown with matching full length coat. Her daughters, Lurah and Janice Magee, as maid of honor, wore moss green chiffon gowns.

Robert Bonner of Sacramento, nephew of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Michael Williams of Los Ranchitos and the bride's sons William E. Magee of Novato and Timothy J. Magee of Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonner are both employed at Equity Funding Corp. of America. Mrs. Bonner's sister is Mrs. Milton A. Marquand of Oakland.

After a reception at Knoles Hall, the couple left for a wedding trip to Carmel. They will live in San Rafael.

Branch To Hear Alliance Worker

A hundred invitations have been sent by the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women to hear Miss Becky Jenkins at the general meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Mill Valley Community Church.

Invitations were issued to members of Fair Marin, the Marin and Novato AAUW branches and John Grossman, a state art commissioner.

Miss Jenkins, an employee of the San Francisco Art Commission working with the Neighborhood Arts Alliance of San Francisco, will outline the work and goals of the alliance. She is a graduate of San Francisco State College in theater arts.

A discussion will be held on Fair Marin, the newly formed community activities organization. Fair Marin is interested in the possible applications of the neighborhood arts alliance's aims to Fair Marin, as well in correlating cultural interests and talents in the county.

Miss Bomberger To Wed In Miami

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Jennifer Bomberger of Kentfield and Roy Edward Scott Jr. of Miami, Fla.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of Mrs. Mary S. Bomberger of Kentfield and Bruce D. Bomberger of Los Angeles, was graduted from Redwood High School and attended College of Marin. She is a stewardess with Eastern Airlines in Miami. Mrs. Susan Flanagan of San Rafael is her sister and she is the granddaughter of Mrs. Ruth Slate of Sunnyvale.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Scott of Media, Pa., was graduated from Westchester State College in Pennsylvania and is director of physical education of the Miami Military Academy.

The wedding is planned on Jan. 20 in Miami.

Marin Actor To Make Return In ACT Play

DAVID DUKES
His Adam to . . .

DANA LARSON
. . . her Eve.

David Dukes of San Anselmo, winner of last year's College of Marin drama award for his role as Romeo, returns to the stage in his home county in mankind's first love story.

He will be Adam in a production of "The Diaries of Adam and Eve" by the American Conservatory Theater for Friends of the Sausalito Library, Dec. 8 in Campbell Hall, Sausalito at 8 p.m.

A graduate of the College of Marin, Dukes joined ACT earlier this year and has played major roles in several of its productions.

In the role of Eve will be Dana Larson, a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, who is in her second season with ACT.

The play to be presented at Sausalito is an adaptation of Mark Twain's short stories "Adam's Dairy" and "Eve's Diary." It explores the relationship of the first man and woman, offering Twain's view of the serpent, the apple and the birth of Cain. There is no admission charge.

Fund Raising

The Novato Community Ambassadors will discuss the budget and the next fund raising event at 8 p.m. Monday at the Bank of Marin conference room at Grant Avenue and Fourth Street, Novato, according to Mrs. Grant Morse, chairman.

Prison Inmates Donate Money For Mississippi Poor

San Quentin Prison inmates, who earn from two to 35 cents and hour working in prison industry, have donated $376.56 to help feed the poor of Mississippi.

Contributions from the inmates ranged from four cents to $15 in the fund begun by the Afro-American Inmates Association.

The funds will go to the Meals for Millions program. The total, if used for purchase of food concentrates, could provide 5,000 meals, Oakland attorney Donald Warden estimated. Warden, president of the Afro-American Association, said he will take the money to Mississippi next week.

CONCERT — French singer and song writer Charles Aznavour will appear in a one-man concert at 8 p.m. Monday at the college of Marin gymnasium. Aznavour, author of more than 500 songs, will sing in English and French, backed by a five-man band.

New Booklet On Marin Is Being Sold

A new improved and expanded edition of the booklet "Your County Marin" has been published by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin as a service to voters.

The 24-page booklet contains more information than previous editions, particularly on county governmental structure. The salaries of department heads are listed and the budgets under which they work.

Information is provided under headings such as the history and characteristics of the county, Civic Center, county and city government and special districts.

President of the central Marin league is Mrs Farrel Schell of 652 Cedarberry, Marinwood.

The booklet sells for 30 cents and copies are obtainable from The League of Women Voters, P.O. Box 2174, San Rafael. It is being distributed free to schools and libraries.

Seminary Faculty To Give Chamber Event Wednesday

Professors John R. Bodo, cello, and Wilbur F. Russell, piano, of the faculty of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will present a free chamber music recital Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the lounge of Alexander Hall on the campus.

The program will feature Couperin's "Pieces in Concert" and Sonata, Op. 6, Richard Strauss; Sonata, Op. 5, No. 2 (G minor), Beethoven; and Sonata, 119, Prokofieff.

This will be Bodo's first Marin appearance as a cellist — and the last, since he is leaving shortly for his new post as chaplain and professor of religion at MacAlester College, St. Paul, Minn.

A member of the San Francisco Theological Seminary facultty as professor of practical theology since 1959, he has been engaged in music as a second occupation from childhood.

A native of Hungary, he earned his master's diploma as a cellist from the Institute Superieur de Musique of Geneva, Switzerland, and recently has been working witth Professor Laszlo Varga of San Fraancisco State College.

Bodo has made a number of solo appearances in Hungary and Switzerland and, before coming to California, on the East Coast. He has also been a member of several orchestras, including the New Jersery Symphony and the Princeton, N.J., Symphony.

Russell is associate professor of sacred music at the seminary and organist-director at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo and, during the summer months, at Temple Emanu-El, San Francisco.

A graduate of the Philadelphia Musical Academy, with both bachelor's and master's degrees from the Westminister Choir College, Princeton, he is director of the Marin Pro Musica.

'CONTROVERSY' OPINION

Black Man Is Not Freed By Religion

By ROSS DAVIS

"Can religion free the black man? Not on your life."

This was the opinion yesterday of Arthur Burton, speaker in the College of Marin's Controversy '67 series.

Burton said religion can be a great consolation, but has never solved the problems of a minority. Burton, a member of American Humanist Association and of Northern California Secular Society, said the theory of "be patient here and your reward will be in heaven" has done little to help the Negro during the last 400 years.

RELIGION SUPPORT

Majorities have always supported religion for their own benefit, he said, and it keeps minorities from rightfully asserting themselves — where was God while the Negro went through those years, he asked? "Where was God when there were cries of anguish from the black's forefathers," and "Where was God when black women were assaulted by the whites?"

Burton, an atheist, said the function religion has served has meant only wars, wholesale atrocities, and gas chambers in which minorities have suffered.

He cited the "holy wars" of the Moslems and Christians, who believed it was just to take heathen and helpless blacks in Africa and enslave them. He said Benito Mussolini even had the Catholic Pope's blessing when he invaded Ethiopia and "murdered" the natives.

Instead of religion as a means to become free, added Burton, the Negro must recognize his own heritage and worth. "Creation of a sense of pride and identity is the first necessary step to combat inferiority complexes," he said.

NOT ASHAMED

He said no longer is the Negro ashamed of being black, and cited that the college's own Negroes have chosen the title, 'Black Student Union" for their group. "If you're white, you're right; if you're black, stand back," no longer is applicable, said Burton. "All over the country militant blacks are united in organizations and expressing their grievances. . . . It no longer is a case of 'you lead and we'll follow.' "

Burton, of San Rafael, is a graduate of Brooklyn College as a philosophy major, is a postgraduate of San Francisco State College, and past-president of Tamalpais Toastmasters. About 25 people attended the talk.

No Pedestrian Death Citations To Five Cities

Five Marin cities have received awards from the California State Automobile Association for having had no pedestrian deaths for one to 12 year periods.

Sausalito led the list of award winners by having no pedestrain deaths for 12 years, with San Anselmo a close second, having had no pedestrian deaths in 11 years.

Novato received an award for no pedestrian deaths for the past six years and Corte Madera and San Rafael for having none in the past year.

Awards were made Monday by Jack Craemer, Independent-Journal editor and co-publisher and a director of the automobile association, at a luncheon at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael.

The "Boy General of the Confederacy" was John H. Kelly, a brigadier general at age 20.

$7,500 To Railroad For '61 Tunnel Fire

Directors of the Marin Municipal Water District yesterday agreed to a $7,500 settlement with Northwestern Pacific Railroad for pipelines and other equipment damaged in a 1961 fire in the railroad's Puerto Suello Tunnel.

The water district had originally agreed with the railroad that $15,000 would be a reasonable figure to go to court with. The settlement approved yesterday halves the figure, and $2,317 of the settlement will go for attorneys' fees.

In other actions, the directors:

PIPE — Agreed to pay $1,855 toward installation of 600 feet of 24-inch pipe in the Glenwood Forest subdivision, San Rafael. Perma Bilt Enterprises, the developer, will pay $11,220.

BINDERS — Approved purchase of 360 meter book binders at $2.40 each.

FIRELINE — Modified a fireline extension agreement with San Rafael. The fireline, from Lincoln Avenue to Irwin Street, will be reduced from 893 to 470 feet because the freeway extension will take some buildings that would have been serviced by the fireline.

PAYMENT — Approved a $3,678 final payment to Sabrow Co. for coating of a Mill Valley tank, but withheld it pending settlement of a $3,900 claim on the job by Anderson Painting Co.

Innocent Plea On Abortion

John Francis Milos, former Sausalito resident, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of criminal abortion.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

Milos, sought for a year since the death of a Petaluma woman, was arrested Sunday by San Francisco police on a shoplifting charge.

Clear Plastic Gifts For San Quentin

Hair brushes made of clear plastic, so that nothing may be concealed in them, and cigarette lighters that you can see through, with no dice or fish hooks floating in them, are among the items that San Quentin convicts may receive for Christmas.

Fruit cakes are acceptable, if they are not homemade, and, at the request of the inmates, dry salami has been added to the gift list this year.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said Christmas packages will be accepted through Dec. 22 at the prison. Only one package with a limit of 10 pounds is allowed per inmate. They are opened in the cellblocks and inspected.

Other allowable items: commercially made candy, shelled nuts, pen and pencil sets, games, sweat shirts, religious medals, cigars, pipes, white cotton socks, sun glasses, wrist watch straps, but no wrist watches.

The sturdy furniture of Appalachia has proved surprisingly acceptable to modern tastes. The early mountain bench — a slab on four posts — even inspired many of today's benches and coffee tables.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

12:33 p.m., San Rafael — Three separate grass fires between 1 Highland and 61 Highland Avenue burned a 200-by-200 foot area; possibly set by children.

1:33 p.m., Marinwood — Small grass fire at a home at 2152 Danberry Road; caused by illegal incinerator use.

TODAY:

2:30 a.m., Fairfax — A station wagon was destroyed by fire while parked at Marin and Bothin roads; owned by Don Rowland of French Camp, San Joaquin County; cause unknown.

Kiwanis Club Picks Strouss As President

Harold A. Strouss has been elected president of the Kiwanis Club of Southern Marin for 1968.

A life-long resident of Marin County and now living in Terra Linda, Strouss is manager of the Mill Valley office of Frank Howard Allen and Co.

Other officers elected for the 1968 term were Dean Rhodes, first vice president; Charles Bennett, second vice president; Dale Greenlee, secretary; and Fred S. Allen Jr., treasurer. Serving as directors will be Richard Lilly, Sheldon Schwebel, Robert Figone, Cliff Brock, Sam Schneider, Glen Murray, Howard Dawson and William F. Carroll.

Officers and directors will be installed at joint installation ceremonies of the Marin County Kiwanis Clubs Dec. 2 at the Marin Golf and Country Club.

The highest temperature ever recorded in earth was 136 feet on Sept. 13, 1922, at Azizia, Tripolitania, in North Africa.

Some lumberjacks in Canada commute from Portugal. They arrive in spring and fly home when the weather turns cold.

Two Drivers Are Sentenced

Two persons were sentenced for drunken driving in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

Henry Gordon Heinrichs, 43, of 9 Somerset Lane, Mill Valley, was fined $125 and placed on six months of probation. The California Highway Patrol arrested him Nov. 13 on Highway 101.

Joyce Clair Coniglio, 22, of 9 Cypress Court, Novato, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation. The patrol arrested her Aug. 28 on Highway 101.

Another Bombing At City School

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fire bombings are continuing to plague San Francisco high schools.

A Molotov cocktail exploded in a second floor corridor of George Washington High School yesterday, police said, but the flames were extinguished before they could spread.

Some 2,500 students were hastily evacuated while the blaze was being fought. Damage was limited to a scorched section of linoleum flooring.

A few hours earlier, a Lincoln High School fire, also described as "definitely of incendiary origin," damaged a wooden stairway, part of a stage set in the auditorium.

Tuesday, a three-alarm blaze from a fire bomb caused $250,000 damage at Balboa High School.

Jury Is Selected In Assault Trial

A jury was selected yesterday for the Superior Court trial of Robert Perada Ruiz, San Quentin Prison inmate accused of striking two prison correctional officers. Trial is to begin Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Ruiz is accused of hitting officers R. H. Gaarde on July 13 and against L. G. Strayer July 14.

Michele D. Slavich, a daughter of, Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Slavich of 1 Tamalpais, Tiburon, has been elected a Phi Beta Kappa at Stanford University.

A recent report from Stanford misspelled Miss Slavich's first name, and the Independent-Journal erred in saying she was a son of the Slavich's.

Today is Thursday, Nov. 23, the 327th day of 1967 with 38 to follow. This is Thanksgiving.

The moon is between is full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are, Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1903, Italian tenor Enrico Caruso made his American debut in "Rigoletto" at the Metropolitan Opera in New York.

In 1945, all food rationing except on sugar, ended in the United States.

In 1954, the Chinese Communists said they had convicted 11 American airmen and two civilians of espionage.

In 1965, Queen Elizabeth of Belgium died at 89.

A thought for the day — British writer Samuel Butler once said, "an empty house is like a stray dog or body from which life has departed."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

By Holding Ace, A Difficult Contract Can Be Marked Up

If you ask the average policeman what he knows about holdups he will tell you that they are useful at notrump contracts.

The exceptional policeman will give you the right answer: they are useful also at trump contracts.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

HOLD UP

West leads the queen of clubs, and if you are like the average policeman you take the first-trick. That would be a misdemeanor. Hold up your ace at the first trick because it cannot do any harm to give up this sure loser early.

You win the next club with dummy's ace, lead a trump to the king and then lead another trump to dummy's ace.

West's club discard tells you the bad news. You are in danger of losing a trick in each suit and must work on the diamonds since the other losers are unavoidable.

PLAY DIAMONDS

You cash the king of diamonds, lead a diamond to dummy's ace and return a diamond from dummy. East cannot gain by ruffing since you would then play low and thus would dispose of your losing diamond and the losing trump on the same trick.

East would ruff happily if you had taken the first club trick. East would then lead a low club to West and ruff West's diamond return.

PAYS OFF

Your holdup play at the first trick prevents East from reaching his partner's hand for the second diamond ruff.

If East discards on the third round of diamonds you win with the queen and ruff your last diamond in dummy. East may overruff if he likes, but that gives him only the trump trick that he was sure to win in any case.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ J 10 9 8
♥ Q 10 9 2
♦ 9 4
♣ K 6 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

It is true that you are interested in the major suits, but it is unwise to use the Stayman Convention when you have only 6 or 7 points. Since you have no real hope of making game, let your partner play the hand at a safe part score or 1-no trump.

A modern highway across the Sahara Desert will provide a major trade route between north and sub-Saharan Africa. The road should spur exploitation of the Sahara's barely tapped mineral wealth.

Chemistry texts used to say that noble gases like helium, neon, krypton and xenon do not combine with other elements. In 1962, chemists succeeded in making xenon combine with fluorine.

Even With New Bond Fund Schools To Use Portables

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The Mill Valley School District has 30 portable classrooms in use, and this number may not be reduced materially when the district completes the building program planned from proceeds of its June $3,500,000 bond issue.

The district has been having trouble figuring how to make the proceeds of the bond issue cover building of a middle school and planned improvements to its neighborhood schools. The matter is still unresolved, although school officials hope that it may be possible if the City of Mill Valley will agree to possible sale of tthree acres of land which the district proposed to exchange for city land.

FORMERLY AT PARK

Even if the $3.5 million is "stretched" to cover the planned projects, however, it will not get rid of all or even the majority of the portables, according to Supt. James A. Collins and Asst. Supt. Leo B. Edson.

Five of the portables, at Park and Alto schools, house classes which were formerly in a five-room wing of Park School that was torn down last December after structural engineer Harold M. Engle declared it did not come up to earthquake-resistance standards of the state's Field Act.

Two others, at Homestead School, house classes which were formerly condemned as unsafe by Field Act standards. These rooms have not been torn down, however.

WILL NOT USE

Assistant Superintendent Edson said there is no plan to put the condemned Homestead rooms back into use now that the Legislature has passed a law giving school districts until 1983 to replace buildings not up to Field Act standards.

One of the 30 portables is leased by the Marin County schools office for a class for the mentally retarded. The other 29 are leased by the Mill Valley district on a lease-purchase plan which gives the district possession in seven years. Annual rental is $64,342, Edson reported. He estimated additional cost for installing utilities averaged between $200 and $300 per classroom.

The portable were obtained, he explained, in part because of decision of school district trustees to reduce class sizes. The district's educational objectives committee proposed classes be reduced to 25 per teacher. They are now just over 27, having been reduced from 29 a few years ago, Edson said.

SMALLER CLASSES

This decision for smaller class size is one reason the district has made no attempt to get state aid for buildings to eliminate the portables. State standards call for 33 pupils per class in the upper grades, 20 in second and third grades, and 29 in first grade.

Also, state aid is based on square footage allowances of 75 square feet per student in seventh and eighth grades and 55 square feet in lower grades. Edson said Mill Valley schools are not now in excess of this, but will be with building of the middle school.

Were it not for these considerations, the Mill Valley School District would be elibible for state school building aid next August, when it plans to sell $2,265,000 of the bond issue. That sale will put the district at its limit of legal bonded indebtedness.

Trustees are hesitant to seek state aid for anothter reason also, according to Edson. The state has requirements for large school sites. A few years ago, when the Mill Valley district was on state aid, it had to buy an acre of useless land to qualify the Marin Terrace School for state funds, Edson reported.

Building the middle school will ease classroom pressures at some of the schools and eliminate some of the portables, including five at Edna Maguire — the district's seventh-eighth grade school. But at least 20 will remain, Edson presicted.

About 41 per cent of women who have ever been married were first married before their 20th birthday, the Census Bureau reports.

Disguised Postal Inspector Grabs Shipment Of Dope

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A postal inspector disguised as a mailman delivered a registered package containing hashish yesterday then helped narcotics agents arrest the man who signed for the shipment.

Turkish postal inspectors intercepted the $5,000 shipment from Istanbul three weeks ago. The hashish, an intoxicating herb that can be chewed or smoked, was concealed in a hollowed out photo album.

The Turkish officials exacted half the narcotic and alerted U. S. postal inspectors that the shipment addressed to Phillip Mellman in San Francisco was on the way.

Inspector A. M. Vandenbosch, dressed as a mailman, delivered the package and secured Mellman's signature. Shortly afterward, Vandenbosch led San Francisco and federal narcotics agents back to the house where they arrested Mellman.

They said they found one and a half pounds of opium valued at $15,000 in the house. Four other persons there were arrested.

Swimming Pool Grand Theft Pleas

MARTINEZ (UPI) — The owner and manager of Orinda Pools of Lafayette, which had 349 swimming pools under construction in the East Bay when it went broke, both pleaded guilty yesterday to grand theft.

Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Richard Arnason set sentencing for Dec. 21 for builder Harold Saperstein of Los Angeles and Arthur Lee Shelbourne of Lafayette. Saperstein pleaded guilty to three counts of grand theft, and Shelbourne to one count.

Authorities said it may cost as much as $1.5 million to complete all the pools started by the defunct firm.

Gonorrhea, Strep Lead Disease List

Gonorrhea, 43 cases, and strep infections, 41 cases, led the list of communicable diseases in Marin for the past week, as recorded by the Marin County Public Health Department.

There were 22 cases of mumps, five of syphillis and one case of salmonella.

CAPTAIN B. H. B. MOFFIT
Assigned to Hamilton

Sub Sinker To Command Test Force

A Royal Canadian Air Force group captain who sank a German submarine during World War II, has been assigned as director of operational evaluation for the Western North American Air Defense Region Headquarters at Hamilton Air Force Base.

He is Capt. B. H. B. Moffitt of Toronto, who replaces another Canadian, Group Capt. Henry M. Walsh.

COMBAT READINESS

Captain Moffit of Toronto will conduct exercises that test the combat readiness of the Canadian and U.S. Army, Air Force and Navy units in eight western states and two Canadian provinces.

He has had 28 years of military service. During World War II, he was the captain of an aircraft which sank a German submarine in the North Atlantic on May 3, 1943.

For this he was awarded the RCAF Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Force Cross.

ON STAFF

Captain Moffit has also served on the staff at Air Force Headquarters at Ottawa, on exchange duties with the Air Ministry in London and had numerous staff and liaison assignments with the Canadian and American forces. He is also a graduate of the Armed Force Staff College in Norfolk, Va.

He and his wife, the former Betty Parrott of Stoney Creek, Ont., with their son Craig, 14, a Novato high school student, live at 101 San Joaquin Place, Novato. They have a daughter, Deborah, 18, who is attending the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont.

Legislators Busy, Workshop Canceled

The legislative workshop session between Marin County officials and Marin legislators, set for next Tuesday, has been postponed indefinitely because the legislators will be busy in Sacramento.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said he received a telephone call from State Sen. John F. McCarthy Wednesday, explaining he and Assemblyman William T. Bagley must attend a special session of the legislature next week. No new date has been set for the joint meeting.

Christmas Toys Depart From Weaponry Trend

Thanksgiving Day today ushers in the Christmas season. With that come thoughts of Christmas toys. And among the things for which we can be thankful today is that the toy makers this year seem to be turning away from recent years' emphasis on weaponry.

Visits to a couple of San Rafael toy stores getting ready for their big Christmas season disclosed only one new gun — Mattel's M16 Marauder, modeled after an automatic weapon carried by U.S. troops in Vietnam. It uses no ammunition, but makes plenty of noise.

Other guns on the toy shelves ("after all," said Walter Zurcher, proprietor of the San Rafael Toy Shop, "boys like guns, so we have to stock them") were of familiar pattern. Missing, fortunately, were many of the Green Beret, commando, etc., outfits which last year made toy store preparation for the birthday of the Prince of Peace look more like a staging area for D-Day.

BIGGEST EMPHASIS this year is on games. There are dozens of new ones, of just every kind (including a few war games).

Perhaps the "hottest" new toy (Zurcher and Mary Lopes, manager of Toy Palace, both think so) is a thing called Lite-Brite, which has no connection with war or anything else except simply entertainment.

This consists of a box with two plates with peg holes, a large assortment of colored pegs, and a set of designs. The child (or adult) player puts peg in the holes to make any of the designs furnished or any other he dreams up. He then plugs the box into the light socket and the pegs light up. It doesn't sound like much, but the effect is quite interesting and pleasing, and the number of possible different designs is endless. It is, we would say, a "Christmasy" toy.

The ever-popular match box toys, made in England, have expanded this year to include road-race sets scaled to their tiny cars and trucks.

AMONG THE NEW GAMES are several concerned with fortune telling, mind reading or ESP — designed, apparently, to try to cash in on the resurgent popularity of the old-time favorite Ouija board.

An unusual game with adult appeal is called "Instant Insanity." It consists simply of a set of four blocks with sides in different colors. The object is to arrange them in a row so that no two sides in the same color adjoin. It is one of those things that sound simple, but — as the name implies — can drive you slightly daft.

The doll makers have been making dolls so completely lifelike of recent years that it would seem scarcely any "natural" feature has been undeveloped. But this year they have outdone themselves. "Baby's Hungry" not only drinks but also chews her food. "Baby Magic," according to the box, "eats like a real baby, cries real tears, lifts bottle, smiles, lifts arms," etc. And "Little Miss Fussy" wets, cries, then quits crying when she gets a dry diaper. Of course there are (fortunately) other dolls that just open and close their eyes and can be cuddled.

IT IS INTERESTING and reassuring that so many new toys have no connection with war and violence. It is especially interesting since the toy makers not only must gauge public demand but must do so a year in advance. (Zurcher related that Mattel has already offered a package of 255 new toys for Christmas, 1968.)

Maybe they know something we don't know.

"But, sir, why not read ALL the paper before you say that?"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Thankful To Many: Cat's Down Safely

Editor, Independent-Journal:

My daughter, Janice, and I have many people to thank:

Mr. J. W. Kirchanski of the 3R Schools, my employer, who called the I-J.

The I-J, who published the story and picture of Jan's kitten, Adolph.

The many people who called and offered advice.

My neighbor, Paul Snedeker, and his son, Bill, who tried to climb the tree but failed.

The three people who called and offered to rescue Adolph after she was down.

And, last but certainly not least, Mr. Ted Waggoner, who, in darkness and with no paraphernalia, climbed the tree and brought the kitten down while his patient and steady-handed wife held a strong light on Adolph.

Mrs. Waggoner said her husband is not a professional climber and works in an office but has been climbing trees since he was four years old in his native Ontario, Canada.

(The I-J reported the kitten was up 40 feet as a result of my poor guesstimate. However, the I-J photographer and the Humane Society representative agreed she was up 100 feet.)

Berkeley Performanc Called Treasonable

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I was really horrified at the display of treason on Nov. 20 in Berkeley. I am sure the boys in Vietnam would be proud to know that they are fighting for the privilege of of some students to burn the American flag.

It has been my privilege to serve some of the wounded boys from Vietnam, and feel we as Americans are not doing right by them.

I have been silent up till now, but think it is time we all got together to protest these treasonous acts. I personally would like to know how many there are who support our fighting boys in Vietnam, and if so would they be willing to publicly show their support?

Reason For Highway Delay Now Removed

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Having read your editorial of Tuesday, Nov. 14 regarding Shoreline Highway, I should like to make the following comment: In 1962, I, as chairman of the Marin County Planning Commission representing the unanimous opinion of the commission, stated in an interview on radio station KTIM that we were asking delay in "development plans" of Highway 1 until we had before us an approved West Marin Master Plan with which we could relate our highway planning. At that time we had no knowledge as to what direction that plan would take, and the logic of the situation suggested that trasportation facilities are not planned before it is known what they will serve. Therefore, the "call for delay" was not "so that information on other route possibilities could be developed."

The West Marin Master Plan as only recently approved calls for a scenic route along the oceanside. The majority of the commission voted to retain that concept and route location. This route should be included in the state highway system as a scenic highway and scenic corridor, as has been done in Monterey County; as a moderate speed scenic highway with adeuate state safety engineering, as has been done in other portions of Route 1.

In my opinion the county should press for this concept without delay.

I certainly agree with the contention of the Independent-Journal that the time for more delay "should be over." It is an interesting commentary on public affairs that the time for completion and final approval of the West Marin Master Plan stretched from an optimistic eight months to five years. However, without a finally approved plan it would have been foolhardy and wasteful to attempy to pinpoint any location without adequate information and approved county policy.

Greek Actions Halt New War In Cyprus

By PHIL NEWSOM

From the standpoint of actual gain, there never has been a good reason for Greece to go to war with Turkey over Cyprus.

And this week there seemed especially good reasons for the ruling military juanta in Greece to roll back from another of those crises which since 1963 seem periodically to threaten the peace of the eastern Mediterranean.

This the Greeks did, first with the recall to Athens of Gen. George Grias, the Greek-appointed defense minister of Cyprus, and, second, with the appointment of a firm advocate of Greek-Turkish friendship to the post of Greek foreign minister.

COINCIDENCE OR NOT, it has seemed in the past that Grivas' mere presence in Cyprus has been enough to touch off new fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriot residents.

Last week's fierce fighting came almost within a matter of hours of his return to the island.

A Turkish note blaming Greece for the outbreak demanded Grivas' recall.

THE APPOINTMENT of Panayotis Pipinelis to the foreign ministry also was regarded as a gesture of appeasement toward the Turks and a victory for Greek moderates. Pipinelis, who had turned down previous offers of the job, said he took it in view of the "seriousness of present circumstances" and as "an act of duty to my country."

The demand of the Greek Cypriot four-to-one majority for "enosis" (union) with Greece, countered by a demand by Turkish Cypriots for partition, has created in both Greece and Turkey an emotional issue which has frustrated all efforts toward a solution.

It has been more than 2,000 years since the Greeks exercized any control over the island which lies 500 miles from the Greek mainland.

On the other hand, it lies only 40 miles off the Turkish coast and is less than 15 minutes flying time away for Turkish fighter aircraft.

FOR THE GREEK military junta the moment particularly is not a propitious one.

Its take-over last April 21 annoyed the United States and led to a cut-off of U.S. military aid which had been running at close to $100 million a year. It also led to a sharp decline in tourist trade upon which Greece relies heavily.

Because of the avowed anti-Communist nature of the coup, it cannot look to the Soviet Union for help.

And any military involvement abroad might provide the very opportunity awaited for a counter-coup by the Greek generals forced into early retirement and by others also opposed to the colonels now running the government.

From its early days in which it banned the beard and the miniskirt, the junta now is pressing toward badly needed reforms. But it has established no broad popular support and it still has to outline its long-term objectives, including a return to elected government.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

Johnson May Profit As Unflappable President

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whatever else they hope to get from the White House, the American people expect their President to be unflappable. Some worried Democrats think President Johnson's record in this regard may be the core of his political strength in 1968.

They now see ahead a political year of dissention over Vietnam, tumult over urban problems, more party frustration and likely congressional losses, if not a major presidential threat from the Republicans.

Now that a probable presidential challenge by Democratic Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has been added to that of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, the outlook is for a year of cyclonic uncertainty.

Will the voters next year view a political landscape on which challengers are riding off in different and perhaps confusing directions, carrying divisive banners, and President Johnson alone is standing calm in the storm, certain of his ground?

Could such a picture of steadfastness —assuming there has been no break in the Vietnam war —make a meaningful difference for candidate Johnson?

"President Johnson is reading the history books," Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said the other day in commenting on McCarthy's challenge. "His mind is made up about the rightness of his position. He is not going to change."

Patience long has been one of the President's attributes. As Senate leader before he became vice president, he never moved impetuously to attain a legislative objective. He waited until the time was ripe, until he had the votes, until the public climate would lend support. This was his approach to the first civil rights bill of 1957, his strategy in moving against the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis.

Sometimes this aspect of his makeup has been obscured by his publicized explosions over lesser incidents. But those who know LBJ could well advise Hanoi —don't count on outwaiting him.

Veterans, around Capitol Hill recall that Truman's troubles, like Johnsons, were with some so-called intellectuals of his own party as much as with Republicans. Among them was Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who now is giving Johnson a hard time.

If the 1968 contest should be in any major sense a clash between intellectuals and nonintellectuals, there are still more of the latter than of the tired longshoreman-philosopher Eric Hoffer says of Johnson: "He is one of us."

That might enhance the stance of an unflappable President.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

HOW GRATEFUL ARE WE?

Thanksgiving is a time to give thought to gratitude.

When Cicero said: "Gratitude is not only the greatest of virtues, but the parent of all, " he hit upon a truth fundamental to personal growth and maturity.

"Gratitude," derived from "gratias" (thanks) is a reminder that others deserve our wholehearted appreciation. And yet too frequently we neglect to say "thank you" to family, friends, fellow workers — and to God.

Christ Himself was saddened when only one of the 10 lepers returned to thank Him.

"Were not 10 cleansed? Where are the nine? Was no one found to return and give praise to God except this foreigner."

(Luke 17:17)

Do more than ask God for favors. Express gratitude to Him in a practical way by taking His generosity to you as a pattern for your dealings with others.

Let my thanks, Lord God of all, take the form of action as well as words.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Medi-Cal Decision Based On Law

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Decision of the state Supreme Court holding illegal regulations of the Health and Welfare Agency in connection with Medi-Cal puts the Reagan Administration into one of the toughest spots it has yet encountered.

The decision was not unexpected, as the court ruling on a decision of Superior Court Judge Irving Perluss of Sacramento County was based solely on law and not on expediency or politics. And Perluss has something of a reputation as far as decisions based on law are concerned.

EFFECT OF THE ruling is that under present law, the medically indigent — which means that segment of the population not on the welfare rolls, but unable to afford medical care — will not benefit from Medi-Cal, while those on welfare will continue to be taken care of with Medi-Cal funds.

There are, said Governor Reagan, about 160,000 medical indigent, most of them aged, and care of these will be shifted to counties. Additionally, the decision will cost the state about $70 million in federal funds.

The original idea of the administration was to use the amount of money available and curtail medical services both to those on welfare and the medically indigent, thus providing some care for all concerned.

In the regulations, the state eliminated some services entirely. The court held that this was in violation of the law in the absence of a showing that proportionate reductions were not feasible to some extent.

THE DECISION SAID: "Our function is to enquire into the legality of the regulations, not their wisdom. . . . Administrative regulations that violate acts of the Legislature are void and no protestations that they are merely an exercise of administrative discretion can sanctify them. They must conform to legislative will if we are to preserve an orderly system of government."

The governor said that in view of the court order, it is up to the Legislature to find a way for the state to run the program within existing funds, "if we are to avoid eliminating life-saving services to the medically indigent."

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Washington's Pots And Kettles

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

"I feel that one of our failures in the administration has been our inability to convince the congress of the wisdom of fiscal responsibility . . ." — President Johnson at his news conference.

We take it the chief executive was not trying to be humorous, but his lecture to the lawmakers does sound pretty funny (in a grim sort of way) in the wake of Britain's devaluation of the pound and the U.S. government's feeble reaction to that event.

What Mr. Johnson was scolding Congress for is its refusal thus far to enact his proposed 10 per cent tax surcharge. In our view, and in the view of a good many members of Congress and private economists, that is not the correct criterion of irresponsibility. Those who oppose the tax increase suspect, with reason, that it would only encourage the Administration to further expand its fantastic spending, and hence do little if anything to curb the inflation.

Congress' actual irresponsibility lies, of course, in its unwillingness, despite a lot of brave words, to make substantial cuts in federal spending plans. Even granting this much, however, it is still possible to look askance at the executive pot calling the legislative kettle black.

It was not congress but the administration that decided to enlarge the Vietnam war into a major American war, with all its attendant costs. Whether or not the decision was right, the country is stuck with rising additional expenses to the tune of perhaps $30 billion a year.

It was not congress but the administration that decided to push ahead with a host of costly, confused and wasteful domestic programs while the war rages on. Mr. Johnson vehemently insists that we can have all that (did anyone ever say we wanted it?) and the war besides. Yet he castigates congress for permitting a deficit he now says may hit $35 billion.

So the public is saddled with high taxes, inflation and deficits of dangerous proportions. So much for fiscal responsibility.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

If there be any fixed star in our constitutional constellation, it is that no official, high or petty, can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion or other matters of opinion, or force citizens to confess by word or act their faith therein. — Justice Robert H. Jackson.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

WES LAURENCE knows a very sharp youngster who usually gets his weekly allowance on Saturday. Once his father tried to postpone the payment to Monday, on the theory that it would otherwise be spent entirely over the weekend. The sharp youngster replied with this note: "Golly, Dad, I just can't believe it: that you of all people would be guilty of delinquency in contributing to a minor." Dad meekly came across.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Some Things Missing At I-J —And We're Glad They Are

Once in awhile we read something which makes us feel pretty good about the job we are doing on the Independent-Journal and the job it is doing for the people of Marin.

Such was the case when we read a recent lengthy report in the Wall Street Journal on newspaper objectivity and press ethics.

The story related how exposes begun recently by the Chicago Tribune and the Boston Herald-Traveler had been dropped because of pressures brought to bear through the publishers' offices.

It went on from there to review the problem of keeping the news columns free from influence, and to relate what sometimes happens when publishers overlook this.

Commented the Wall Street Journal:

"ALL NEWSPAPERS, including this one, must cope with the blandishments and pressures of special interests who seek distortion or omission of the truth. And no newspaper, again including this one, can ever be positve that everyone of its staff always resists these blandishments and pressures. But on some papers the trouble starts at the top; it is the publisher himself who lays down news policies designed to aid one group or attack another."

Our feeling of pleasure at reading this came because, in over a decade as an editor of the Independent-Journal, we have never received an order from the publisher to play down, play up, omit or distort a news story.

IT ISN'T THAT WAY on all newspapers. The Wall Street Journal story recited instances, and we could add some more from our own experience.

The Journal laid bare, for instance, a Denver Post agreement to give a couple of big advertisers "news" to the extent of 25 per cent of the column inches of advertising they bought.

Some years ago the Burlingame Advance-Star had a similar deal to run a "news" picture one week out of every four for each of four merchants as part of a contract arrangement for advertising.

THE JOURNAL RELATED that for several months the Philadelphia Inquirer and Daily News "blacked out" Gaylord P. Harnwell, president of the University of Pennsylvania, not allowing his name to appear in their columns — for what reason, the Journal didn't learn.

Some years back, we recall, the name of James E. Murray, then senator from Montana, was "blacked out" of a whole string of Montana newspapers owned by Anaconda Copper Co. because the company didn't like something he had done. (Anaconda since then has divested itself of its newspaper interests, resulting in greater freedom of the press in Montana.)

THE JOURNAL commented, also on the failure of some papers to print news concerning themselves and their employees — if it happens to be unfavorable.

We recall having some trouble getting information from a police department in one city where we worked—and finally learning that this stemmed from the police chief's resentment because a former managing editor of the paper had suppressed news of his own arrest.

We're happy that things like these don't happen at the I-J. And we thought you might like to know.

MORRIE RYSKIND

Fable Of Esau, A La Ryskind, With Moral For Americans

Thanksgiving is that glorious legacy of the Pilgrims, when we thank the Lord for his bounty, and the board is heaped high for the reunion of relatives and friends.

But this year, somehow, my thoughts turn to Esau, who sold his God-given birthright for a mess of pottage — and has never known the delights of turkey and cranberry sauce nor individual freedom since. He — and his American kinsmen — could use a Wailing Wall to bemoan their mistakes.

ESAU CAME from the very first family — see Genesis — and was a strapping fellow who stood 6 feet 4 and weighed about 230, and would have made tackle on anybody's All-American in his eyes hadn't been bigger than his stomach.

But if he had a voracious appetite and was not precisely a pin-up boy, he was still considered a good catch, for it was clear he would prove a generous provider. The best hunter for miles around, he would often come home with a bag that weighed more than he did, enough to make a game warden mighty suspicious.

But it wasn't poaching, for his folks were wealthy and owned most of the neighboring forest. Besides, they were God-fearing people in the Puritan tradition, and they brought Esau up proper and law-abidin'. If his book larnin' weren't much, he knew the Ten Commandments and abided by them.

As heir to his father's estate, Esau might have taken things easy, but he was no lounge-lizard and preferred to earn his keep. And so, as Thanksgiving drew near, he got up early one morning to get the food for the Big Dinner, promising his dad, who was a gourmet, some venison as well as the traditional turkey.

BUT THE UNDERGROUND had warned of his approach, and all the turkeys had fled to the high hills of the demilitarized zone; and the deer had hastened to sign for a movie at Disneyland, which was likewise off-limits. All he could spot were some wild pigs, and, though he looked longingly at them, they were forbidden by Deuteronomy.

(I asked Esau once how he knew about that, since Deuteronomy doesn't appear until four books after Genesis. He explained that his father, Isaac, had ESP and had warned him not to violate either existing or future Laws. Isaac was a stickler for noblesse oblige.)

AT ANY RATE, after a futile 16-hour day, our hero suffered his first shutout. And came home not only weary and worn but famished, not having encountered even a kosher delicatessen along his grievous route.

Pop and Mom were asleep, but his brother, a city slicker, was in the kitchen cooking something on the stove. Esau stumbled in and said, "Boy, that smells good! How about some? I'm dying of hunger!"

"Sorry," said the Slicker, "but that's a mess of pottage I'm fixing for myself, and there's none to spare."

"But I'll give you anything you want for it," cried Esau, drooling at the aroma. "Anything!"

"Make it your birthright and it's a deal," said the Slicker. "And I'll throw in some food stamps so you can have this wonderful pottage the rest of your life."

"Never!" cried Esau. But then, almost fainting, he yielded. And signed the papers which not only took his estate rights, but in fine print claimed most of his other rights, too.

THE WAILING WALL of Jerusalem is said to be the remains of the Holy Jewish Temple the Romans destroyed in 70 A.D.

But if our American Temple goes, it will not be because of any foreign invader. It will be because we traded it, as Esau did, for a mess of pottage hawked by our own city slickers. And — it may be symbolic — Genesis notes that it was a mess of red pottage for which Esau exchanged his birthright.

But, whatever its color, I do not think it a good trade—then or now.

Hamilton Employees' Service Recognized

Pins and certificates for 30 and 40 years of federal service were presented to nine Marin employees of Hamilton Air Force Base last week by John A. Watts, director of civilian personnel for the department of the Air Force.

John D. Viles of 7530 Redwood Highway, Novato, received recognition for 40 years of federal service.

Those receiving 30-year awards were:

James C. Arnold of 676 Orange Avenue, Novato; Dorman E. Dever of 601 McClay Road, Novato; Walter O. Hellwig of 12½ Minnie Street, San Rafael.

John W. Miller of 36 Hawthorne Avenue, San Anselmo; Martin R. Neal of 1106 Olive Avenue, Novato; Richard V. Sloan of 65 Hillside Avenue, Mill Valley and Charles W. Thompson of 12 Nancy Drive, Novato.

Check Forgery Charge Dismissed

Marin Municipal Judge Alvin H. Goldstein yesterday dismissed a charge against John E. Greison, 26, of 18 Crestwood Road, San Rafael, of forging a $150 check against the account of Mahoney Painting Co. of San Rafael.

The district attorney's office requested the dismissal, saying they had filed a complaint on the wrong check. Greison is now serving a 90-day jail sentence for two instances of forgery.

Tavern Rioting At Poughkeepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — About 600 teen-agers and young adults wrecked a tavern Thanksgiving Eve, smashing all the glass and furniture in the place, police said.

Four policemen were slightly injured and were treated at Vassar Hospital, police said.

A 16-year-old boy and three young men were arrested during the hour it took police to restore order at the Buccaneer Tavern on Route 44, near this Hudson River city.

Police said they could not learn immediately how or why the rampage started yesterday at about 10:45 p.m.

A Time To Remember Who We Are

Let us be grateful for our heritage. For a little pride is the wellspring of courage. Let us endure unflinchingly whatever sacrifices we are called upon to make to defend our free institutions from the night of communism, which is bent on undermining our faith in ourselves. Let us rely not only on the gold in our vaults, but the iron in our blood. And let us cling like ivy to the faith of our fathers until, in God's good time, all men are free.

Tele-Vue Asks For Another Rate Hearing

Tele-Vue Systems Inc., whose rate increase request was rejected by the Marin County supervisors last week, is seeking another hearing to present arguments.

Joseph E. Sheeks, attorney for Tele-Vue, said he is astonished that supervisors would reject the rate increase request "without the courtesy of a hearing on the merits."

"As if to rub salt in our wounds, we now are asked to lend our assistance in getting Public Utilities Commission regulation for our industry," Sheeks complained in a letter to supervisors.

Sheeks asked for a hearing by the supervisors, with sufficient notice in advance so that Tele-Vue spokesmen can be present to give their side of the case.

Tele-Vue Systems, which has a cable television franchise in Marin, seeks a rate increase on grounds that pressure is mounting for undergrounding of cables, and this is more costly than overhead cables.

Supervisors denied the rate increase, explaining that the county does not have the staff or the technical know-how to rule on cable TV rates, and that this should rightfully come under the state PUC.

Collegians To Attend Conference

Eight persons from College of Marin are scheduled to attend a three-day California Junior College Student Government Association state conference at Pacific Grove near Monterey starting next thursday.

They are Patrick Blake, men's freshmen representative; Elizabeth Johnson, public relations commissioner; Harry Lehmann, student body president; Dave Brown, student; Paul Tuttle, student body treasurer; Joe Jeremy, student body vice president; Mark Johnson, spirit and athletics commissioner; Eileen O'Connell, student body treasurer, and John Rachenski, head of the college's experimental school.

Blake and Miss Johnson also attended the first California Collegiate Inter-Club Council Association conference held last Saturday at Contra Costa Junior College. Resolutions for unbiased press coverage by the community press on controversial issues that generate from the campus clubs, and for a study of hiring dance bands in blocks to lower the price of entertainment were passed at that conference.

They will be presented at the state conference. A total of 82 colleges to be represented.

Budgeting On Tap

The State Harbors and Watercraft Commission will consider budgeting funds for development of Ayala Cove at Angel Island State Park at their meeting at 9 a.m. Monday in Room 1200 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

Tiburon Planners Special Session Set

A special meeting of the Tiburon Planning Commission has been called for Monday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Chairman Erik Rettig said today the meeting's purpose will be to discuss various amendments to the recently adopted zoning ordinance, as requested by the city council.

Special Issue Large Size Christmas Stamp Available

A special issue, large size Christmas stamp is now available at post offices in Marin.

The five-cent stamp is the same design as the one issued last year for the holidays, having Hans Memling's "Madonna and Child" reproduced on it, but is almost double the size of a regular stamp, San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy said. The painting hangs in the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C.

Last year 75,000 Christmas stamps were sold at the San Rafael Post Office and Cassidy predicted an 85,000 total sale this year.

Use of this stamp or other five-cent stamp for mailing Christmas cards guarantees first class delivery service, meaning the card will be forwarded if the recipient has moved or it will be returned if there is no forwarding address, Cassidy said. Third class mail, with a four-cent stamp, does not include these services.

Dog owners in Mobile, Ala., can be arrested if anyone complains about their pets barking after 10 p.m.

Yule Boat Lighting Plans Are Discussed

Plans to have Sausalito boats trimmed with lights for the Christmas season were discussed Tuesday by Sausalito Chamber of Commerce directors.

The aim is to have all boats along the waterfront lighted, from Sausalito Yacht Club to Kappas Harbor by Dec. 10. The chamber will award prizes for the best-decorated boats.

Marin Cage Teams Win Two, Lose Two In Season Openers

Four Marin County Athletic League teams started their 1967-68 practice basketball seasons last night, two winning, two losing.

The winners were Novato, which broke a 15-game losing streak by edging Lick Wilmerding 66-61, and Tamalpais, which beat its own Alumni 75-69 by hitting on 29 of 42 free throws.

The losers were San Rafael, victimized by superior Sonoma height, 62-45, and Marin Catholic, which lost a thriller 82-81 to its alumni in the last five seconds.

Leroy Barrow led Tam's scoring with 23 points, while Pat Schaefer had 20 and Floyd Jackson 14. Ken Anderson led the Alumni with 16 points on 8 baskets.

ANDERSON HOT

Novato ended its long losing string with the help of Bob Anderson, who had 10 baskets and 11 charity tosses for 31 points in his return to the court. Anderson was ill last season and did not play. Other high scorers for the Hornets were Ed Herrnberger with 16 and Steve McNally with 12. Bob Tate had 6 and Mike Ahern 1 to complete Novato's scoring.

Marin Catholic's varsity led the alums until the last five seconds when postgrad Ron O'Connell was fouled and sank both shots on a one-and-one situation. The Wildcats varsity had led by as much as 16 points in the fourth period, with Mark Carbone, Harry Matsinger and Paul McCarthy outstanding. McCarthy had 19 points, Matsinger 18. O'Connell's 18 led the alumni team.

San Rafael had to cope with a front line that ranged from a springy 6-3 forward to a 6-7 center at Sonoma. The Bulldogs couldn't handle that much size, as Sonoma's 6-7 pivot Skip Saffores poured in 25 points. The top scorers for the Bulldogs were Phil Martino with 14 and Steve Durham with 12.

Basketball resumes this weekend, with Redwood hosting Santa Rosa, Napa visiting San Rafael, Terra Linda journeying to Healdsburg, all on Friday night, and Novato meets Bishop Hogan in Vallejo Saturday night.

Defending champion Drake does not open its season until next Wednesday against Balboa of San Francisco.

College of Marin opens on Dec. 1 against San Mateo.

Brodie An Understanding Soul

Steve Spurrier, rookie All America quarterback from Florida, will make his first start for the San Francisco 49ers Sunday against the Baltimore Colts at Kezar Stadium.

Spurrier will replace veteran John Brodie after four straight 49er losses because "we now plan to go with the men who will be doing the playing next year," Coach Jack Christiansen said yesterday.

The 49ers started fast with Brodie in the National Football League race to a 5-1 record, but now stand 5-5 with title chances gone.

"When I told Brodie he wasn't starting he said he understood," Christiansen reported.

"I understand and respect their right to make the change. That doesn't mean I agree with it," Brodie said.

Spurrier has played only about 10 minutes at quarterback. However, he has handled all the 49ers' punting, averaging 36.5 yards on 53 kicks.

Christiansen said he planned to stay with Spurrier against the powerful Colts. Baltimore has beaten San Francisco in their last 10 meetings.

"Of course, if Steve gets in trouble I'm not going to let him get his brains beat out," Christiansen said. "Brodie will be available."

George Mira, Miami quarterback star who is playing out his option with San Francisco, is unavailable for playing duty because of a knee injury.

Christiansen, regarded as somewhat on the spot after four straight losses, declared he plans to play "a lot of young guys" in the season's remaining games. He said that means guards and tackles as well as quarterbacks.

Mel Phillips will start at free safety Sunday in place of Goose Gonsulin. Rookie linebacker Frank Nunley will replace Matt Hazeltine, hampered by a pulled leg muscle, and Gary Lewis will start at fullback in place of the hobbled Ken Williard.

Dallas Vs. St. Louis In Crucial TV Tilt

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dallas and St. Louis, with only three days to build an appetite, still should be plenty hungry for their Turkey Day meeting tonight with two National Football League divisional titles on the table.

The Cowboys and Cardinals, coming off unsatisfying performances last Sunday, dig in against each other in the Cotton Bowl, the Cowboys sniffing the Capitol Division crown, the Cardinals with an eye on the Century championship.

The game was one of four on the television menu with game time set for 3 p.m. PST on CBS.

Los Angeles met Detroit earlier in the first half of an NFL television doubleheader while Oakland played at Kansas City and Denver at San Diego in an American League twinbill on NBC.

The Cowboys, 7-3, lead the Capitol Division by two games despite a 27-20 upset loss to Washington last Sunday. The situation for the Cardinals, 5-4-1, is more pressing after a dreary 30-3 defeat at Chicago sent them one-half game behind Cleveland in the Century Division.

The teams have only three days to prepare their table manners, but at least they'll be trying to carve up each other with everyone healthy.

They will be looking for a return to form by quarterbacks Don Meredith of Dallas and Jim Hart of the Cardinals. Meredith got the Cowboys only one score against Washington before Craig Morton relieved and pitched for two touchdowns.

HART FLOPS

Hart, a sensation earlier in the season, got only a tie against Pittsburgh two weeks ago and had five passes intercepted by the Bears last Sunday.

Meredith and Morton will be throwing to Lance Rentzel and Bob Hayes with Don Perkins and Dan Reeves running and catching. Hart throws to Bobby Joe Conrad, Jackie Smith and Billy Gambrell with Johnny Roland, the second best rusher in the NFL, running.

But the offenses will be going against two stingy defenses.

"Defense should decide the game," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "Those guys (the Cardinals) can make an offense look awfully bad. And we're tough on defense, too."

SUNDAY GAMES

Dallas is two gaves ahead of Philadelphia, which plays at New York Sunday against the Giants, only a game behind Cleveland. The Browns host Washington, at 4-4-2.

In other Sunday games, Baltimore tries to protect its Coastal Division lead and its unbeaten record at San Francisco while Green Bay, 7-2-1, meets the Bears, 5-5, its closest competition in the Central Division.

Atlanta travels to New Orleans and Minnesota invades Pittsburgh in other contests.

In the AFL Sunday, Houston can pull within a game of the Eastern Division lead with a victory over visiting Boston while Buffalo plays at Miami. The New York Jets, who lead the East, have a bye.

Olympics Boycott Vote Today

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An undisclosed number of Negro professional and amateur athletes meet in a closed session in a South Los Angeles church today to discuss whether to boycott the 1968 Olympic Games.

The meeting was one segment of a three-day series of Black Youth Conferences. The athletic portion was called by Harry Edwards, sociology teacher at San Jose State College.

Edwards declined to identify any of the athletes with the exception of two San Jose State sprinters, Tommie Smith and Lee Evans.

FAVOR GAMES

Smith and Evans have said in letters to associates they want to participate in Olympic Games in Mexico City but that if a majority votes to boycott, they'll agree.

They also said if a boycott is not agreed upon—and neither felt such action would result—a strong statement should be adopted calling for correction of alleged discriminatory practices involving Negro athletes.

Newsmen were to be barred from the meeting, but Edwards said a statement would be issued after the afternoon session.

About 1,000 are expected for the overall three-day meetings but no estimate was given regarding the athletes' session.

Pro Grid Alignment Up In Air

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the American and National football leagues, reaffirmed yesterday that regular season play between the leagues would begin in 1970, but that alignment of the leagues still is up in the air.

The owners of the 16 NFL teams and the 10 AFL clubs, including newly-franchised Cincinnati, meet in New York starting Tuesday to approve formal agreements implementing the merger of the leagues.

Realignment is not on the agenda, Rozelle said, but he added that the owners are almost certain to talk about it informally.

"Several alternatives are open to the owners," Rozelle said. "For example, the two leagues might be retained as they presently exist and there would be interleague games—a heck of a lot of interleague games.

COMPLETE REALIGNMENT

"Or the owners might prefer a complete form of realignment, making up new conferences and divisions."

Rozelle said he hoped the two television networks (CBS and NBC) will continue to carry pro football after 1969 when the current television contracts expire. But he conceded the possibility of the leagues setting up their own networks for games.

"I don't think we can expect television income to continue to rise," he said. "It's possible the NFL teams will have to take less by 1970.

New Yell Team At Redwood High

A group called "Jump Shots" has been elected as Redwood High School's spring yell leaders.

Members Jan Badgley of Kentfield, Sue Mendelsohn of Greenbrae, Scott Maclise of Ross, Robert Little of Corte Madera and John Early, an exchange student from England, will lead cheering at Redwood's basketball game with Santa Rosa tomorrow.

New songleaders are Carla Tofanelli, Pat Brajkovich and Cindy Boswell, all of Greenbrae, Luana Lang of Larkspur, Lynn Doherty of Belvedere and Sharon Vetalie and Carol Murata, both of Corte Madera.

A's Get Robinson, Osteen From Reds

The Oakland Athletics announced yesterday a three-player deal in which they obtain outfielder Floyd Robinson and righthanded relief pitcher Darrell Osteen from the Cincinnati Reds in return for right-hander Ron Tompkins of the Vancouver farm club.

Osteen, 24, finished last season with Buffalo, where he had a 10-4 relief record.

Robinson, hampered by injury last season, had only a .238 batting average but a good RBI mark.

Tompkins, 23, won 10 and lost 9 at Vancouver.

COMPLETE DEAL

Elsewhere on the baseball front, the Detroit Tigers completed their deal for Eddie Mathews last August by sending relief hurler Fred Gladding to the Houston Astros. The Astros chose Gladding from a list of six players named by the Tigers at the time of the trade.

Gladding won six games and saved ten for Detroit.

The New York Mets assigned outfielder Larry Stahl, 26, to Jacksonville, Fla., of the International League and Philadelphia sold right-hander Bill Champion, 20, to their San Diego farm club of the PCL. Stahl hit .237 in 69 games and Champion had a 6-9 record at Portsmouth, Va., of the Carolina League.

The California Angels signed Gaetan Groleau, 20, leading pitcher in the Montreal Junior League the last four years, for a reported $6,000 bonus.

Pop Warner Twin Bill In Kentfield

Now that they're all but on their way to Hawaii, the Terra Linda Junior Trojans can add some more laurels to their already gaudy Pop Warner wreath Saturday.

That's when they'll meet the Redwood City Junior 49ers at College of Marin Stadium in Kentfield at 2 p.m. in a game that pits the Marin County champs against the Peninsula Pop Warner League champs.

The afternoon will also see the runnersup in each league clash at noon with the San Rafael Junior Bulldogs, sporting a 7-1 mark, meeting Sunnyvale, owner of a 6-2 mark.

Admission is free to both contests.

The junior 49ers are aptly named. One of the team's stars is Johnny Crow, son of San Francisco 49er fullback John David Crow. And the assistant coach is Jerry Merton, a former 49er standout.

Both teams are undefeated going into the contest. The Junior Trojans, coached by Jim Finnegan, will be paced by halfback Rick Trono, who has been averaging three touchdowns a game.

Pop Warner gridders are aged 10-13 and can weigh no more than 123 pounds.

The Terra Linda team will play against a Hawaiian team in Hawaii, Dec. 2. It was originally scheduled for Dec. 3, but was moved up one day, according to Finnegan.

A Female Jockey Requests License

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — A 27-year-old horsewoman has aided her sex in surmounting another barrier.

Kathy Kusner waited three hours yesterday until the chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission finally accepted for consideration her application to become a jockey at Laurel racing course.

Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart told Kathy he would take up the matter with other commission members at their next regular meeting in December.

Kathy cited the 1964 Civil Rights act, which bars discrimination on the basis of sex.

She hopes to become the second woman licensed to ride in parimutuel races in America. Judy Johnson, a former licensed jockey during World War II, now trains horses on the Maryland circuit.

The Monkton, Md., stalwart, already famous in the horsey set, is a member of the U.S. Equestrian team and wants to keep her amateur standing to retain her Olympic team eligibility.

'FORGET IT'

Nine years ago she asked steeplechase officials for a jockey license. "Forget it, Kathy," they replied, "you're a girl."

But the 1964 Civil Rights legislation had shed new light on the issue.

"I've been thinking about this ever since the rights law was passed," Kathy admitted.

The attractive 103-pound rider wants to compete both in races on-the-flat and in steeplechase events.

"She's supposed to be a very fine horsewoman," commented Jim Simpson, a respected trainer in Maryland. "I think it would add some color to the game."

Paddy Smithwick, an all-time great among steeplechasers agreed only partly, saying: "I think she'll find it tough to get mounts. How many trainers would use a girl jockey?"

Then there's the all-male jockey quarters.

If Kathy can bring enough news to the racing game, perhaps she can change clothes in the publicity office.

Defense Is The King As L.A. Whips Seals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings used a stout defense last night to turn back the rival Oakland Seals 3-1.

The Kings have won nine games and dropped six, with three ties. In their nine victories, the Kings have scored 40 goals and limited opponents to but 23.

But when they lose, the Kings' defense appears to fall apart. In six losses, the Kings have scored just six goals and allowed 23, nearly four per game.

The defense was so good last night that defenseman Bob Wall got the tie-breaking goal.

BREAKS THROUGH

Wall broke through the Seal defense midway through the second period and fired a 50-foot flat shot just over the shoulder of Oakland goalie Charlie Hodge. It broke a 1-1 tie and the Kings went on to play defense the rest of the way.

With great defensive play by Dale Rolfe, Brent Hughes and Wall, the Kings limited the Seals to just one second-period shot at Wayne Rutledge and the Los Angeles goal. Rutledge was playing in place of star goalie Terry Sawchuck.

Rutledge, 25-year-old rookie, has a record of 7-1-2 this season, Sawchuck is 2-5-1.

The victory kept Los Angeles atop the West Division of the NHL with 21 points. Second-place Philadelphia has 20.

The Kings take on Pittsburgh Friday.

First period—1, Los Angeles, Campbell 3 (Rolfe, MacDonald) 8:34. 2, Oakland, Caron 3 (Erickson) 12:31; 3, Los Angeles, Wall 2 (Labossiere) 13:19. Penalties—Flett 15:23.

Second period—4, Los Angeles, Lemieux 4 (White, Joyal) 6:39. Penalties—Laughton 8:54.

S.F. Basketball Player Killed Rushing To Game

OLNEY, Mont. (AP) — Paul Grootman, 18, of San Francisco, a Carroll College basketball player, was killed last night in an auto accident as he rushed to join his teammates for a game against Northern Montana College.

The Carroll Saints, who defeated the Northern Lights 91-89 in overtime, were not notified of his death until after the game.

Grootman had gone to Eureka with a friend. The two and another person believed to be from Eureka were heading for Columbia Falls and the game when the accident occurred about six miles north of Olney on ice-covered U.S. 93.

Flathead County Coroner Sal Catren said Grootman was thrown from the car and died of head injuries. His two companions were not injured, the coroner added.

Small Colleges Football Bowl Lineup Completed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Conference has completed its lineup of post-season small college football bowl games.

The University of Tennessee at Martin was named yesterday to play West Chester, Pa., State in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Dec. 16.

And Ball State of Muncie, Ind., will oppose Eastern Kentucky in the Grantland Rice Bowl at Murfreesboro, Tenn., Dec. 9.

Tennessee-Martin plays its final regular season game today at Clarksville, Tenn., against Austin Peay.

West Chester State is the only unbeaten team in the lineup. It has a 10-0 record. Tennessee-Martin is 8-1 going into today's game, Ball State is 7-2 and Eastern Kentucky 7-1-2.

Foyt Enters Second Car At Riverside

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—A. J. Foyt, leader in the battle for the U.S. Auto Club driving championship, yesterday entered a second car in Sunday's Rex Mays 300-mile race at Riverside International Raceway.

The Sheraton-Thompson Eagle Ford belatedly entered by Foyt will be driven by Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y., and raised speculation that it was named for the race as "insurance" in the battle for the driving championship.

Foyt leads the championship contest by 340 points. A victory in the Mays 300 carries 600 points. Under USAC rules, should Foyt's car fail, he could take the wheel of the second car and still accumulate points equal to the miles he has driven.

JONES AVAILABLE

Mario Andretti, second in the point standings for the national championship, was reported considering entering a second car to match Foyt's strategy. one of the nation's top drivers, Parnelli Jones, is not entered and is available to drive should Andretti enter a second car.

After mud was scraped from the track yesterday following three days of rain, several cars made practice runs. Among them were Foyt, Dan Gurney, John Surtees, Lothar Motschenbacher and Jerry Grant.

One driver change was announced with Del Amy of Indianapolis replacing Jerry Titus of Sherman Oaks.

Qualifying for Sunday's race gets under way tomorrow. Thirty-nine cars have been entered and 30 will qualify for the $75,000 race.

This year's Army football team has nine lettermen starting on the offensive unit. For five of them, this is their third season at West Point.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

After you've let the ball go, try to get a "ball's-eye view" of the pin action. In other words, stay down. The bowler who straightens up as soon as the ball is gone will unconsciously start raising BEFORE the ball has left her hand. If you bend your left knee sharply as you deliver the ball and hold this position for several seconds, your accuracy will improve and so will the strike power of your ball.

Russell Benches Self As Celtics Rally, Win

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston Celtics' Coach Bill Russell had a problem. He solved it by benching Boston Celtics' player Bill Russell.

Toward the end of the first half of the Celtics' 124-110 victory over San Diego last night, the score was tied 48-48 and Russell put Wayne Embry in for himself.

Big Wayne quickly sank a pair of free throws, added a three-point play and scored another basket, leading the Celts to a 61-52 halftime lead.

Embry came in for Russell again early in the second half and hit three more fast baskets and the Celtics led by as much as 17 points. The Rockets couldn't get back after that.

CINCY WINS

In other NBA action, Cincinnati nipped New York 123-122, Chicago beat Baltimore 105-100, and St. Louis edged Philadelphia 115-113.

Sam Jones led the Boston scorers with 26 points and Bailey Howell had 25. Embry finished with 15. Jon McGlocklin was high for the Rockets with 21.

Jerry Lucas threw in two free throws with two seconds left in the Royals' victory over the Knickerbockers. Oscar Robertson led Cincinnati with 40 points and Lucas added 31. Cazzie Russell topped the Knicks with 29.

Jerry Sloan's 35 points, plus his team's last five of the game, was the big factor in the Bulls' triumph. The Bullets, trailing by 13 points in the third quarter, pulled to within two in the final period, but Sloan clinched the victory with a late basket.

Joe Caldwell's two clutch baskets in the last 90 seconds gave St. Louis its win over Philadelphia and ended a three-game losing streak for the Western Division leaders.

Next Big Sport Craze Is Answer To Rainy Day

This is a rainy day column — in more ways than one.

Gazing out the window where California is in the gray grip of a driving November rainstorm (30% chance or rain," the weatherman said), I am reminded of the recent broadcast by the pundit, Bill Cullen, in which he noted that, at some prairie schools, the names of which I've forgotten, meteorology was a hotter intercollegiate competition than football.

It's a development your orthopedist would hardly approve of. Crutch-makers may be inclined to protest, too.

But I can see it right now — trace the history of this newest intercollegiate sport from its inception.

IT WILL BEGIN with Yale and Harvard (throw out the Rutgers and Princeton inaugural where the sport was so primitive they just held up a wet finger to the wind). The Elis and Harvards will meet in the Yale Bowl predicting the weather on the Boston Post Road for the Big Game weekend. It will be here that the organized cheer "Hit that isobar! Hold that stationary front!" will be heard.

From this modest beginning, the game will move south and west and then, predictably, the hiring of the first professional coaches will begin. No longer will the task of fielding a crack crew of weathermen be entrusted to a climatology professor with a homemade barometer or rheumatism in his joints.

RECRUITMENT WILL follow as night does day. The coaches will range far into the hinterland in search of boys with the natural coordination and musculature to give the mean annual temperature of whole springtimes on the evidence of one early cherry blossom bud.

"Boss," the coach will telephone the chancellor of the university excitedly. "Have I got a kid for your team! The best I ever saw at occluded fronts! The U.S. Weather Bureau won't be able to score a point! He got this way predicting snow for his old man who runs a still and wanted to know when the roads would be impassable for the revenooers.

What? No, boss, he can't pass freshman English. We can get any fool who doesn't know enought to come in out of the rain to do that. And, boss, this kid doesn't want a new convertible to play for us. He wants a new sleigh. And reindeer. He says you'll find out why when November comes."

THE GAME will have its cribbing scandal. Some guy will be found smuggling the Farmer's Almanac into the Big Game with Ohio State, or a whole class will be expelled frrom the Air Force Academy for studying the ground hog on Feb. 1 or sneaking away to observe the burrowing habits of the North American shrew, hedgehogs, ground squirrels and marmots, or the hibernating habits of bears. The eligibility of team members who predict droughts by watching crocodiles in mud beds will be challenged, and the All-American who is found consulting his grandfather's big toe, or his uncle's rheumatism, will be drummed out of school.

A CRY OF "OVEREMPHASIS!" will go up when one school hires its own plane to fly into the eye of a hurricane, but the professors will really crack down when a coach named "Bar" Brant rents his own weather satellite, and a "Sanity Code" will prevail for awhile, in which only certified weather maps, tidal figures and moon phases will be permitted. Crystal balls will be allowed only in the Southeastern Conference.

The game will have its "Wrong Way" Riegels — the guy who predicted "partly cloudy" for the Blizzard of '88, or the one who said "Chance of a few showers" the day the bridges washed out.

NOTRE DAME WILL be asked to turn in its humidity meter the day Michigan State comes up with a "Cloudy in the morning, giving way to clearing in the afternoon" prediction for the Mississippi Valley, and Notre Dame responds with "We agree," thus playing for a tie.

The school that claims "We're No. 1!" on the basis of 25 straight rainy-day predictions come true will be put on probation when it is found they are cloud-seeding, but the No. 1 player in history will be the one who can predict not only rain, but earthquakes, tidal waves, and tornadoes, and will be known to history as "The Galloping Gust."

COLLEGE OF MARIN FOOTBALL ROSTER

Following is the squad roster of College of Marin's football team which has compiled an 8-1 won-lost record, winning the undisputed championship of the Golden Valley Conference and earning a berth in the California Junior College Playoffs against Hartnell College at Salinas Saturday night:

A FEATHER IN THEIR CAPS

The father-son team of Bob (left) and Gordon Dixon of San Rafael proudly display limits of pheasants they shot Saturday and Sunday on the first two days of the 1967 season at Willows. The senior Dixon described the opening days as ". . . the best hunting in the last 10 years. There were limits galore." (Independent-Journal photo)

JACK HANLEY

Colts Have More Than Quarterback Unitas

Johnny Unitas is having a big year with a 59.7 per cent completion record of 188 of 315 passes for 18 touchdowns and 2,588 yards that make the Baltimore Colt quarterback No. 1 among all National Football League passers.

Unitas has been so brilliant in leading the Colts to an 8-0-2 record that two of his supporting stars, Willie Richardson and Tom Matte, haven't received full recognition for their contributions to Baltimore's undefeated season.

Richardson, top NFL receiver with 49 catches for 663 yards and seven touchdowns, finally made it as a starter in his fifth pro campaign this year. Until this season, Jimmy Orr had been Baltimore's flanker but injuries to Orr gave Jackson his big chace.

"There is a tendency to overlook him," acknowledged Shula, "because he does everything so well. When you match him up, you realize he's one of the best receivers around coming out of the backfield. And this year he's running harder than ever.

"ALL-AROUND, HE'S probably having his best year ever for us although he did lead us in rushing and receiving in 1963 when we were hurt by injuries to Lenny Moore and a few others. Matte is one of our most dedicated players."

Kezar Stadium fans will be able to judge for themselves about Matte's versatility when the Colts take on the 49ers Sunday.

MATTE, REMEMBERED for three spectacular weeks two seasons ago when he became an emergency quarterback following injuries to Unitas and Gary Cuozzo, is running and receiving this year in another amazing demonstration of his versatility.

"I'll play guard if the coach says so," said Matte.

But there is no chace of Don Shula switching Matte from his running slot to guard because Matte is too valuable to the Colts in the job he now occupies.

FOR THE 10 games played in the 1967 NFL campaign, Matte has compiled a total of 917 yeards, 474 rushing in 101 carries and 443 receiving on 29 passes caught. He nas scored 11 touchdowns, eight rushing, three receiving.

The other day 49er coach Jack Christiansen said "it doesn't matter much who is running if the quarterback is having a great year like Unitas." The 49er coach meant that as a compliment to Unitas, not a slight to Matte.

BUT THERE has been a tendency to overlook Matte's consistent performances this year for the Colts since the season started. If Baltimore does go through the full regular season undefeated, it will be the first time any NFL team has turned that trick since the Chicago Bears won 11 straight in 1942. And Matte will be a chief contributor to that feat.

Seals Stadium Site To Become Discount Store

REDWOOD CITY, (UPI) — Sale of the site of the old Seals Stadium in San Francisco for $2,550.00 to the White Front Stores chain by the estate of Mrs. Paul I. Fagan was confirmed through probate in superior court here Tuesday.

Interstate Department Stores, Inc., the official name of the White Front chain, announced plans to build a discount store on the three-block site at 16th and Bryant Streets in San Francisco.

The 24,000-seat ballpark was demolished in 1959.It had been the home grounds of the San Francisco Seal for 26 years and the Giants played there for two years until Candlestick Park was completed.

Murray Warmath is heading for his 14th season as football coach at Minnesota.

Redwood Cagers In Fund Drive

Members of the Redwood High School basketball team are conducting a joint fund-raising campaign for the student body and the Mike Kavanagh Fund.

The players are selling key chains with the Redwood varsity basketball schedule inscribed on them. The chains cost 50 cents, with 10 cents going to the student body and five cents to the Kavanagh Fund.

Mike Kavanagh was a former Redwood High School cager who played on the school's first championship team in 1961. He was killed in a training accident on the U.S. aircraft carrier Lexington in 1966 while serving with the U.S. Marine Corps. The fund was started last year.

Tar Cagers Get Ready

By GARY TISCHLER

Cal Riemcke is making something out of nothing again, secretly.

While everybody is bubbling and buzzing about the College of Marin championship football team, Riemcke and assistant John Panagakis are quietly preparing to make another more than respectable basketball team.

"Right now, were sort of like moles working underground," Riemcke said. "Everybody is thinking football, but we're getting ready."

Believe it or not, the Tar cagers have been working out for six weeks, which may be the best kept secret since the atom bomb.

And they've been working hard.

CONDITIONING

"We feel that conditioning is a very key part of the game," Riemcke said. "We keep them busy."

Keeping busy has included a grueling practice scheduling of work, work, work, including 1½ to 2-mile runs on the COM cross-country course at the close of practice.

Still, you gotta have something to work with, and Riemcke feels he has more than he did at the start of last year's season. With the opener against San Mateo only days (Dec. 1) away, it's a good thing.

"I feel we're more mature and bigger this year," Riemcke said. "Right now, we're better prepared than we were last year."

As last year, the Tars will be talented and deep at guard, with veterans Russ Smith and Russ Williams returning, plus all-Marin County Athletic League guard Andre Horn to help out along with Marin Catholic aces Brian Grove and Paul Vickers.

HEIGHT

The height will be provided by veteran Tom Stetson (6-3), Keith Kornelis (6-5) and freshman Tom Herrnberger (6-4) of Novato.

"Kornelis has really improved quite a bit from last year," Riemcke said. "Oh, he'll get knocked around a bit early in the season, but that will help him."

Stetson is a clutch shooter who helped the Tars quite a bit on the boards last year.

Smith, Horn, Williams, Vickers and Grove will give the Tars another crack at making a go-go fast break attack, something they worked very well last year with Bill Pandiani, Bob Phillips and Smith.

Smith averaged 12 points a game last year but Riemcke feels that a year's growth will have given him more maturity and consistency. When he was on last year, he couldn't miss. But there were periods when he did miss, and often.

FRESHMAN

Riemcke also expects to get a lot of work out of freshman Chip Tyson of San Rafael.

Just in case the tough practices aren't enough hardening measures, Riemcke has come up with another typical meatgrinder pre-Golden Valley Conference schedule.

It starts with San Mateo and goes from bad to worse, including Foothill, Hamilton Air Force Base (unbeaten against junior colleges last year), Contra Costa and the Santa Monica Invitational Tournament.

"If we can come out of that with even close to a .500 record we should be in good shape," Riemcke said.

DIVISIONS

The conference is split up into two divisions again, with the Tars heading the Western Division and defending champ Sierra, plus Shasta and Siskiyous heading the tough Eastern Division.

"We'll probably get our toughest fight from Santa Rosa in our division," Riemcke said.

This time, the Tars, who lost to Sierra in the finals of the GVC playoffs last year, should be pretty well prepared.

No Ad Today

What's the Use?
It's Thanksgiving Day

AND, as everybody knows, people don't read ads on Thanksgiving, or Easter, or Christmas, Or New Year's. Or in the summer.

UNFORTUNATELY, "everybody" is wrong.

ASK any readership research organization. You'll learn that people don't turn off their minds at Yuletide. Whitsuntide, high tide, or low tide.

NEWSPAPER readership doesn't go downhill during the skiing season, or the haying season.

ADVERTISING readership doesn't take a dip in the summer.

WE'VE celebrated many Thanksgiving Days at the Independent-Journal. We've seen many summers. And we've learned that readership of both editorial and advertising pages stays at the same high level every day of every week and month of the year.

NO MATTER where you advertise, "season" is no reason to draw a blank with your customers and prospects.

EVEN during holidays, people read.

THANKS for helping us prove it.

And — Oh, Yes.
Have a Good Holiday!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

On This Thanksgiving Day The Wonder Drug Blessings Are Many

VAN DELLEN

Our generation has been one of the most productive and exciting eras in medical advances and I am thankful to have had the opportunity to be part of it. The wonder drugs were introduced when I was a young physician and millions owe their lives to penicillin and other antibiotics. The modern epilepsy drugs have made it possible for persons previously doomed to a life of seclusion to become active in family and community affairs.

Then came a host of "anti" drugs to combat peptic ulcer, allergy, malaria, arthritis, dropsy, tuberculosis, high blood pressure, syphilis, diabetes, and various nervous disorders. New anesthetics have expanded the field of surgery. Operations on the heart and lungs now are everyday procedures.

KNOWING THE high-risk factors leading to strokes and heart attacks has put prevention of these disorders within our reach. Drugs that slow up the growth of cancer are adding months or years of comfortable living to those doomed to die from this dreadful disease.

Many families are disturbed because a son is in Vietnam but they can be thankful we are not living in the days of the Spanish-American War when 200 soldiers died every day from yellow fever alone. Two decades previously the civilian population of the south was wracked by an epidemic of this disease, and 90 to 100 died daily in most of the larger cities. In Civil War days, dysentery, typhoid, and tetanus took a greater toll than did injuries from cannons; in the Crimean War, the mortality rate was 42 per cent.

COLONIAL SETTLERS who celebrated the first Thanksgiving had reasons to be thankful. In our first settlement at Jamestown, of the total population of 398, only 60 survived. Some succumbed to arrows and tomahawks but many more died from smallpox, malaria, and yellow fever. The Massachusetts colonists, weakened by hardships and lack of proper food, became easy prey to tuberculosis, pneumonia, and typhoid. Half of them died from these diseases.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

PULSATION IN EAR

G. C. writes: My son remarked that he could feel his heartbeat in his ear and it was very annoying. He will not take time to see the doctor. Could this be serious?

REPLY

It might be, if the sound is audible at all times. On the other hand, if the thumping occurs only when he is lying in bed on the left side, the noise is being transmitted from the chest wall to the ear through the mattress.

NO DANGER TO THIS MOTHER

Mrs. L. N. writes: I gave birth to a premature baby who died of a malignant tumor. Could I develop cancer because of carying this child?

REPLY

No, and if you do it is coincidental.

SIMPLE RULES, NOTHING TO BUY

Clip words from I-J news headlines or from the ads, from any pages, any issues, of the I-J. Then arrange words in any order to form the FUNNIEST, MOST ORIGINAL "HEADLINE" OF 15 WORDS OR LESS. Use words in the bolder display type. See example above. Use words and numerals only. Do not clip single letters to form a word.

Paste words down in 4 lines or less on any sheet of paper, 8½"x11." Note: Run headline with the long way of the sheet. Put your name, address, phone number at top left corner and the date.

Six winners per week! Entries postmarked by Wednesday qualify for judging of following week's daily winners. Enter each week; more chance to win! Enter as many headlines and as many times as you wish.

Mail your entry to: "MAKE THE HEADLINES," INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL, 1040 B STREET, SAN RAFAEL, CALIF. 94902.

PRIZES & PUBLICATION OF WINNERS

$1,000 in cash prizes; 50 winners for 50 days. $20 to each daily winner. The 50 daily winners qualify for final judging for the Grand Prize: 10-day trip for two to Tahiti. Winning entries published daily, October 11 thru December 7.

All entries become the property of Independent-Journal. Judges' decisions final. Open to all except I-J employees and their families. A copyrighted feature of the Independent-Journal.

Get in the fun! Entertainment for everyone—and all members of the family may enter. Start now—maybe you'll win that trip to Tahiti!

ENTER EACH WEEK! RUNS THRU DEC. 7

50 WINNERS FOR 50 DAYS ENTER EACH WEEK!

Sharpen your wits, tune-up the old funnybone and get in the act! The whole family will enjoy this fun game.

Anna Dooley Will Filed

Anna K. Dooley, the late "matriarch of Bret Harte Heights," has left money to two Marin organizations and five county residents.

Mrs. Dooley died Nov. 15 at her home at 85 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael. Her will was filed in Marin Probate Court yesterday.

It leaves $1,000 to the Marin County Humane Society and $500 to the Marin Symphony Guild.

Francis and Helen McGrath of Ross were listed to receive $1,000, as were Evelyn and Les Airth of 434 Beach Road, Tiburon, and Edith Altmann of 22 Elm Avenue, Larkspur.

Mrs. Dooley divided $33,000 in cash bequests among friends and relatives in California and Germany.

She directed that her property be sold and divided among relatives in Germany.

She and her husband, the late E. T. Dooley, made frequent trips to Europe and were known for European-style dinners they gave at home for Bret Harte Heights residents.

Two Guilty Pleas In Marijuana Case

Elmer Clayton White, 23, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession, a felony in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

His wife, Claudia Mae White, 21, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of being knowingly present in a place where marijuana was used.

Both were originally charged with marijuana possession and possession of marijuana for sale. Sheriff's deputies said they had eight match boxes of marijuana in their Forest Knolls house trailer Sept. 82.

The district attorney's office filed an amended complaint against Mrs. White yesterday. Judge Alvin H. Goldstein dropped the second charge against White at the request of the district attorney.

White was ordered to appear in Superior Court Dec. 18 for sentencing. Mrs. White is to be sentenced Dec. 8 in Municipal Court.

Dues To Buy San Marin Diamond Turf

Directors of the San Marin Improvement Association last night approved taking from future association dues the estimated $1,500 cost of turfing a baseball diamond at the elementary school now under construction in the area.

All residents of San Marin will be asked to join the association and pay $6 yearly dues, part of which will go toward the ballfield project, said Joseph Bonomolo, association president.

Directors also made preliminary plans at the meeting at Bonomolo's home for a carnival in March to raise funds for construction of a tot lot on a site still to be chosen, Bonomolo reported.

Directors agreed to go before the county planning commission Monday to ask for guidance on how to preserve the master plan for the area, as developer Sunset International Petroleum Corp. plans to auction off some of the land.

Bonomolo authorized to appear before the board of supervisors Nov. 30 when they consider a special county service area for police protection. Directors took no stand on the proposal but asked Bonomolo to report on the supervisors' action.

The next meeting of directors will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 14 at the home of vice president John B. Duca, 30 San Ramon Way.

Marijuana Case Warrant Issued

Marin Municipal Judge Hadden W. Roth yesterday issued a bench warrant for John H. Chafin, 23, of 65 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley.

Chafin failed to appear in court for arraignment on a felony charge of marijuana possession, which came Saturday after an undercover Sausalito policeman was offered a marijuana cigarette at a home at 55 Sunshine Avenue.

Bail on the warrant was set at $500.

Three other men arrested at the house pleaded innocent in Municipal Court yesterday to charges of being knowingly present where marijuana was used.

They are Richard R. Savage, 20, no known address, Terry A. Hensley, 23, of San Diego, and John L. Fish, 20, of 65 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley.

Jury trial for the three was set for Dec. 7 at 9:30 a.m.

15 Job Corps Openings Listed For Marin Youth

There are 15 openings for Marin youths in federal Job Corps program, part of a 1,500 person state quota.

Youths may apply at the California State Employment Service, 805 E Street, San Rafael. They must be at least 16 and not over 21, unable to find work and with little prospect of employment because of lack of skills.

Job Corps courses include training in car and truck maintenance, mechanics and body repair, building trades, building maintenance and landscaping, food service and preparation, air conditioning, heating and refrigeration installation and repair, farm equipment repair and operation, machine shop trades, electrical and sheet metal work, radio, appliance, office machine and television repair, diesel engine mechanics, drafting, printing, photography, commercial art, retailing, medical service occupations, laundry and dry cleaning, clerical.

Cool, Fair Skies Are Due In Marin

Cool, fair weather and gentle winds was the Weather Bureau's prediction for Thanksgiving Day in the Bay area, and for tomorrow.

High temperatures today will be 65 to 70, low tonight, 35 to 45.

Oswald Headstone Reported Stolen

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The headstone over the grave of Lee Harvey Oswald has been stolen, police report.

The time of the theft has been set at late Tuesday or early yesterday, four years to the day after Oswald, according to the findings of the Warren Commission, assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

Can-A-Gift Will Begin Tomorrow

Bill Salame, president of the Trojan Boosters Association, has announced that Can-A-Gift, an unusual method of "wrapping" Christmas presents, will be in operation at the Northgate Fashion Mall beginning tomorrow.

The Can-A-Gift booth will open each day at noon an remain open until 9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 5:30 p.m. each Saturday.

The Trojan Boosters Association with a membership of approximately two hundred has as its basic purpose the support of all the athletic endeavors engaged in by the students at Terra Linda High School.

All proceeds from the Can-A-Gift operation will be used for the planned activities of the association in the months to come.

Danish Yule Feast Huge

Dinner on Christmas Eve in Denmark traditionally comprises either goose or pork roast with boiled potatoes and red cabbage. Rice boiled in milk in another important part of the menu and every rice dish contains a single almond.

Whoever ends up with the almond on his plate gets a special prize.

After dinner, the family joins hands and walks round the Christmas tree. The Christmas presents are handed out and carols are sung. The Christmas tree — normally a shapely spruce bought a few days previously on a Sunday afternoon car excursion to the woods — is itself a feature. In the home, the tree is not lighted with colored bulbs.

Real wax candles are used and a water bucket normally stands beside the tree in case the flames get out of hand.

Christmas Eve is also the night when many Danes go to church even if they have not set foot in a place of worship all year. As a result, very few churches are left uncrowded on this one night.

On Christmas Day, the family celebrations continue and any uncles and aunts left out from the previous merrymaking join the big midday meal. December 26 is a public holiday and the Danes use it for getting over the festivities of the previous two days.

"Joseph lodged in a certain cave near the village; and then, while they were yet there, Mary gave birth to the Christ and placed Him in a manger. . . ." St. Justin the Martyr (160 A.D.)

Portugal Joins Sunday Ban On Delivery Of The Mail

LISBON (AP) — Portubal has joined other European countries, and most of the world, in stopping mail deliveries on Sunday.

As of Oct. 1, the government decreed, the 3,500 letter carriers usually working on the Sabbath take the day off. The action was prompted by the increasing adoption by most businesses of the English or American workweek of 5½ or 6 days, the Communications Ministry said.

Portugal will continue its three-a-day delivery system six days a week.

Double Duty Yule Record Making Debut

A Christmas record that does double duty — it can be played on either stereo or monaural record players — makes its debut this Yuletide season.

The seventh "Great Songs of Christmas" album offered by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. is manufactured in stereo only — but through a process that allows it to be played equally as harmoniously, and without damage, on monaural record players. It is available at the Goodyear Service Store at 496 Las Gallinas avenue Northgate Shopping Center and through other Goodyear retail stores and dealers throughout the nation.

This year's selection of 20 Christmas songs by 12 artists and groups includes renditions by several that are particularly popular with younger, under-35 audiences — such as the Brothers Four, John Davidson and the New Christy Minstrels. And this fact is expected to help assure that the 1967 album, like its six predecessors, will win an industry "gold record," awarded to recordings whose sales top the million mark.

Selections in the album are Barbra Streisand, "The Lord's Prayer;" Tony Bennett, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" and "The Christmas Song;" Sally Ann Howes, "Toyland" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem;" Robert Goulet, "This Christmas I Spend With You;" Steve Lawrence, "'Twas The Night Before Christmas" and "Let Me Be The First to Wish You a Merry Christmas;" the New Christy Minstrels, "Here We Come A'Caroling" and "Silent Night."

Northgate's Christmas Spirit

By DONNA GRIMSTEDT

From "Snowflake Lane" decorations to Can-A-Gift to the free Christmas Cartoon Festival — one can see at a glance that Christmas is merrier at Northgate! And a closer look reveals even greater wonders. A look inside each store proves that the Spirit of Christmas has been busy in every corner, working night and day to make this the merriest Christmas ever, a Merry Christmas full of surprises.

THE FASHION MALL sparkles, twinkles and glows with the charm of huge illuminated snowflakes and elegant Christmas trees. The transformation to snowflake lane is complete and beckons a visit from Marin shoppers in search of a holiday fairyland. The display is in full illumination every evening until 9:30 from now through the Holidays.

CHILDREN ARE in for a treat with the Christmas Cartoon Festival, cartoons selected especially for them by Santa. Santa surely knows how to make it easy for them to be "good little boys and girls."

Fun for the kiddies, and fun for everyone, will be the Can-A-Gift booth operated by the Trojan Boosters Association. Their booth will be situated right in the Fashion Mall and will open up each day at noon. Pay the Trojan Boosters a visit and have your gifts canned!

THE ONLY PROBLEM you might find at Northgate will be in deciding which item to purchase. With so many thousands of items to choose from — for your own Holiday needs and for those on your gift list — an indecisive shopper might well be in for a shock. As one example, the Fashion Mall offers well over 70,000 pair of shoes! If figures like that one leave you stunned, your best bet might be to look more closely into the world of gift certificates. You might even consider having your gift certificate canned by the Trojan Boosters.

FOR THOSE Christmas shoppers who like to design their own gift wrappings, unusual gift wrap materials can be found at Chandlers — over 40 colors of felt to choose from, over 60 colors of ball fringe, a wide assortment of ribbons to add the finishing touch to your own design, plus countless other materials that could be used by the imaginative designer.

For Christmas shoppers who aren't so handy about wrapping presents, several of the stores in the Fashion Mall are prepared to give you a helping hand. City of Paris has one night set aside for wrapping your gifts without any charge.

PACIFIC CARPETS will be host during the Holiday Season to a display of floral designs from Flower's Etc. in Fairfax. Maxine Ernst, the owner of Flowers Etc., imports plastic artificial flowers from Europe and with these creates a variety of designs for centerpieces, planters and similar displays. The showing at Pacific Carpets will consist of arrangements specially designed for the Holiday Season.

IF YOU'RE SHOPPING for that very special little girl on your list, you might stop in at McKenzie's for a look at their new luggage, designed especially for girls to use on those frequent over-night trips. The luggage is perfect for packing everything needed at slumber parties, perfect too for holiday trips to visit grandparents. The luggage is available in three sizes, comes in both print and plain patterns, and would surely make your little girl feel like a world traveler — luggage all her own!

THE LARGEST NECKTIE sale in the country begins Friday, October 24 at Roos/Atkins. Hundreds and hundreds of ties to choose from at three different prices. This is an annual affair at Roos/Atkins, one of the events for which they are famous. Don't miss it!

STEWART MORTON, manager of the City of Paris in the Northgate Fashion Mall, has announced that every night from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. City of Paris will have a different "Christmas Happening" one night a drawing for a $25 gift certificate, an evening of free gift wrapping, and evening with specials just for men, several evening of give-a-ways of such items as Christmas trees, mistletoe corsages, cosmetic samples, poinsetta plants. Added this Christmas season is a wide selection of gourmet items from the famous Normandy Lane of the San Francisco City of Paris. Added also is an Oriental department, this department now a permanent fixture at the Northgate City of Paris. Remember to look through the beautiful selection of UNICEF cards and calendars. The City of Paris in Northgate Fashion Mall is the only store in Marin County where these can be purchased.

COFFEE ETC. offers coffee from fifteen different countries. If you've never experimented with coffee from 'round the world before, Christmas is the perfect time for the imaginative hostess to add a different touch to her entertaining. Coffee Etc. has all the necessary ingredients for preparing coffee in ways that will add a special motif to your hospitality.

In early New Orleans, Cafe Brulot always climaxed the Creole New Year's Day celebration. With the family gathered around, Papa prepared the spicy coffee and the blazing Brulot shone as brightly as the prospects for the new year.

CAFE BRULOT

- 4 ounces cognac
- 2 small cinnamon sticks
- 8 whole cloves
- 10 pieces of lump sugar
- 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
- 2 long strips orange peel
- 2 strips lemon peel
- 2 cups demitasse-strength coffee

Place all ingredients, except hot demitasse coffee, in chafing dish. Ignite cognac with match and stir ingredients until well blended. After a minute or two, slowly pour in the hot black coffee and continue to stir. (In winter, heat brandy before using). To serve, strain into Brulot or demitasse cups. Makes about 4 demitasse servings.

SOME TRADITIONAL

Commercialization Making Mark On French Yuletide

PARIS (AP) — Ancient ways of celebrating Christmas still exist in France, but since World War II the freer flow of trade and peoples and commercialization trends have made their marks on Yuletide here.

Anglo-Saxon and German traditions now mark French celebrations. But there are other influences, too.

The flow of imported greetings cards and ornaments, which have come mostly from Germany, Britain and the United States, is now supplemented extensively by items from Japan and the Communist world — Red China, Czechoslovakia, Poland and other countries.

Some old and purely French traditions remain in several regions. In Alsace, families observe the German Christmas Eve (Weinacht) with Christmas trees.

ST. NICOLAS

In Lorraine and other sections of northern France, the Christmas celebration is preceded by "Saint Nicolas day," Dec. 6. The good saint gives presents to obedient children, but he is accompanied by the Pere Fouetard" (Whipping Father), who hands out sticks for boys and girls who have not been good.

Throughout France, midnight mass in Catholic churches and the night cult in Lutheran churches are widely observed.

The Christmas meal varies widely in various parts of France, depending on local customs and availability of products.

The Holy Crib occupies an important place in the decoration of homes, especially since the Provence custom of small "santons" has gained preference throughout the country. The "santons" are small clay personifications of the local characters and they are placed near the crib with the Holy Family and the Wisemen who were present after Jesus was born. These "santons" represent a local profession or function, such as fishmonger, butcher, carpenter, weaver, shepherd, mayor, policeman, landlord, mucisian, and others.

As many as a hundred figures may be grouped around the Christmas "creche" (manger) scene, offering great opportunities for amateur decorators.

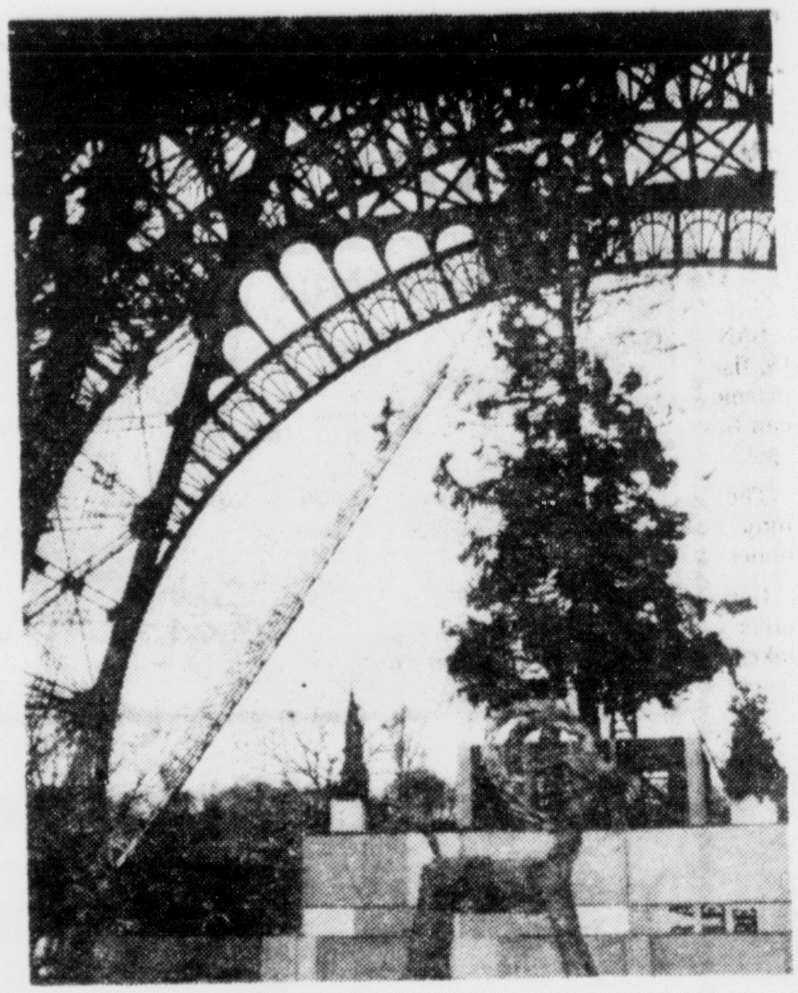
The Christmas day celebration is a family affair generally centered around a big lunch or supper. The menu includes a great variety of staples and special dishes, starting with oysters — always served raw with lemon juice or vinegar sauce — boiled or grilled lobster in a hot tomato, wine and brandy sauce, and other specialities.

This is followed by a main course, which may vary from a roast beef to a leg of moutton or a turkey, chicken or goose.

The Anglo-Saxon and Spanish tradition of turkey is gaining ground every year.

Dessert is generally a "Buche de Noel" Yule Log) made of a sort of pastry of biscuit and butter creams in the shape of a log. The dish is extremely heavy, but a must in most French homes.

Frenchmen still go out on Christmas Eve for "reveillon" parties in restaurants or friends' homes, but this tradition is especially observed on New Year's Eve.



IN PARIS—A huge pine tree from Sweden being erected under the Eiffel Tower. This is one of the many ways Christmas is observed in France.

Do Fish Like Warm Or Cold Water Homes?

SAN ANGELO, Tex (AP) — Do fish like so snuggle up to the warmest stream of water they can find? Or do they hunt a cool spot?

The answer to these questions may come from a study now under way.

Hot water from power and other industrial plants pours into lakes and streams. Whether this is good or bad for fish will be the object of a $200,000 research project by some companies and conducted by Texas A & M University.

SELECTED SITES

Lake Nasworthy near San Angelo, Lake Bastrop near Austin, North Lake near Dallas and Galveston Bay near Baycliff have been selected as sites for the probe.

The hot water discharge area at West Texas Utilities Co's. power plant on Lake Nasworthy is among the choice fishing spots on the lake. West Texas Utilities is one of the contributors to the survey.

The A&M wildlife science department project is the first comprehensive study in the southern United States, says project supervisor Dr. Kirk Strawn.

Some research has been conducted in norther states and the studies indicated that hot water was bad for fishing. But what may hold for fish in northern United States may not be the case in the warmer waters of Texas.

Dr. Strawn said he found channel catfish prefer water temperatures of 84 to 86 degrees. Young fish also were found to grow best at these temperatures.

TYPES OF DATA

Three types of data will be sought in the study which began during September. Researchers want to know how the fish distribute themselves with relation to the power plant's heated discharge, how many different kinds of fish there are in lakes and how fast they grow.

One long-range result of the sutdy may be the introduction of some fish which are valuable for food and game that cannot survive winter cold.

"This heat is a real resource," says Dr. Strawn. "It's a matter of figuring out how to use it best."

Red, it seems, is the favorite bike color for youngsters, although there do not seem to be any pat answers as to "why?"

Calendar Features Art By The Tots

A 1968 calendar featuring drawings by nursery school children has been published by parent members of the Terra Linda Co-Operative Nursery School to raise funds for the nursery.

The calendars are availabie at the Walden Book Store in the Northgate Fashion Mall as well as from nursery school members.

In addition to the calendar's art work, the editorial content features seasonal articles pertaining to the nursery-school age child. Suggestions for creative play are given as well as recipes for play-dough and finger painting soap that can be made in the mother's own kitchen.

Colorful Semi-Pagan Customs Mark Christmas In Austria

By ROLAND PRINZ

VIENNA (AP) — On Christmas Eve, Austrian children sing "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht" and unwrap the presents that the generous "Christkind" has left.

But long before then, colorful semi-pagan customs foreshadow the Nativity.

Unlike in Anglo-Saxon countries, no stockings are stuffed with goodies by Santa Claus on Christmas Day. This bearded old man with the gentle voice will knock at the door on Dec. 6, sometimes accompanied by a horned, fur-clad "Krampus," who brandishes a chain and threatens disobedient kids with a long birch-rod.

THE GAIETY

In the country, where this gruesome character is even more likely to turn up with St. Nicholas, young girls may be packed into wheelbarrows, carried off through the wintry night, and given a sound thrashing.

And on Dec. 4, "Strohschabmaenner," straw-clad men with antenna-like rods projecting from their heads, appear in the Syrian countryside. They are reminiscent of the power that pagan demons held in winter.

In the city, weeks before Christmas, medlar twigs are hung in vases or on walls. The branches are golden if the family boasts a bride.

This is also the time when kids write wishful letters to the "Christkind" (Christ Child). The notes are postmarked at the famous post office in Christkindl, a village located near the Upper Austrian town of Steyr.

The Christmas tree, which symbolizes a new beginning, first appeared in Vienna in 1832. But another token of joyful anticipation is the "Barbara twig," cut of apple blossoms on St. Barbara's Day. Good fortune is guaranteed if the buds bloom by Christmas.

COMMON SIGHT

During the Christmas season, old women offering "Franzischkerln" are common sight on church squares in Vienna. The faithful buy these triangular votive tapers and place them in cozy corners of their homes.

Baking assorted pastries, especially biscuits with ingredients ranging from dried fruit to the most sophisticated creams, is another long-standing Austrian tradition.

GINGER CAKES

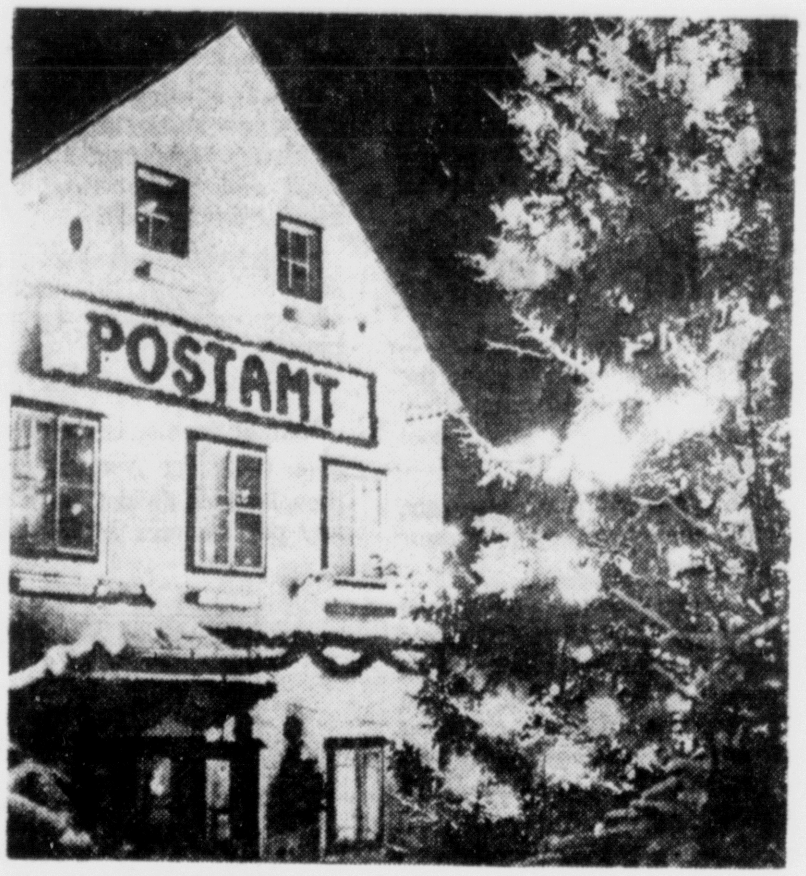
"Gebilde-Brote," round or oblong gingerbread cakes with Christian or semi-pagan symbols engraved in their wooden molds, are popular in the alpine regions.

When Christmas Eve finally arrives, children will be sent from the house to run some errand. When they return, a ringing bell will announce that the Christ Child has made his visit to their home.

Later, particularly in the Vienna area, their mother will serve carp or other fish — a custom derived from the Catholic fish symbol.

In the provinces where the Catholic faith is still deeply rooted in everyday life, the whole family will march for hours through rugged, snow-covered country to attend the midnight service at the parish church.

On Christmas morning, they will again pay tribute to the Christkind, bedded in a crib surrounded by finely carved limewood figurines of the Nativity.



POST OFFICE — The famous Austrian "Christkindl" post office is near Steyr in Upper Austria. Children address wishful letters to "Christkind" there.

BRUSSELS SIGHT — Christmas decorations are colorful on the rue Neuve in this northern metropolis.

A Belgian Christmas Is Rich In Color

BRUSSELS (AP) — In Belgium, as in all Christian countries, the keeping of Christmas is a tradition which is scrupulously observed in a particularly colorful and picturesque way.

No other holiday seems to combine pagan and religious traditions as Christmas does: the Northern Hemisphere of the earth reaches the moment when it is furthest from the sun and then gradually the days begin to grow longer.

It is this return to light which is symbolized by the Christmas fires and brightly decorated trees; the world is saved from everlasting darkness as the sun slowly returns. Also at this time, Christ, our saviour, was born, divine incarnation came down upon this earth to save men from spiritual darkness and lead them to the light of faith.

AN IMITATION

Although the birth of Christ has always been celebrated in Belgium, it is only lately that, in imitation of the Anglo-Saxon and Nordic countries, rejoicings have acquired such wide-spread popularity. Contrary, however, to the custom in these countries and although Christmas serves as an excuse for giving presents, it is not Father Christmas who brings toys to Belgian children, but Saint Nicholas on Dec. 6.

At the approach of Christmas, the cathedrals, the abbeys and the churches in even the smallest villages prepare their Midnight Mass for Dec 24 — often a true festival of music and sacred songs.

All the important towns in Belgium sparkle in the night. The historic buildings are floodlit and the main streets are all lit up, with each store competing in imagination and good taste to make its display a fairy-tale scene.

Everywhere, the pastry shops are full of chocolate sabots and cream cakes in shape of logs, while the restaurants advertise their special Christmas Eve menus on which, contrary to custom, turkey stuffed with truffles takes the place of the famous Brussels chicken. Early on Christmas morning, onion soup, piping hot and sprinkled with grated cheese, nourishes the lingering merry-makers.

ONE OBSERVANCE — Swimmers brave icy waters in January to retrieve cross hurled into Hudson River by Greek Orthodox priest. This is part of a ceremony observing Feast of Epiphany.

Many Legends, Customs Linked To Another Season – Epiphany

By BOB WALDRON

The Columbus Dispatch

In secular life, Christmas may be just a Dec. 25 holiday, quickly followed by another holiday, on New Year's.

The Christian religion, which has led a large part of the world to celebrate the birth of Jesus, also finds in His early life some other great and significant momements that call for special recognition.

Some of the events are commemorated in Epiphany. The word itself comes from a Greek expression meaning manifestation, or showing forth. The central theme of the festival of Epiphany, therefore, is manifestation of the Son of God and his mission to the world — to all men — as a babe receiving the adoration of the wise men, as a boy talking with the teachers in the temple, as an adult being baptized in the waters of the Jordan River, and at the beginning of His ministry when He demonstrated the power of God by turning water into wine at a wedding at Cana in Galilee.

Jan. 6, the 12th day after Christmas, is the principal day of the Epiphany season. Many legends and customs are connected with it and with the Twelfth Night, or the Eve of Epiphany. The importance of this period is deep-seated and, in some parts of the world, it is the time of gift-giving, rather than Dec. 25.

Most Christian churches recognize the Epiphany in one way or another, but not many of them in this coutry make a big thing of it. The most emphasis probably is put on it by the Greek Orthodox, Byzantine Eastern Catholic, Roman Catholic, Episcopalian and Lutheran congregations.

The Greek Orthodox Church observes Epiphany with two days of significant events on Jan. 5 and 6, keyed particularly on the baptism of Jesus. Rev. Antohny P. Sarris, pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church of the Annunciation, in Columbus, Ohio, explains that on Jan. 5 there occurs the small blessing of the water, with the priest visting the homes of the faithful, sprinkling each home with holy water and blessing the members in the hosehold. It also is a day of fasting.

Following, on Jan. 6 is the great blessing of the water font in the church and those present receive special blessings. Those who fasted on the previous day are entitled to partake of the holy water.

In several areas of the United States, including Asbury Park, N.J., Long Beach, Calif., and Tarpon Springs, Fla., the services are held at the seashore with great pomp and ceremony. The cross is hurled into the sea by the archbishop, and bystanders leap into the chilly water to retrieve it. The one who succeeds gets a special blessing.

Byzantine Eastern Catholics celebrate Epiphany in similar fashion, except that the visitation of homes follows the Jan. 6 blessings of the water, extending the season eight more days.

Roman Catholics mark Jan. 6 as a feast day, usually with a special mass, pointing to the theory that Christ came for and to all men, not to any particular race or group. Portrayal of the three wise men, or Magi, as varied in color and race tends to carry out this theme.

Some Lutheran churches hold Epiphany services, generally covering the altar in white, the symbol of the joy of the gospel of Christ, leaders of the denomination say.

For Episcopalians, the Epiphany season varies in length depending on the date of Easter.

Epiphany, sometimes called "Little Christmas" or "Little Easter," was associated in early times with both the birth and baptism of Jesus. In some parts of the world it still is a time of gift-giving, a custom probably associated with the gifts of the wise men who are said to have brought gold and frankincense and myrrh when they journeyed to Bethlehem to worship the infant Jesus. This visit of the Magi also is pointed to as an important manifestation of the glory of God to man through Christ, the savior of the World.

One of the most interesting of many legends associated with Epiphany concerns these wise men. As they followed the star on their journey, it is said, they passed an old woman cleaning her house. She asked them to wait until she finished her work, so she could go with them. They said they could not wait, and advised her to follow as soon as she could. She did, but by then it was too late, for the light of the star had faded, and she could not find the way.

All down the centuries since then, legend says, she has been wandering in search of the Christ Child, and has brought gifts to little children for His sake. Perhaps, some has suggested, this old story has a message for people who have no time for religion, and who allow prosperity or greed on economic levels to crowd God out of their lives.

Traditions Hardfast At Christmas Time

LONDON (AP) — In the kitchen, hot fat pops in the roasting tin as the turkey cooks. Outside, childish voices pipe away at the first verse or two of "While Shepherd Watched," or "Noel, Noel."

The heating, likely as not, now comes from electric, gas or oil-fired central heating instead of a log fire crackling in the hearth. The carol singers' faces are pinched with the cold, but the odds are against there being any snow. Only four times in the last 73 years has it snowed on Christmas Eve in London area.

SEVEN TIMES

Only seven times over that 73 years has there been snow on Christmas Day and only eight times has it snowed on the day after Christmas, known here as Boxing Day.

Christmas in England is still a time of joy, of peace and goodwill among men. And although times change, traditions die hard. Though these days the traditional Christmas pudding, a fruit-rich dark-brown steamed pudding, is probably bought at the supermarket rather than made at home.

Christmas Eve is always a busy day. There's the last minute shopping to be done. All the stores will be closed for two, three and sometimes even four days, depending on whether the holdiay comes at midweek or the weekend.

Homes are decorated with paper chains, holly, silver tinsel, and, of course, a Christmas tree. Over the doorways and among the paper chains will hang pieces of mistletoe — reverred by the ancient druids — under which one can traditionally claim a kiss.

On Christmas Eve, many families go to church for the watch night service or Midnight Mass. On their return home, parents arrange their childrens' presents for Christmas Day. The children will have hung a stocking at the foot of the bed and next morning it will be full of candy, nuts, fruit and other goodies.

YULE FEASTS

Early afternoon is traditionally the time for the Christmas dinner. The main course is usually poultry. Once chicken was popular but now that battery chickens are so common the choice is more likely to be turkey — or even duck or goose. Depending on the bird, there will be stuffing — sage and onion, chestnut, or sausage meat. The vegetables will probably include roasted potatoes, peas, brussels sprouts.

More and more families these days enjoy a bottle of wine with their Christmas dinner, possibly champagne. Then brandy or rum will be poured over the Christmas Pudding and set aflame.

Mexico Taking On Many U.S. Yule Customs

By CHARLES GREEN

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Christmas in Mexico is becoming more and more like Christmas in the United States. But there is still much tradition left and Christmastime is the big social season in this country.

Many Mexicans now have Christmas trees, imported of course, and Santa Claus mixes freely with the Three Kings outside big department stores.

But Mexicans still have "posadas" to reenact Mary and Joseph's search for an inn; the tiny dolls in the "rosca de reyes," build intricate and beautiful manger scenes and break "pinatas." Children still put a shoe out for small gifts rather than hang a stocking.

The blending of tradition with imported Christmas ideas is wonderful for some middleclass children because it means a double shot at presents.

The trend to make Mexico's Christmas more like that in the United States started after the Second World War. Now almost every middle and upper class home sports a Christmas tree, a tree which may stand for a full month. But Mexican law protects this country's few fir trees, so Mexicans buy trees imported from the United States or Canada.

TRADITIONAL DAY—"The Day of the Three Kings" is the traditional day for giving gifts. The kings here are arriving in this Mexico City event.

In some remote sections of the country the manger scene or creche is still the highpoint of Christmas decoration. Artisans spend many hours fashioning the figures inside the creche.

The biggest part of the Mexican season starts nine days before Christmas.

For nine nights there are "posadas" all over the country. "Posada" means inn, and these parties started out as religious reenactments of the search for lodging in Bethlehem. Guests ask, in song, for lodging. The host sings back that he has no space. Another verse repeats the request and the host opens the door to the candle-carrying guests.

Now "posadas" for the most part are Christmas parties just like those in New York or anywhere else north of the border. Liquor flows freely. Each year the Catholic Church deplores the degeneration of "posadas" into drinking parties. The church has succeeded in getting Mexicans to omit some of the more religious parts of the traditional song but, midway through the evening, candle-carrying guests are likely to march through the host's home singing for lodging between slugs of imported whiskey.

Religious organizations, and some private citizens, keep the traditional posada alive.

Sometimes the host bakes a cake called "rosca de reyes" in which is hidden a tiny doll. The guest whose slice contains the doll is obligated to hold the next "posada."

Parties for children, and often for adults, include a "pinata." This is a clay pot decorated with gaily-colored paper to look like a king, a saint, a politician or any sort of animal. It contains candy, fruit, nuts and other edibles. Blindfolded guests take turns trying to smash it with a stick.

Santa Claus, thanks to the influence north of the border, now makes a stop in Mexico on Christmas Eve.

He leaves gifts for many Mexican children whose fathers hadn't heard anything good about Santa Claus until they were grown. Some people still complain he's a bad "gringo" image imported from a materialistic country.

Jan. 6, the day of the Three Kings, is the traditional day for gift-giving in Mexico although some people double up with gifts on Dec. 25 also.

Children love this double event. Fathers are sometimes not so happy. The Santa Claus bills often arrive before the day of the Three Kings.

Pumpkins Originated In Mexico

Pumpkins originated in Mexico and Central America. Centuries before Columbus reached the New World, Indian tribes were cultivating pumpkins and squash almost everywhere in North America.

The colonists soon found that cooked pumpkin was a nourishing food. They made soup, stew, pudding, bread and griddle cakes as well as pie.

Even the shell was used. Early New England laws said every man had to have his hair trimmed around a cap. Sometimes a dried half shell was substituted. Because of this, New Englanders came to be called pumpkin heads, which later came to mean a dolt.

The term "some pumpkins" for a person or thing of consequence was coined by New Yorkers in the 1850s when their fancy was taken by gigantic pumpkins displayed at the Crystal Palace.

High School Diploma Late — By 63 Years

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — Now that Leroy James Chandley has his high school records straightened out, he's thinking about going on to college.

He's 80 years old.

Chandley said he was graduated from high school in 1904 but records were lost. So he recently took the high school equivalency test and picked up his diploma.

"I'm thinking about starting in at San Juan College (a branch of New Mexico State University) here in Farmington," Chandley said.

Chandley, who walks about six miles a day to keep fit, said the reason for his renewed interest in education was encouragement from his wife, Elizabeth, who teaches Latin and English at Farmington High School. He works as a custodian for the school.

A bachelor until he was 52, Chandley has seen three of his children graduate from college. Another currently is in college and one is still a high school student.

A retired employee in the railroad mail service, Chandley noted sadly that mail trains apparently are a thing of the past. He said he started as a brake man on the Panhandle 11, fastest mail train in the country. He soon became a mail clerk. The 80 mph train was composed of all mail cars, he said, and had a staff of 16 mail clerks. It ran from New York City to St. Louis.

Last Minute Rush

Most Chilean firms pay their Christmas bonuses, required by law, around December 20, and stores are jammed from then until nearly midnight on Christmas Eve.

Swedes Are Becoming Very Art Conscious

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedes, from plumbers to professors, are an art-conscious people.

The professors were mostly in evidence recently as the Moderna Museet opened the art season with an exhibition of Italian artist Lucio Fontana's slashed and punctured canvases.

The plumbers, however, will have all the days ahead as the Moderna Museet continues its six-week Fontana exhibition with five others following and the 45 art galleries and three other museums in Stockholm begin hanging their masterpieces.

OTHER TOWNS

In addition, the Association for the Promotion of Art plans to tour two exhibitions, one on Japanese art and one on Canadian Eskimo art. The association aims at the countryside's lords and lumberjacks, selling 10,000 art objects a year in 200 different places.

Art is everywhere in Sweden. Government buildings city schools and hospitals decorate their grounds and foyers with paintings and sculptures. Private businesses buy art for their offices

The parks and streets display sculptures among trees and flowers. Children play in public playgrounds created by artists. Subway riders wait at stations decorated by murals and reliefs.

CREDIT STATE

Much of the credit for bringing art into the everyday life of the ordinary citizen must go to the state government, which since the 1930s has supported and encouraged the art world.

The government, aiming at turning over one per cent of the cost of every official building to its art decoration, will spend $400,000 buying art in 1967-68.

It will also award $200,000 worth of stipends to around 75 painters and sculptors.

The City of Stockholm often matches the state's annual purchase figure of $400,000, according to the cultural delegation's Hans Floden. Five years ago a law was passed making schools and hospitals spend 2 per cent of theih buildings cost on art.

THE REASON

"We buy to make the city and the city's buildings more beautiful," Floden said.

Private art dealers, such as Jan Runnqvist, point to numerous, accumulative influences to explain Sweden's high art consciousness.

Art dealers brought modern art to Sweden before it became recognized and high priced, stimulating Swedish artists and collectors alike.

Art shows, put on by museums and private associations, brought the white collar worker in touch with art. Big companies formed art committees, making it a fringe benefit to offer an employee two or three art exhibitions a year.

Runnqvist remembers when expensive art tours attracted only 12 persons a show, bringing the cost to $100 per head.

"But having insisted from the 1930s in presenting fine art to everyone," he said, "we are now getting a very nice harvest."

Reaping the harvest in Stockholm are 45 private art galleries. The number has tripled since 1960.

By comparison, London, with a population 10 times Stockholm's 800,000, has only three times as many art galleries.

The galleries sell about $3 million worth of art annually.

Runnqvist estimated that the trade in what he calls "very bad art" is four times greater than that in good art.

"It's not art they want, but a painting," he said.

Runnqvist's gallery, founded in 1918, however, admittedly caters to the upper middle class, with paintings averaging between $800 and $2,500. Others aim at different classes.

"Common people can afford to buy art nowadays," Lars Dahlin, manager at Bohmans Konsthandel, said. Bohmans, started 12 years ago, now has four galleries in Stockholm.

JULENISSEN — The Yule elf, who bears a remarkable resemblance to Santa Claus, distributes gifts to Norwegian children, on Christmas Eve.

SO FEW HOURS

Emphasis On Light For Norway's Yule

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

OSLO (AP) — Norwegians seize on Christmas as a chance to bring light and gaiety into the long, grim winter.

Particularly light. There are few hours of daylight at that season. So, people fling back their drapes to display their Christmas candles, and string colored lights everywhere. Living Christmas trees are lighted outside homes. Trees are placed at every street crossing. Tradesmen in even the smallest villages put up lighted decorations.

The Christmas tree is the focus of family celebrations on Christmas Eve. But, besides this relatively modern custom, there are traditional rites that date back to pagan times.

The old customs persist most in the countryside. They vary from district to district. But common to all is the Yule pig, whose growth through the year is followed by all members of the family. Slaughtered just before Yule, all parts of the hog are used for traditional dishes.

In some districts it is still a "must" to have 14 different kinds of cookies — one for each day of the season.

The women also brew the Yule ale and the competition to brew the best is keen.

The animals are not forgotten. They get an extra good feed. A sheaf of grain is hung out for the birds, recalling the heathen rite of offering the last scythe swing of grain to the god of fertility. Today, even in the towns people put wheatsheafs on their balconies.

A bowl of Yule porridge is set out for the "Nissen" or elves. If this is not done they will cause much mischief in the coming year.

The frenzy of house cleaning, baking and cooking must be completed by 4 p.m. on December 24, when the church bells ring in the time of "Christmas peace."

The Christmas meal is a family affair. There is usually porridge, or a bowl of rice, to start. The finder of a hidden almond is rewarded with a small prize.

Then comes "Lutefisk," or pork rib and sausage or boiled cod, according to the part of the country. "Lutefisk" is dried cod softened in a lye solution, rinsed and boiled.

After dinner the head of the family often reads the Christmas story.

Then to the Christmas tree, gaily decorated and laden with gifts. Everybody links hands to circle the tree, singing Christmas carols.

Gifts are distributed by the "Julenissen," a white-beared red-coated gentleman who looks remarkably like Santa Claus. He has no transport problem in this country where sledges are commonplace and reindeer native animals.

And you don't have to ask whether it will be a white Christmas. It would be remarkable if it were not.

Songs and music, especially for the children, complete the evening.

December 25 is also a family day at home, with plenty of eating and drinking, interrupted only by church-going.

Youngsters dress in fancy costumes and go from house to house collecting goodies, rather as American kids do on Halloween. This is known as "Julebukk" or "Christmas Buck." The goat symbol goes back to pagan times when festivities included the god Thor's goat.

In the three weeks before Christmas, the grownups have an orgy of feasting at the "Yulebord," or "Christmas Table." This is a gargantuan feast provided in restaurants by firms to their employees, sports clubs and other groups for their members.

You can help yourself as often as you like from a wonderfully decorated choice of dozens of dishes. Christmas toasts are drunk in numerous shots of aquavit (clear spirit) in a revel that for boisterousness resembles the Viking feasts of old.

Picture Story Camera Can Delight Child

Picture Story Camera is a make-believe camera for preschoolers styled after a real 35 mm candid camera. Proportioned and detailed to follow the lines of a real miniature camera, it is colorfully reproduced in a bright yellow, red and white, with a yellow plastic carrying handle.

By pushing the shutter release button on top of the camera, a triple action is produced that at the same time turns the top-mounted simulated flash cube, changes the full color scene in the viewer, and advances the number of the film "exposure." Eight pictures in all tell of a visit to a farm. The second viewer, a see-through one, has a wheel which changes the colors of the field of vision.

Allow Time For Portrait Project

Arrange an appointment for pre-Christmas portraits with your local professional photographer and tell him your plans. Let him know if you'd like to photograph a pet, also, so appropriate arrangements can be made.

You should allow at least a month from time of sitting for delivery of finished prints.

The photographer will be able to advise you on clothing and grooming choices for the children. This is particularly important for a color portrait.

Christmas In Saigon Takes On A U.S. Look

SAIGON (AP) — Christmas has escalated in South Vietnam along with the war and the U.S. buildup of men in this Southeast Asia country.

The majority of the Vietnamese people are at least nominally Buddhist, and Christmas is not a religious holiday for them. But the influence of the French, and of Roman Catholicism, has through the years established an observance of Christmas on a small scale.

REAL HOLIDAY

In the past two years, however, the vast American commitment here has made the observance of Christmas an allout holiday for the Americans and for many Vietnamese, even if many of the latter do not understand the precise reasons for it all.

One of the things that has naturally followed the troops has been Christmas parties for Vietnamese youngsters. Field units have laid on extravagant displays of food and presents, complete with Christmas trees and Santa Claus sailing in aboard a helicopter. Special Christmas menus are served to men in the field, with special efforts made to see that even those in the line get a meal of hot turkey and the other traditional foods.

BIG BUSINESS

Cities such as Saigon also have taken on some of the more commercial aspects of the Christmas celebration. For days before Dec. 25 some of the streets in the wartime capital will be lined with evergreen trees hauled in from the countryside, and with wreaths, decorations and ornaments — some complete with bizarre Asian touches — all going for the best holiday price. Street stalls do a rushing business.

Restaurants and night clubs offer holiday banquets and entertainment.

There also are special religious services, both for the troops who are members of Christian faiths and for Vietnamese Christians. For the American GI's, these services have been highlighted the past two years by the visits of such church leaders as Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York.

Perhaps most important for American military men in Vietnam the past two years were Christmas truces that brought at least partial, brief halts in the shooting war.

The Vietnamese people themselves have adapted, as they often do, and have taken up the celebration of the Western religious holiday with enthusiasm, even if they don't really understand the reasons. For them as Vietnamese, however, the biggest holiday of the year still is Tet, the Lunar New Year which rolls around early in February.

It is the time when debts must be paid, when new clothes must be worn, when houses must be cleaned and when families must, if at all possible, be together.

For the Vietnamese, Christmas is nice whether it means having a little fun or making some extra money, but Tet is the holiday that counts.

Danes Used To Fear Little Men

There was a time when the Danes had to watch their step with the so-called Nisser men. These curious gnome-like creatures reputedly haunted the farming areas and made life tough for any farmer who failed to show respect.

One way of showing repect was to leave a bowl of boiled rice in the barn. If you failed to do that on Christmas Eve, a cow might die or the barn might mysteriously burn down.

Danes no longer believe in Nisser men and they don't bother to put the rice out any more. The only Nisser found these days are in store windows and they all seem remarkably well behaved.

HOLIDAY SCENES WITH CHRISTMAS SEALS

For a child's holiday birthday, decorate the cake by using Christmas Seals glued to toothpicks (left). Another idea for a holiday gift is to wrap Christmas Seals around snowman made with two styrofoam balls, a paper hat and sequin eyes.

An Instant Shopping List Contains Sure-Fire Hints

How "with it" are you? Check yourself against this list of gift suggestions for help holiday shoppers to find out just how you'll rate with the swinging set come the gift-giving season. Most of the items have not been around very long. Those that have are enjoying a new wave of popularity and all are generally available. Count one point for every item you've heard of. Then find your "swinging" rate at the end.

DAD: Cartridge tape player for the car; mini ice bucket; Charlie Chaplin or Laurel & Hardy home movies; electric hedge trimmer; op art dart board; Beardsley paper weight; LP recording of Marshall McLuhan's "The Medium Is the Massage."

AUNT AND UNCLE: Mini garden tools; Norwegian goat cheese; mini art on mini easel; circular jigsaw puzzle; mini picnic thermos; sugar bowl for cream (powdered, of course); electric battery re-charger.

NEW CAREER or newlywed: Inflatable plastic chair; Peter Max poster; paper Tiffany lamp columns; printed window shades; cube or sphere lamp; shaggy pillow ball; flag or soup-can decorated drinkware; portable clothes dryer; wicker chest; vacuum hassock; table cubes; tickets to off-Broadway's "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown." or current local musical.

COLLEGE STUDENT: Street sign discards or replicas; street sign pillows; inflatable pillows; cartridge tape portable AM-FM stereo radio; battery-operated clock radio; recorder; cartridge tape player; hi-intensity lamp; old movie posters; giant soup can wastebasket; paper slippers; polka dotted suitcase.

TEEN-AGE BOY: Guitar; records by The Association; bean bag radio; book on palm reading; op art mobile; surf board; lamp clock; battery-operated phonograph.

TEEN-AGE GIRL: Mini hair dryer; electric curlers; leg art paint; electric hair and nail kit; papier-mache slave bracelets; mirror jewelry; chained belts; bracelets and bags; records by The Supremes; foot-wide paper flowers; ostrich-plume boa; flower-power poster; love soap; mod watch; six-inch (plus) wide belt; water buffalo sandals; mini billfold; anything purple; a book on horoscopes.

SMALL FRY: Peanuts pillow, shirt, games; big soup-can storage bin; "The Jungle Book;" high-riser bike; skate stilts; Peanut dolls, address book, desk set; papier-mache piggy bank; Winnie-the-Pooh stationery pack; skirt-pants dress; paper lunch box pack; see and tell phonographs.

TODDLERS: Paper houses to climb into; paper tub chairs; stuffed Winnie-the-Pooh, Eeyore, Piglet; three-piece melamine feeding set in the "Cinderella" or "Jungle Book" patterns; chairs and tables to construct themselves; oatmeal-box table; paper pinafore.

That's it. We bet it's safe to say you're reasonably familiar with 60 per cent of the above. If you hit the 80 mark, you're in there pitching and for any score above that, count yourself a real swinger.

Ham's Superb For Your Yule Feast

Sometimes it's fun to change the Christmas dinner. If your family is tired of turkey and would prefer ham, we have found an old Southern recipe for the sauce (or glaze if you insist) that's genuinely superb.

First, the ham. If you have a "country" ham, it must be scrubbed and soaked overnight. Allow 30 minutes for each pound in a 325 degree oven.

If your ham is a processed ham, no soaking is required. Place this type on rack, fat side up, in a pan in a 350 degree oven for 1 to 2 hours. Internal temperature when done is 150 to 160 degrees. If cooked with skin on, shorten cooking time slightly and remove from oven. Then cut away the skin and return to full time while browning.

The sauce can be prepared any time and refrigerated indefinitely. It does not have to be cooked on the ham.

JEZEBEL SAUCE

1 jar pineapple preserves
1 jar apple jelly
1 jar Bahama or Coleman mustard
1 bottle fresh horseradish (or less to taste)
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix well in electric mixer

Are you looking for a tasty, time-saving cassarole dish that doesn't require a lot of last-minute attention? If so, we think this one is excellent.

SPINACH CASSEROLE

2 pkgs. chopped frozen spinach (cooked)
1 can mushroom soup
1 3 oz. package creamed cheese
1 can onion rings

Mix cheese and soup with ½ can onions with other ingredients. Heat through and put other onions on top.

Fruit salad is a good complement to this dinner. According to where you live, you may start with canned fruits and add any fresh fruits available. The dressing is most important and we find this one to be surprisingly different.

FREUIT SALAD DRESSING

½ cup pineapple juice
½ cup lemon juice
2 eggs
1 cup cream
¼ cup sugar

Beat eggs well. Add sugar and juices. Cook in double boiler, stiring constantly until thick. Cool and fold in cream.

RELISH TRAY

An appetizing arrangement of olives, radishes and celery hearts in a silver tray or crystal dish is a good accompaniment of this dinner. Or, if you prefer, cranberry sauce. This can be bought in the jelly or whole-sauce variety . . . some canners add oranges.

SOUTHERN RICE

If you own a rice cooker, you might serve Southern Rice, cooked to perfection with every white grain separated and fluffy. Some prefer wild rice, but it is becoming increasingly hard to find and is quite expensive.

DESSERT

An egg nog dessert is both traditional and delicious. Our recipe calls for two egg yolks beaten lightly. Add ½ cup whiskey, beating constantly. Whip ½ pint cream and add ½ cup sugar. Stir whiskey and yolks into cream. Beat whites stiff and fold into mixture. These proportions serve four people.

If your family prefers cake, here's an egg nog sauce which is good over pound cake . . . or any plain cake.

Beat two egg yolks lightly with sugar and whiskey to taste. Whip ½ pint cream. Beat two white until stiff. Fold yolks into cream and egg whites.

Christmas Dinner Mammoth In Chile

For those Chileans who can afford it, the Christmas dinner is likely to be a mammoth one, with turkey preceded by lobster and accompanied by bottle after bottle of the wines for which Chili is famous.

The turkey is simply roasted and served with gravy. However, pumpkin pie, stuffing, cranberry sauce and similar U. S. style dishes rarely are found on a Chilean table.

Candlelight Rite Dear To Hearts Of Pennsylvania

Most Pennsylvania Dutch are devoted to the candlelight service on Christmas Eve and to the ceremonies that go with it, including music by trombone choirs.

Many congregations still use handmade beeswax candles.

The first phase of the service is called a live feast. Sweet buns, rolls and coffee are on the menu. Carolers and choirs sing.

In the second half, lighted candles are passed from hand to hand and all join in singing "I am the light of the world." There is no sermon, only the reading of scripture, as the candles are held high.

Chilean Christmas Holiday Brief, Hot

SANTIAGO (AP) — Christmas in Chile is hot and brief.

The holiday falls during the month which is equivalent to June in the Northern Hemisphere, and by the 25th summer usually is in full swing.

Curio Cabinet Makes Fine Christmas Gift

Functional as well as colorful, hall consoles, curio cabinets, etageres and commodes add storage space whild highlighting even the smallest area.

FAMILY GAME—Dad and children have fun playing animal preservation game called Wild Life. It has an unusual format.

Games Call For Parents To Join In

Games can be a happy focus for holiday recreation involving parents and children on equal terms. Family participation can be instructive as well as fun.

Peter Ryhiner has invented a new game, Wild Life, which dramatizes the adventurous role of the men who capture jungle animals and sell them to zoos. The Serata cards with the game were named after a unique white, blue-eyed phython which Ryhiner captured and trained as a traveling companion.

Another new game, which should be appealing to your young future scientists as well as dad and mom, is called Count Down. The manufacturer used data and pictures supplied by NASA to carry out project Apollo. Rockets land on the moon and return, with espionage and other plots hampering their progress.

For the sportsman, mechanical Duck Hunt is a new entry in realistic home games. The duck target revolves with players taking aim with rubber tipped darts. Ducks flop over when winged.

Another innovation is Home Stretch, a game based on sulky racing. Play involves strategy right up to the finish line.

A variety of new games are keyed to sharpen family skills with words and math.

Become A Zoo Owner For Holiday Happiness

Real-life situations set the pace for a record variety of game competitions this Christmas, beamed at family participation.

Wild Life is one of the most unusual formats invented by Peter Ryhiner, a veteran leader in preservation of wild animals, for E. S. Lowe. The object of play is to capture animals alive and sell them to zoos instead of exterminating them.

Each player acquires ownership of a zoo. Playing pieces are plastic hunters and the jungles of the world are the base for humanitarian hunt. Players must cover the cost of the capture, stabling costs of animals in transit and other practical aspects of wild animal marketing.

Another highly realistic new game is Count Down which uses data and pictures supplied by NASA for competitive action keyed to carrying out project Apollo — consisting of rockets landing on the moon and returning.

Astronauts cars which control the plays show pictures of real astronauts. The game includes an eulogy to astronaut heroes who have died. Players spend millions to purchase parts of rockets. Espionage and other plots hamper progress, so there is suspense right up to the last play.

Most novel in the strategic game category is Nile which harks back to Cleopatra's day for inspiration. Players lay tiles to chart the winding course of the ancient river, reports E. S. Lowe. Nile is unusual in appeal to those who like quick action and excitement and those who relish deep strategy.

Another innovation is Home Stretch, the first game bases on Sulky Racing. Play involves realistic strategy with suspense right up to the finish line.

In the quick action sector of games, Yahzee is a favorite dice game that combines skill and luck.

Heads Up bases plan on building basic equations with the throw of the dice.

Although simple addition, subtraction, miltiplication and division are involved, observers report a challenging competition.

Kittens Not Always Common At Christmas

If you are looking for a kitten to give Susie for Christmas, you may have already discovered that, unlike babies, parakeets, and turtles, kittens are not an all-year-round commodity.

For reasons best known to Nature, kittens are almost always born in the spring, along with tulips and daffodils. Occasionally, very occasionally, some kittens, unaware of this timetable, are obligingly born near the holidays, but you better not count on it.

A member of Queen Caroline's court gave a children's party in 1821 and used a Christmas tree. This is the first recorded Christmas tree in England.

BIRD'S NEST — This holiday nest decoration is easy to make and a great item for sale in a charity bazaar booth. It's made of wood shavings, paper birds and ornaments. Also easy to make are bobeches.

Distinctive Ornament Can Bolster Charity's Income

Here's a good idea for a church bazaar in December. If your group is addicted to walking in the woods they can gather just about all that is needed for decorations, by gathering cones, berries and burrs.

A beautiful pair of bobeches can be made on a round piece of skirt board, three and one-half inches in circumference with one and three-eighth inch hole cut in the center to fit over a candleholder.

Small cones are glued to the board and sprayed gold.

Various types of trees and shrubs provide the small shapes such as hemlocks, larch, spruce, fern, lilac, rhododendron, sweetgum, acorns, beech pods.

It is always wise to make the bobeches in pairs so they can be used for twin candles.

'Plain' People Solemn On Yule

Not all Pennsylvania Dutch observe the Christmas season in the same way. Those known as "plain" — the Amish, Mennonites and Dunkards—keep the holiday in low key.

No trees, no colored lights, no garlands of holly, no mistletoe. To them Christmas is almost completely a religious holiday, an interlude for repose.

Among them there is no custom that could truly be called an exchange of gifts, although the children are favored with candy and cookies, put on their Christmas breakfast plates.

Stair Landings

Stair landings and unusual hall areas are easily turned into areas of focal interest through the use of a Christmas gift of a lighted etagere boasting a collection of silver, seashells or snuff boxes.

Good thing you didn't buy an organ yesterday.

Real Baldwin craftsmanship throughout—from the transistorized circuitry to the hand-rubbed walnut finish.

The exclusive "Super Coupler" automatically adds tones an octave higher and lower to whatever you're playing on the upper manual.

The new Baldwin M-77—a compact home organ at a compact price. Big organ versatility—10 different and distinctive voices, volume balancing controls for manual and pedals, two 44-note keyboards, 13-note pedalboard, tone control, pedal and solo sustains, light and full vibratos, theatrical tremolo.

FREE INTRODUCTORY OFFER. $26.95 value headphones, that let you play without disturbing others. Can be used with your stereo, too.

*Bench extra

Special, easy-pay plans available on this special organ. Low down payment. Come in and hear for yourself how great a $777* organ can sound.

When the Ordinary is Inadequate, Give a Gift by Countess Mara®

How to give ties without being ordinary... Ordinarly, a man may not consider a Christmas gift of neckties to be an outstandingly original gift. Unless, of course, they happen to be Countess Mara ties. That discreet CM embroidered on each tie changes the picture completely. It speaks of exclusive designs, of uncompromising good taste, of respect for the recipient. It makes your gift truly unique—and most welcome.

ENAMELED FLOWERS — Among the clever ideas for spritely Yule gifts is to take fling plastic, imitation flowers easily available everywhere, and turn them into swinging posies with brilliant enamel paint in aerosol cans.

Old Fashioned Symbols Add Graciousness

An old-fashioned Christmas is a favorite of all generations, and each year the season's joy is expressed in familiar holiday symbols.

The traditional Christmas tree is most often the starting point for holiday decorating. Many historians give Martin Luther credit for introducing the decorated evergreen to Christmas celebrations. Evergreens were abundant in his native Germany, and it's said that during a walk on a snowy Christmas Eve, Luther became enchanted with the beauty of the trees and the star filled sky. He cut a small fir for his home and decorated it with candles to simulate stars.

Today, trimming the tree is a family tradition, and decorations may range from trinkets once used by grandmother to garlands of freshly popped corn. Clusters of fresh flowers are modern day trimmings for the tree. For a holiday open house, small corsages and boutonnieres tied to your tree's branches will make festive party favors. Ask your guests to choose flowers from the tree to accent their holiday finery.

Cookie Press A Lifesaver At Yuletide

A cookie press is a wonderful time saver in making clever Christmas cookies, but there are a few hints to follow in order to assure success.

The cookie dough must be soft and pliable. Variations in flour and the size of eggs sometimes make it necessary to omit or add a tablespoon or three of flour. When dough is too stiff, an egg white should be added.

When dough is mixed by hand, it may be necessary to use a bit less flour than the recipe calls for. Do not chill the dough.

Care For Plants

The gift plant in your home should have as much light as is possible, preferably a sunny window. It should be kept away from drafts and heating elements. The plant likes a 65 to 70 degree day temperature and 55 to 60 degrees at night.

Jewelry Expresses Great Thoughtfulness In Gifts

Christmas comes but once a year and every gift giver wants his colorfully wrapped packages to contain the very essence of this gladsome holiday.

The love and thoughtfulness, the special regard that prompts the exchange of gifts during this season of peace and good will are aptly conveyed in the splendor and worth of precious jewelry. The brilliant sparkle of gold, diamonds and precious stones belongs to this time, when all the world is dazzlingly decked out in its holiday raiment, says the Jewelry Industry Council.

Gold, a traditional Christmas gift, can be the beautiful highlight of a lady's holiday. Enameled in striking colors, emblazoned with precious stones, scattered with diamonds, styled for the woman of today, textured to radiant perfection, gold pins, earrings, bracelets and necklaces wish her Merry Christmas royally.

A gold bracelet watch, lightly dusted or heavily encrusted with diamonds and other precious stones is the glittering finale to her gilded jewelry wardrobe.

GLITTERING GIFT — A double strand 18 - karat gold bracelet studded with sparkling diamonds and emeralds — a wrist encircling sample of 200 pieces in "The Quintessa Collection.

Diamond, enduring beauties that tell of a never-ending love, are most appropriately given at Christmas time. A sophisticated diamond dinner ring is an excellent choice to begin her diamond wardrobe.

Magnificent necklaces, diamond drop earrings, bracelets afire with blazing diamonds, a diamond spray pin are more exciting ways to shower a beloved with Christmas diamonds. Dainty diamond pennants, blushing with a hint of color, may be the "fancies" that take her fancy.

Cultured pearls are a lovely and lustrous gift from the sea with which to gift a lovely lady and send her fond Yuletide greetings.

Utterly feminine is the peral necklace, its marvelously wide clasp bestrewn with rubies, sapphires, even diamonds. Twisted stands of tiny seed pearls, the intricate shapes and shadings of barouque pearls, ornamental safety catches; such are the reasons for her holiday happiness.

Pins, earrings, pendants, and rings are all pearl treasures that bring her a white Christmas of unsurpassed beauty.

Precious jewelry gifts reflect the sparkle, the shine and the special thoughtfulness of the Christmas season whenever she wears them, all the year through.

Make Use Of Fresh Flowers

Fresh greenery and flowers in gay Christmas colors will carry the holiday mood all through the home. Arrangements for the foyer offer instant cheer to all Christmas callers, and Florists' Transworld Delivery experts suggest a full, round arrangement of holly and roses or carnations for the hall table, or a basket of greens, blossoms and frosted pine cones to hang from a chandelier or archway.

For the mantel, two small floral arrangements make a lovely frame for a creche, and round bouquets set in low vases can be used in centerpieces as well as decorations for the living room. Holiday flower arrangements also can be delivered anywhere in the country by FTD florists as your personal holiday greetings to friends or family members.

The most popular holiday color in flowers is red to express joy and laughter. Greens symbolize everlasting life, and shimmering gold and silver stand for radiance — colors that blossom in the season's spirit.

Birthstone Fine

An added touch of thoughtfulness to our Christmas gift is an attractive piece of birthstone jewelry.

MINI-HEATER—Use it to warm baby's room on cold mornings, to take the chill of dad's workshop, to warm up big sister's office cubicle. A true portable, it weighs but 6 pounds and measures just over 12 inches long yet produces plenty of heat.

Electric Houseware Gift Is Very Popular

If sweaters, gloves, games and jewelry begin to pall as gift ideas for Christmas this year, consideration might be given to the myriad small electric housewares that offer fresh inspiration for everyone on the gift list.

Housewares manufacturers are coming out with such exciting new products as solid state blenders, dual action toothbrushes and automatic hair curlers that do the job in five to fifteen minutes.

A special bonus is the fact that a single electric housewares gift can be enjoyed by most members of the family. As an example of this versatility of use and appeal, General Electric home economists offer this sample list of electric gift suggestions for various members of the family.

Mother — Warming tray, toothbrush, coffee maker.

Father — Cordless slicing knife, massager, solid state blender, cigarette lighter, mini-heater.

Sister — Decorative wall clock, manicure set, hair dryer, hair curler.

Brother — Clothes brush, shoe polisher, rechargeable flashlight, terrestrial time clock.

Baby — Mini heater, baby dish, Smoky Bear clock.

Career Girl — Mini heater, hair curler.

Admittedly, a baby dish will be used by baby alone, but an automatic rechargeable toothbrush with six personal brushes can be used by the whole family. And certainly, coffee lovers can all enjoy a good brew made in an automatic coffee maker.

A mini heater warms baby's room but it takes the chill off Father's workshop, too. And the office of that special career gal.

Definitely of use of the whole family are the shoe polisher, clothes brush and manicure set to keep them well groomed during the Christmas season and throughout the year.

A Man Prefers To Send Humor Yule Greetings

Thousands of men will exchange Christmas cards this year. This practice, as a mass habit, has developed since World War II and was brought about by a new type of humorous greeting, which may have originated in Greenwich Village art studios.

The "contemporary" or "studio" card, in modern art style, has become a bonanza in retail outlets. The brittle humour and sophisticated illustrations in these cards have an appeal to the man who used to shun the traditional greetings.

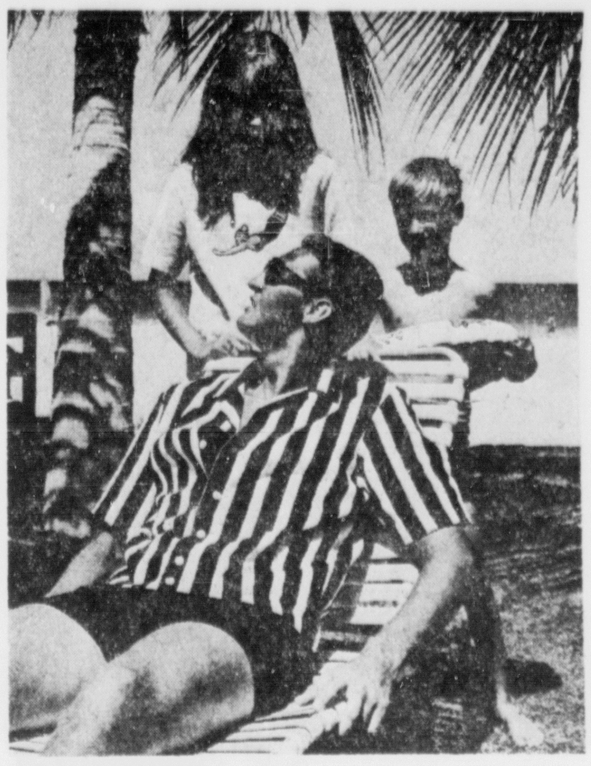
Many more women than men still send cards, but the studio card has stimulated the card exchanging habits of an increasing number of men.

The serious sentiments of the traditional cards still hold their appeal, however, and still outsell the humorous. The choice of a greeting card may be a bewildering experience when one enters a store with their racks of different cards.

The seasonal greeting card as big business in the U.S. dates back to 1875 when Louis Prang of Boston introduced them into his line of advertising and visiting cards. Called "father of the American Christmas card," Prang cards were much admired abroad as well as in the U.S.

Around 1895 European printers' competition caused a decline of card production in the U.S. and until World War I Germany had practically a monopoly in the greeting card business.

Both World Wars, with their resultant increase in transiency, added inpetus to the custom of exchanging cards. The U.S. card manufacturers, as a result of improved designs and manufacture, have assumed world leadership in this large business.



SUNNY CHRISTMAS—Jerry West, Los Angeles Lakers star, shows a couple of young fans what the "in" cruise and resort crowd are doing to be wearing this winter and next spring. His night and white cabana set in bold black and white stripes is all cotton, lined terry. It coordinates with black trunks. The black and white story continues with the same shirt in a scroll pattern and a polka dot.

Modern Noise Not Bugging West Germans These Days

HAMBURG (GF) — Fewer West Germans today believe they are victimized by modern noise as much as they were 10 years ago, according to a new poll conducted by Bielefeld, Germany's EMNID Institute.

In 1957, about 47 per cent of those asked felt modern noise was disturbing to them personally. This round, the figure had fallen to 32 per cent.

However, the change was not reflected in all areas of noise. While traffic and highway construction noises bothered 11 per cent fewer people in the latest poll, for example, aircraft noise was increasing in unpopularity.

In 1960, one of every seven German citizens felt bothered by aircraft noise. In the new poll, it was one in every five.

There were also more complaints this time about the noise made by neighbors, partially attributed to the greater amount of free time people have today, which means they are home more often.

Total modern noise was most disturbing to the age group between 50 and 64 years old.

Only one-tenth of those queried said they felt modern noise was damaging to health. In 1960, one-fourth said they did.

In Rockefeller Center in Manhattan an enormous illuminated Christmas tree has been an annual event since 1933.

Holiday Aboard A Sunny Liner Carries Status

The interest in the winter vacation aboard a cruise ship has become so popular it might perhaps be more symbolic these days to picture Santa Claus delivering Christmas presents from the bridge of a luxury liner instead of the traditional sleigh.

Typical of this increasing interest in soaking up the sun on shipboard while much of the world is garbed in winter white is the expansion of the cruise and resort wear fashions for men.

It might not be too long, say designers, before the cabana set and other resort wear may well replace the necktie in popularity as a Christmas gift.

Thinking along lines of Christmas gifts? The 1968 Jantzen Cruise and Resort line promises color in bright and tasteful alliance and a total look that will take him from the promenade to the bridge—or, if he missed the boat—from the beach or pool to the patio.

Coordination is the key and selection of swim and cabana sets, slacks, walkers and shirts provide an ingeniously interrelated key that makes mixing and matching a painlessly fashionable procedure, bringing together stripes and solids, patterns and solids, stripes and stripes in a variety of combinations.

Buy one coordinated set and he has a nice outfit. Buy two or three with coordination in mind and he's got a pretty complete leisure wardrobe.

New Adventures In Goodies In Toyland This Christmas

New adventures in cooking take the spotlight in Toyland this Christmas. Most unusual is a new Big Burger Grill which operates on one ordinary electric light bulb, beamed to interest boys as well as girls in operating a drive-in type stand. This unusual grill, by Kenner, produces a complete range of quick order treats including cheese dreams, pan cakes, burgers and franks and rolls to match.

A see-through cover protects kids from spatter and there's a safety trap for grease so kids can cook wholly without supervision. Mixes for onions, catsup, pancakes, syrup, etc. add to the fun.

Another hit in the cooking area of Toyland is the Easy-Bake oven which operates on two electric light bulbs. This is notable for safety features which protect little fingers. A slide-in arrangement makes it impossible to get out the cake pan until it is cooled.

There's a broad range of which the junior cooks can stir and bake to their hearts' delight without supervision, such as gingerbread, honey goodies in failure-proof mixes cakes, bubble gum, devils food, and there's a corn popper attachment too.

Newest thrill is the candy bar set which makes it possible to bake real candy bars with peppermint, butter pecan and maple centers and chocolate or cherry vanilla covers. This kit includes candy bar special foil pans, candy wrappers and separator sheets.

And perfectly timed to make junior cooking enthusiasts enjoy clean-up operations, there's a new jet-action automatic dish washer that attaches to an ordinary faucet. It has a see-through cover so the kids can enjoy watching the detergent do the job.

Children can operate their own dairy "Ice Cream Stands," too, with Freeze Queen. The set includes a dairy stand machine, a mixer, a cone dispenser and "just add water" mixes. Prefreeze the canister in the ice compartment of the family refrigerator, then insert in the Freeze-Queen. No need for a plug in to bring the mixes to proper temperature. The youngsters can create a wide variety of curly top cones sundaes, sherbets and sodas.

Banker Can Help Your Santa Chores

Don't hesitate to borrow this Christmas, but don't get caught short of funds again. Start saving for next December 25 now! You'll have a year to save, a little at a time.

To help you, banks around the country now provide special accounts under programs called Christmas Clubs. They make you save for Christmas in spite of yourself: You save in much the same way as installment loans.

A SWEDISH CUSTOM

One of the traditional, colorful Christmas Swedish customs is Saint Lucia, also known as the "Queen of Light", dating back to Viking times. Early on the morning of December 13th, "St. Lucia" day, lovely young women wearing crowns of greens and lighted candles and dressed in flowing white gowns mark the beginning of the Christmas season in Scandinavia. This celebration is enjoyed by passengers aboard Swedish-American cruise liner Kungsholm on each voyage.

First Electric Toothbrush Ahead Of Time

The electric toothbrush, one of the most popular cordless items today, might have been on the market as long ago as 1939, studies of inventions show.

At that time, an imaginative man named Julius Schmidt designed one powered by electricity that was quite similar to current models. It had a magnetic coil and vibrating pole in its handle that was attached to a drive shaft and the rotating brush.

The invention proved to be ahead of its time, however, and did not have the benefit of cordless power which appears to be the determining factor in the success of present battery-operated toothbrushes. It was a laboratory curiosity only and was never marketed.

Luggage Is Great For Traveling Folks

Fold or hang-up wardrobe bags, ideal for car travel make the perfect family gift. In lengths for dresses or suits, one or two car-packs will constitute a never-to-be-forgotten gift.

Roomy shoulder bags to hold tickets, traveller's checks and every etcetera; smart attache cases that will make him resemble a traveling tycoon; foldaway jewel or tie cases; all are designed as special gifts for special people.

Yule Stockings Dutch Tradition

NEW YORK (UPI) — Why do children at Christmas hang "the stockings by the chimney with care?"

The answer lies in customs of the early Dutch settlers. Ever a people to celebrate, the Dutch chose a burgher to dress as St. Nicholas and to distribute toys and sweets to the children of the New Amsterdam colony.

With him, came his helper, Black Peter. The children shortened the name Nicholas to Ni'Klaus or Claus. The Spanish influence in the Netherlands changed Saint to Santa, hence Santa Claus.

Wooden sabots were left by the fireplace to dry and Santa Claus saw no better place to leave his gifts. From shoe to stocking was a mere few inches.

Secret Symbols

During the early years of Christianity when a cross was too easily recognized by persecuting non-Christians, other symbols came into use. The fish, representing Christ's miracle on the Sea of Galilee when He summoned Peter to be an apostle, and the anchor, a disguised cross, were used by early Christmas as secret signs of their faith.

TREE STAYS UP

Santa Claus Year Around At One Home

CROWLEY, La. (AP) — Christmas is so wonderful at the home of B. C. Delahoussaye that it lasts all year. They've got a tree to prove it.

"Only at Delahoussaye's would you see a Christmas tree in July," said summertime visitors to the family's home in Crowley, pointing to the huge white flocked spruce.

"We put it up on Dec. 15," explains Mrs. Delahoussaye, "and I guess I was just too lazy to take it down.

"It was such a wonderful Christmas. All the children were home, and everything. Then the first thing I know, it's St. Valentine's Day, and that darn tree is still up. So I put little hearts all over it. It was darling.

"Then comes St. Patrick's Day, and I hang shamrocks on it. And I continue to decorate it for Easter and the Fourth of July.

"Actually, I guess I left it up because Christmas was so wonderful this year that every time I look at it, I spend it all over again. I guess if I had to look at it all day long it would drive me crazy and I'd take it down. But I don't. So I just see it at night, and I'm going to leave that tree up until it falls down."

Wagging his head, her husband claims he has nothing to do with it.

But Mrs. Delahoussaye disagrees.

"Well, I live with Santa Claus all year long. I might as well have a Christmas tree all year, too."

BIG TREE — Mrs. B. C. Delahoussaye poses with perennial tree. Stays up all year around, so it's Christmas every day.

Update Holiday Decor With A Paper Tree

Paper, in culottes and chairs, flowers and footwear, wastebaskets and washcloths, is the newsmaker of the year. All the more reason to update your holiday decor with a simple paper Christmas tree! Scaled to a table top- this tree can be set amid a blanket of soft white cotton that simulates snow and invites an array of tiny gifts — those you're giving, or those you've received.

To make the tree, you need a sheet of solid colored construction paper, colorful Christmas beads, a box of cotton swabs, needle and thread, a miniature tree-top decoration and some glue.

First, fold the construction paper into a cone about 15-20 inches high. The width across the cone's base should be 10 inches. Glue the cone together in back.

Once the base is completed, glue the cotton swabs in position. Then, thread the Christmas beads onto the needle and make six strands, varying in size, beginning with the largest for the base of the tree. Slip the beads on the tree; they should rest lightly on the tips of the cotton swabs.

Finally, top the tree with a tiny Christmas ball, or any miniature tree decoration that suits your fancy.

Danes Celebrate Yule With Lots Of Festivity

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Christmas in Denmark is a time of great charm — when the advent calendar becomes the most important thing in a child's life and a lighted candle marks progress day by day to the festive season.

The 4.5 million Danes observe Christmas with a mixture of respect for old traditions and concessions to the new.

From early November, the brightly-lit stores are splashing their Christmas displays like beacons in the mid-winter darkness. Soon after, the Christmas trees rise in the big squares around Copenhagen and the streets are decorated with lighted bulbs and green fern.

Everything comes down with a rush on Dec. 27.

Floral Pleasers

Men might note that no matter what other gifts a woman receives, she'll always welcome a gift of flowers!

Guitar Used In 'Silent Night'

"Silent Night" is not exactly what we consider music for the guitar. But it was composed on the instrument we now associate with rock 'n roll.

The poem was written in 1818 by Austrian clergyman Father Josef Mohr for the evening Christmas service.

The church organist, Franz Gruber, is said to have composed the music in two hours that afternoon, using a guitar because the organ was broken.

Rustic Customs Hold Sway In Pennsylvania

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — In the Pennsylvania Dutch country the natives are preparing to celebrate Christmas with rustic customs rooted deep in folklore and tradition.

For instance, mounds or bales of hay will be set out around barns and stables on Christmas Eve, so that the Christmas dew will moisten them. It is believed that animals eating this fodder will escape harm in the New Year.

Famous Carols Come From U.S.

America is the origin of at least three famous carols.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem" was written by Bishop Phillips Brooks of Boston and Philadelphia. "We Three Kings of Orient Are," was composed about 1857 by Reverend Dr. J. H. Hopkins of Pennsylvania.

"Away in the Manger," is pbroably the last one to have gained fame. The music was composed in 1895 by the famous American Gospel-song composer, W. J. Fitzpatrick.

Who Says Pipes Don't Change? Look At This Year's Selection

History has revealed the use of tobacco in pipes in many different forms. Eskimos at one time used a willow twig, which they split, hollowed out and put together with leather thongs. Segments of a crab's claw, lobster claw, ivory tusks, slate, clay, and the center of a plantain leaf were used for pipes.

In fact, pipes have been fashioned from iron, gold, silver, platinum, jade, horn, porcelain or any material which would tolerate heat. Even today you can choose a pipe from corn cob, porcelain, clay, cherrywood, pyrolite graphite, meerschaum and of course, briar.

While all are thoroughly enjoyable, the most popular is briar. The use of briar for pipes is one of those unusual occurrences which accidentally happens once in a century.

Pipes predate all other forms of smoking. It wasn't until the 1890's when a French pipe maker who was devoted to Napoleon decided to visit Corsica and learn Napoleonic lore firsthand. While there he evidently became so enraptured with his history that he dropped his favorite meerschaum completely ruining his prized pipe.

Desperate for a substitute, he could find nothing to his liking, until he heard of a farmer nearby who was skilled at carving. He asked the farmer to fashion him a pipe from whatever material he could find. The farmer chose the root of the bruyere bush botanically known as erica aborea, and commonly known as the white heath tree. The pipe proved so fine, the French pipe maker took samples of the wood back to France and thus began the use of briar as the premier pipe product.

Briar is excellent material for pipe smoking, according to the Pipe and Tobacco Council, because of its porosity, resistance to heat, its lightness, its ability to absorb and digest moisture, and its all around attractiveness.

Meerschaum, the German word for sea foam, is the fossilized remains of tiny marine animals. It has much the same properties of briar but its inaccessibility and rarity make it a prized possession.

In the gift-giving season such as Christmas, more than 96 per cent of the millions of pipes which will grace the Christmas tree will be of briar.

There are others, too, which the inveterate pipe smoker will want. These include the new pipe made from pyrolite graphite which is similar to the materials used in the nose cones of missiles.

There are, of course, the corn cobs, a perennial favorite in the United States and throughout the world. Finally, the meerschaums, the cherrywood, the clay pipes of old, and some of the fancy porcelain pipes.

All are good gifts. All are perfect complements for the man's favorite tobacco. Interestingly, seven out of ten men in the United States have smoked a pipe at one time or another. The refinement in today's smoking tobacco has convinced many of them to remain with his favorite pipe, no matter the material.

Starting with a pipe as a Christmas gift also solves countless gift-giving problems for the rest of the year. Other than pipes and tobacco, there are pipe tools, pouches, humidors, racks, and many other items welcome to the pipe smoker. It's most probable the recipient of a pipe for Christmas will echo over and over again the famous words of a 17th century poet, "Happy mortal! He who knows . . . Pleasure which a pipe bestows!"

LOOKING BACK—Viistors at the Museum of the City of New York were taken back to the Victorian era recently. Called "Victorian Christmas," it depicted a family Christmas in the 1880s.

A Victorian Yule Scene In A Museum

Christmas affords the museums in the United States a chance to recreate scenes of olden days out of treasured antiques.

Typical of these was a recent display at the Museum of the City of New York. Called "A Victorian Christmas," a tree, decked with paper horns, gilded walnuts, and other rare Victorian ornaments was the focal point of the exhibit. The tree was placed in a setting which recreated the family's Christmas Day in an authentic Victorian household of the 1880's, using mannequins to portray parents and children.

Every item in the scene was of the late Victorian period. The Christmas tree ornaments were hung in the New York home of the Lever family during the 1880's. The toys, made for children long ago, featured a dressed bride doll, a German wooden castle, cardboard soldiers and an elaborate folding paint box.

Fashions of the day were also of special interest. One of the children wore a blue slik dress that was once owned by a little girl named Renee Hershfield in 1884. The father wore a suit that belonged to Jay Gould, the great financier.

Visiting families at the museum were able to experience Christmas as it was celebrated almost a century ago.

Bathroom Brilliance

Today's bathrooms are decked in jewel tones. Towels, mats, rugs and lid covers in every imaginable color, some shot with glittering Lurex thread will add a Midas-touch to any home.

SALVATION ARMY SHOPPING

Christmas shopping for children is a must for the poor as well as the people of means. The Salvation Army has the answer in its "toy shops" where everything is free for the needy "shopper."

Pine Tree Product Good For Christmas

Need a Santa's helper this Christmaw? Try products from the pine tree.

For example, a giant pine cone can be turned into the world's smallest Christmas tree. Just mount an 8-12 inch pine cone on a piece of plastic foam, decorate as you would a tree but with sequins and glitter glued on the cone edges. Top off with a star.

Use For Bags

Double-duty for holiday shopping bags: On Christmas morning, have two ready for action — one to hold the paper and ribbon you want to keep, one to hold the scraps to be thrown away.

Pine Decoration

For an original topping to your Christmas package, tie tiny pine cones and sprigs of plastic pins to a big red bow. Pine adds an original touch to place cards for your holiday party.

Latest Stocking Fashions Sure To Be Pleasing Gift

That dependable adage for worried Santas, "Every lady wants more stockings" has even greater significance this Yule season.

Never before have stocking styles been so flattering in imaginative new ways.

Any member of the feminine contingent from teen bopper to dowager is sure to be enchanted with a gift box full of the latest leg fashions.

This Christmas the variety of stretch stocking styles is a particular boon to beaux and husbands whose membory is vague about stocking sizes.

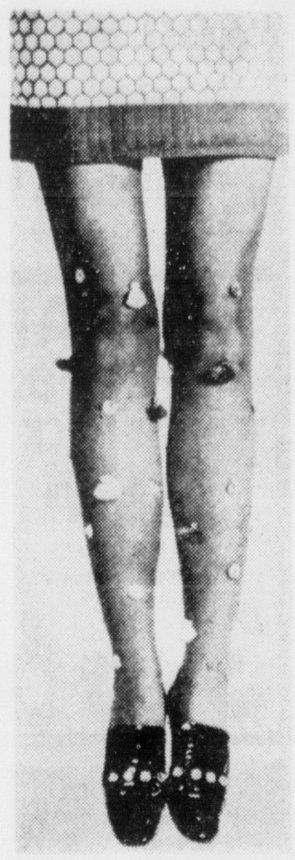
"One of the most elegant new style in stockings for festive occasions is one which comes in 24 karat gold, sterling silver and Black Luster, made of iridescent aluminum."

Then there's a more modest glitter style, frankly fake, that looks right for day or night wear.

Another flattering new style is the opaque crepe featured in light, bright, dark and shocking shades. They provide elegant cover-up color for the leg.

The opaque finish is available in stockings that give an elegant flash of opaqueness right up to the waistband — ideal for mini-skirt enthusiasts; and in a no-welt stocking style.

Santas might keep in mind the costume colors their ladies favor and pick stocking shades to mix or match. Newly fashionable are dark shades like bitter chocolate, navy and black. Gold, russet, scarlet, wine, green, emerald and purple shades are in high favor this winter.



DECORATED LEG
For holiday outing

Now on the pale side of the stocking spectrum is fly white, an off-white shade, and sea oat, a delicate beige shade.

For the adventurous there is a range of shock colors, shockingly citrus-lime-fuchsia and orange.

Even the conservatives are experimenting with the fascinating new textured stocking styles this season, advise the stylists. The Right Rib, for example, accentuates the lean, long leggy look that's the in look for city and country legs. There is a flattering new interpretations of boucle, Travelers Checques, that enhances legs with geometric interest.

Some Anti-Fire Tips For The Yule Tree

Just before setting up the tree, saw off the trunk at an angle at least one inch above the original cut. Place tree in water, making sure that the level of water is above cut at all times.

Make sure the tree is well supported and is placed away from sources of heat such as fireplaces or radiators and where it will not block any exits in case of fire.

FROM 50 CENTS

Ideal Gifts For 'Putter' At Low Cost

If you know a man who loves to 'putter' in his workshop or yard, gifts of tools are perfect.

There's a tremendous variety of garden, building and 'fix-it' items to choose from. These range in price from 50 cents to as much as you want to pay.

For $5 or less, you can put together a fine gift for the handyman! Fill regular glass jars, labeled, with a collection of nails, screws, tacks, etc., in various sizes.

Or, why not fill a box with an assortment of miniature tools. (Smaller-than-average hammers, screw drivers and pliers are often useful for intricat jobs or repairs in tight places.)

Of course if you can find out what is needed, gifts that 'round out' the work-shop tool supply are always most appreciated.

For the most expensive gift, the power tool that converts for many uses is very popular. And, was there ever a man with a yard who didn't want a power mower?

THE ORIGINAL hickry pit

The Hick'ry Pit is a direct descendant of a centuries old system originated by the American Indians. Our basting solution, Pyrocure, coupled with the open fire of blended woods, gives the meat a distinctive flavor; and best of all, retains the juices and prevents the meat from shrinking.

The Hick'ry Pit is a conveniently located stop for your holiday shopping and offers a menu to satisfy every appetite. Also, delicious home-made pies and cakes and take-out service. We wish you a Happy Holiday Season.

70 SHOPS — U.S. 101 AT BELVEDERE-TIBURON TURN-OFF — OPEN WEEKDAY EVENINGS 'TIL 9 P.M.

DO-IT-YOURSELF—Big burger girl enables boys and girls to grill a full range of drive-in treats at home. Cooking set operates with one ordinary 150-watt electric light bulb, is designed for cooking all kinds of grilled foods—hot dogs, etc. Has safety features galore. The set includes many mixes and accessories.

FOR YOUNG LADY — Easy-bake oven operates on two ordinary electric light bulbs and bakes in half the time Mom's oven requires. Just adding water to the special mixes provided will produce delicious cookies, frosted cakes, and other treats.

FROM A SURVEY

Give Your Child A Thinking Toy

NEW YORK — The young set should be well entertained on Christmas morning this year. Toymakers, with the aid of parents, educators and psychologists, have introduced many new lines in '67 which hopefully will make youngsters think a little while having fun.

Santa will bring a record assortment of new homemaking devices designed for kids to use on their own.

Among these is an Easy-Bake oven which operates on two electric light bulbs. Even a preschooler can turn out a delicious frosted holiday cake with complete safety. There's no door to open, no exposed burners, and the cake passes through a cooling chamber before it exits for safety. Pizzas and pop corn delicacies are also made in the same oven.

A Big Burger grill, beamed at boys who want to imitate their fathers, also operates on an electric light bulb. It is geared to produce a variety of foods from burgers and rolls to pancakes and cheese dreams. A transparent plastic cover protects against splatter and grease.

Inspiration to cleanup operations is provided by a new jet action automatic dishwasher that, unlike mother's, has a transparent cover so kids can watch the detergent do its work.

The junior entrepreneur's promotional efforts get a lift from a new Colormatic copying machine which can produce four-color art and up to 30 copies — ideal for announcements, flyers and signs.

For the junior designer, the Knit-O-Matic will make possible the creation of a wide range of accessories like scarves, socks, mittens and caps as well as turtleneck sweaters and even three-piece suits.

A new toy vacuum cleaner has an on-off switch for extra realism. There's a light-up beauty mirror for the young cosmetician.

New for the junior artist is the Spirograph, invented by a British electronic engineer, Denys Fisher, which makes possible the creation of designs of extraordinary complexity just by meshing gear teeth with the aid of a pen. Spirography makes it possible for even a kindergartener to create colorful epicyclic curves and millions of other intricate and beautiful designs.

Fountain Brushes add new versatility to watercoloring. The brushes are designed so the color doesn't dry out and the color dries instantly on paper. There's no refilling.

Gloppy, a new kink of plastic modeling compound, will appeal to mothers because it doesn't stick or stain and never dries out, so it can be used over and over.

Freeway USA caters to children's interest in superhighways. This building kit provides all the makings for designing highway-bridge systems.

Children's love of building child-size structures get impetus from Building Boulder sets of lightweight plastic. Fun Builders, a new approach in colorful interlocking blocks, is designed to produce castles, houses and other structures as big as the junior architect.

Last year the toy industry said its retail sales amounted to more than $2.5 billion. That was 8.9 per cent more than the year before.

The cost of living has been higher this year, and there are more children for whom toys will be brought.

With kids, higher costs and new ideas in toymaking, the manufacturers are optimistic — say to the tune of 10 per cent more sales by the time this year's Christmas packages are opened.

Outdoor Gift

This holiday season choose an unusual outdoor wreath for your home, or as a gift for someone else.

Advent Calendar Has Major Role

Hardly a home in Denmark where children live is without its advent calendar — a gaily decorated piece of Yuletide art with a different "window" to open for every day of December until Christmas morn.

Fond parents fix these at the bottom of the children's beds. The children open a window every morning and the excitement gets terrific as the big day nears.

Most households also go in for a tall candle, subdivided into the days of December. The kids have the fun of burning up one more day on the long and sometimes agonizingly expectant run-up to Christmas.

A Pretty Locket

A lovely gift of jewelry for a sixteener is a pretty locket or pendant — a "something special" Christmas gift that is so popular with teenagers.

Many 'S's' In Christmas? Well, Sunglasses For One

How many "S"s in Christmas? Whoever answers "two" isn't even half-way there.

For how can it be Christmas without snow and snowballs, sleighs and sleighbells, sparkling tinsel on a spruce tree, silver punch bowl filled with cheer, Santa slithering down the chimney and a silver star above the crib.

Guessing the number of "S"s in Christmas can make a good game for a seasonal children's party.

We can think of others — sunglasses and stocking stuffers. This year they'll be go-togethers. Sunglasses. for Christmas?

Of course. No girls waits for the sun to shine today before donning her "shades." And no wonder, with the eye-catching, mystery-making, orb-flattering styles around today.

Sunglass makers now offer "shades" with jutting "roof-tops," sporty racing stripes that whip color across your forehead, brilliantly colored "thinnies" that circle oversize lenses with fragile-looking frames, and all the newest, subtle touches (like lots of tortoise frames) to team with current fashion trends.

Sunglasses go with snow boots, they peep out from under bushy fur hats, they go madly mod with fun furs (that means anything under $500.) and they add mystery — even to mink.

This year "shades" add another "S" to Christmas. And those who stuff sunglasses into stockings will find added "thank you" notes too in their January mail.

FOR WINTER, TOO — Sunglasses are good for more than the summery beach. New styles look great with winter furs, and help protect the eyes against the glare of snow and ice.

Christmas As A Legal Holiday Came Slowly In United States

Alabama was the first state to declare Christmas a legal holiday. In 1836, this state gave Christmas its first official status in America.

The celebration of Christmas with trees and greenery was considered a pagan festivity by the Puritans. And many colonists had associated Christmas trees with the Hessian soldiers, hired by the British, who decorated the first Christmas trees in the New World. Hence, a feeling developed in this country that Christmas was anti-American.

Even though Martin Luther furnished his children a decorated tree, a great number of American Protestants associated Christmas with Roman Catholicism.

History does not record just when Christmas was first celebrated in the White House. We do know, however, that Benjamin Harrison was the first President to have a Christmas tree. Previously, Andrew Jackson had the White House decorated with holly and mistletoe but no tree.

One President, Theodore Roosevelt, was a strict conservationist and disapproved of cutting trees from the forests. However, Franklin Delano Rossevelt enjoyed Christmas, with all its festive trimmings, and he and his family had gay celebrations in the White House.

In recent years, the Presidential family and staff are busy prior to the Christmas holidays planning festivities. Annually, there is a party for underprivileged children, a buffet dinner for members of the White House staff, a reception for state campaign workers, and a party for members of the press and their families and friends.

The L. B. Johnsons, however, forsake the White House for a family Christmas celebration at the presidential ranch in Johnson City, Texas. In the last 50 years, a third of our Presidents have left the White House with their families in order to have a private Christmas holiday at "home."

The Johnson's attends church on Christmas Day in Johnson City or Fredericksburg after opening their gifts. In the evening, they are poined by 20 or 30 people for a traditional Christmas dinner. Many relatives and some members of the Presidential staff are seated.

The scene is a typical American Christmas, celebrated in privacy, in a typical American setting.

Holiday Drink

Wassail is a hot drink, based on ale or wine or cider with spices. It has become a traditional Christmas holiday drink. The Middle English words "waes haeil" mean "be thou well."

Toy 'Pizza Party Oven' Is For Real

The first Pizza Oven designed exclusively for children will gladden the hearts and tummies of tots all over the land this Christmas.

The oven was designed to provide activities that will help youngsters learn how to entertain and play well together with other children.

Every youngster can be a master chef turning out perfect pies every time.

The Pizza Party Oven will make every young gal the hostess with the mostes' in her crowd. She'll quickly discover that the way to a young man's heart indeed is through his stomach.

The oven turns out perfect, palate tempting pizza pies with a hearty flavor. The generous size pizzas use a popular brand mix, which comes with the oven.

Designed with a colorful and realistic coal black and red brick exterior, the Pizza Party Oven is sturdy, heat resistant and completely safe.

UL approved, it operates on two 75 watt light bulbs using ordinary house current.

The Pizza Party Oven comes complete with authentic front opening load, two pizza pans, a lifter/spatula, pizza cutter and enough mix to make six sizzling pizzas, including sauce and grated cheese.

The Pizza Party Oven is designed to allow mother's helper to turn the kitchen into a real pizza parlor with complete safety.

"PIZZA PARTY OVEN"—The first children's oven specially designed to cook real hot pizza pies. Sturdy, heat resistant and completely safe, the UL-approved Oven operates on two ordinary 75 watt bulbs. Comes equipped with all necessary equipment plus enough Chef Boy-Ar-Dee Cheese Pizza Mix to make six pies. The package also contains a free coupon that is redeemable for 15c on the purchase of the next package of Chef Boy-Ar-Dee Pizza Mix or Frozen "6" Pizza. Santa himself may just turn the oven on snack-times once the holiday going is over. News from Multiple Toymakers, a division of Loyal Corporation.

No need, either, for mother's constant supervision.

And as an added plus, there's a free coupon inside the Pizza Oven package. It's redeemable for 15 cents on the purchase of the next package of mix or frozen six-inch pizzas.

Even Santa himself will be thankful he thought of dropping off a Pizza Oven this Christmas — think of all those treats in the winter months ahead! Maybe he'd better bring two.

Research Is Key To Toys That Please

NEW YORK — Christmas morning is an exciting time for the young fry with their new toys. And, it's difficult to realize that behind a shiny, new plaything there's many an hour of research.

In one of the world's unusual product-research laboratories child's play is man's work. The reaserchers are the consumers themselves, who pass judgment on the products of a toy maker, at East Aurora, N.Y.

The laboratory is a carpeted, well-furnished living room where small preschool children play. Engineers observe, record and take notes from a secret viewing room on the other side of a one-way mirror.

The children are recruited from neighborhood schools and from among friends and realitives of employees. The youngsters are limited to two visits as otherwise they might become too sophisticated to pass unbiased judgments.

The 15-man quality-control staff of design engineers are all parents and have been sent back to school to study child guidance and psychology. The comments of the youngsters are recorded on tape and are transcribed for study, along with written reports of the observers. Toys are often revised — and sometimes discarded — as a result of the detailed studies.

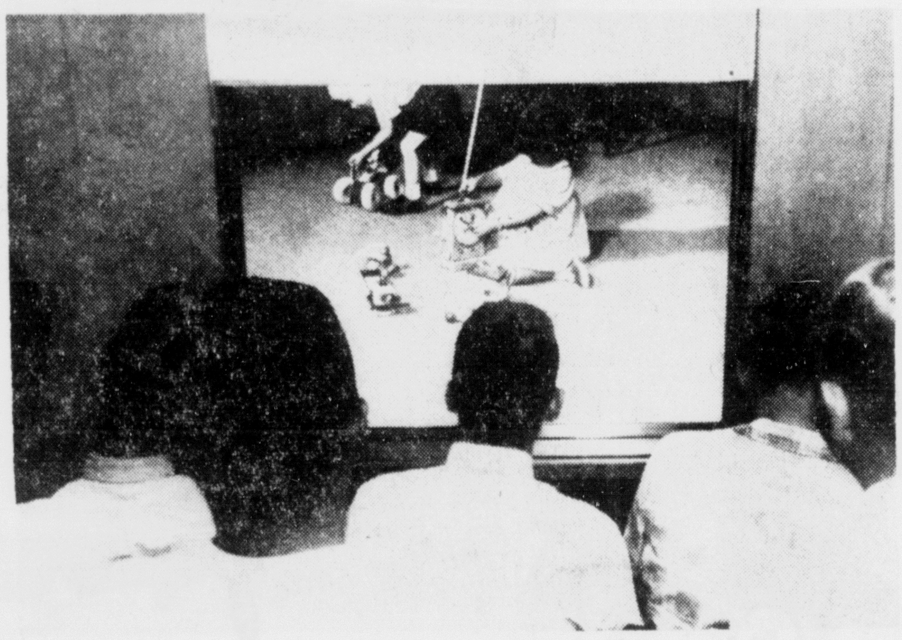
"We make toys that are designed not only so children will play with them, but so they will play with children" says German G. Fisher, president and co-founder of the 36 year old company.

As an example of this "play with children" approach, wheels were added to a toy telephone. Originally, the toy was a plain cradle and receiver, made to look like any standard telephone. But the engineers noted that, after a make-believe conversation, the child would drag the cradle around the room by the receiver cord. So the wheels were added.

Later, the phone was given a face with eyes that rolled up and down as the wheels turned. Then a voice was added, to the delight of the young researchers, one of whom insisted on taking his new friend home to bed with him.

In the course of their research, the children manage to put toys through rather severe tests as they drop them, stand on them and otherwise assault them. The engineers futher examine the durability of the toys in what are known as torture tests. When a breakdown occurs, modifications are made.

"Every toy is researched and designed to be as attractive and entertaining as possible," Fisher explains.



PLAY OBSERVED — Designers at unusual laboratory observe children through one-way mirror to see how they react to latest ideas in toy design.

PROUD GIFTS

Sterling Is Answer To 'Wish List'

Serving pieces in sterling silver are likely to be some of the most-wanted items on a woman's "wish-list" at Christmastide.

The multi-purpose pieces are often the loveliest in a sterling set, and they add the final touch of beauty to a table set with gleaming sterling place settings and fine china and crystal.

Without them, a hostess finds that she has to "make do" with other flatware — and this expedient can lend a particularly jarring note to holiday and party meals when tables are set with special care.

The serving pieces in every sterling flatware set range from items as small as the dainty lemon fork to the 17-inch wedding cake knife (an ideal Christmas present, incidentally, for the bride-to-be). In between, there are many times, small and large, each an example of the consummate artistry and skill that goes into the making of every piece of sterling silver.

If the lady you have in mind already owns some sterling flatware, it's easy to learn the identity of the manufacturer and the pattern.

The manufacturer's name is always stamped on the back of every piece of sterling; sometimes the pattern name appears also, but if not, an admiring comment on the pattern or a casual inquiry into its name is usually all that's needed.

Often, in the case of the new bride or young homemaker, the sterling pattern she owns will be listed at the gift registry of her favorite jewelry or department store. Here, a complete record is kept of the pieces which she's already received and those which she still needs.

The following serves as a brief guide to some of the handy serving pieces which make excellent Christmas gifts:

For the Informal Hostess: Buffet parties are the answer to easy entertaining these days — and serving pieces seem to be even more in the spotlight here than on dining tables.

The cold meat or buffet fork is useful for meat loaves, cold meats and platter salads. The sterling tablespoon is ideal for puddings, soft and frozen desserts, potatoes and vegetables. The tomato or flat server is handy for hard-to-balance food such as tomato slices, asparagus spears or croquettes.

And the sterling-handled salad fork and spoon are, of course, the utmost in buffet eclat!

For the Teatime Devotee: Elegance and flair attend this cherished ceremony — and the beauty of dainty china teacups and sparkling silver contributes almost as much to the occasion as the flavor of the beverage itself.

Indispensable sterling serving pieces are the dainty sugar spoon or sugar tongs, the lemon fork and the bonbon or nut spoon in sterling.

For the Dessert-Lover: Any woman who dotes on luscious pies and cakes, or prepares them for her family, would love to receive a beautiful solid silver pie or cake server this Christmas. This piece, which has a serrated cutting edge, can be used either alone, or with the sterling cake knife or cake breaker.

For the Weight-Watcher: The combination of fruit and cheese, as any European traveler knows, is one of the delightful mainstays of the continental menu.

This dessert, which is catching on in this country, is the perfect ending to a filling lunch or dinner.

The cheese serving knife in sterling makes a wonderful gift combined with that individual place piece, the sterling fruit knife. This pair can enthrall any epicure — and make weight-watching a positive delight!

STERLING—Serving pieces are gifts with a long future. Shown here are the large serving fork and spoon—pieces which can be given either alone or in combination. The serving spoon is used for casseroles, vegetables, berries and puddings; the serving fork for meat loaf and cold meats. Together, they make an elegant salad serving set.

Gild The Lilly (Plastic Type) For Presents

Many women make enameled flowers for the season for gifts. One advantage of these is that they may be used the year-round, although they are perfectly suited for Christmas decor.

Inexpensive plastic flowers, stems and leaves must be trimmed to workable size. In two-pound coffee can mix: four ounces light oak varnish, four ounces turpentine, two teaspoons gold powder. Dip flowers, stems and leaves — one at at time — in mixture. Shake off excess. Hang to dry overnight.

To arrange: fit styrofoam into your favorite vase, bowl or basket and shape as fresh flowers.

If a very pale color is desired, the materials may be lightly sprayed with flat white enamel before dipping in mixture.

IT REALLY WORKS—The most in new fire fighting equipment is this new snorkel fire truck. The realistic snorkel operates hydraulically in 6 positions. A garden hose adapter makes it possible to use the snorkel hose to shoot water 20 feet. The Pow-r-r sound attachment simulates the roar of a giant motor; no batteries are required.

THE BIG DAY GETS NEARER

A German child happily watches an Advent candle, which is burned each day from Dec. 1 through Christmas Eve in homes which observe the reverent tradition.

Service Styles Head The List Of Toy Trucks

Toy municipal services trucks are much more in evidence this Christmas than war-oriented transportation models.

A new snorkel fire truck operates hydraulically in six positions. This new toy, which operates with batteries, has 'Pow-r-r-" attachments which give a simulated hum of a motor.

The advanced police rescue truck has a turbine cab and extension ladders.

A new snorkel type hydraulic utility truck is modeled after advanced designs used by power companies.

Another type of toy truck to be found in the transportation sector of toyland is Kenya Karryall. This has cages stocked with wild animals and the doors can be opened to permit removal.

There's also a merry-go-round truck simulating the action of street carousels.

Studies Show Children Like Colorful Toys

If this year's crop of toys appears more colorful than in years past, it isn't because you are seeing things. Toys are getting brighter and more colorful and there's a good reason for it all.

Studies by a number of universities and child guidance centers show that children have distinct preferences for toys that are gaily colored. Moreover, they demonstrate distinct preferences for certain colors over others.

Robert Hicks, director of research and development at Fisher-Price Toys, Inc., world's largest producer of creative preschool toys, says, "while many factors are taken into consideration in the design of the toy which will appeal or 'play with' the child, you're licked before you start if color properly used is not one of them."

"There is no question that good toys should be regarded as teaching devices.

A child, particularly the younger child, relates to his environment through the toys he plays with. Because we recognize this, we chose not to abstract toys or their colors too far beyond reason.

Thus, where colors is concerned, sky is blue, grass is green, sun is yellow and it belongs. Can you imagine, then, how dull it would be, and how unnatural, if toys were to have no color at all," he said.

"Although all our toys are designed to be "educational," we have never permitted ourselves to lose sight of the fact that before a child can learn from a plaything, he must first play with it.

If a toy cannot first be enjoyed by a child, and be fun to play with, it is simply not worth a darn."

According to Hicks, primary colors and the secondaries appeal most to pre-schoolers. Variety, to an extent, is important and the brighter the colors the better.

Some studies indicate that in the very young child, say under two, there is some preference for reds and yellows, with blues taking a back seat.

Pastels and the more sophisticated shades are noticed during these early years, but the preference for softer hues doesn't really show until after a child is well into his school years.

"You might see how these preference work," says Hicks, "by giving children crayons to color with and observing the choices they make."

Many nursery schools and child guidance centers around the country that have traditionally used unpainted toys are turning around according to Hicks.

This may be due in some way to the fact that classes are larger, leaving less time for teacher-directed activities such as these toys required. They have found that toys which are gaily decorated with many colors are generally the most popular ones.

He notes that in addition to the preference for colored toys in the first place, the child's attention span is maintained over a longer period with colored items.

Mistletoe Myth

Among the legends about mistletoe is one that says it seems to be purely an English custom and its survival may be due to the fact that the English were formerly much given to kissing.

National Fete For Formosa

In Nationalist-held Formosa, Dec. 25 is an official holiday. It is called the "Date of National Revival," marking the release of President Chiang Kai-shek by a group of generals during the "Sian Incident" in 1936. But to the ordinary people, it is Christmas.

The Executive Mansion in suburban Shih-lin in Taipei witnesses annually a happy reunion when Nationalist China's first couple lavish presents on their grandchildren by the Christmas tree.

President Chiang and his wife, Mei-ling, are devout Christians. The seldom miss a Sunday service. Every year they attend Christmas Day services in a nearby church without fanfare.

About 100 miles away on the other side of the Formosan Strait, the Feast of Nativity may not be celebrated this year. There, the cultural revolution is destroying the old culture, including the Christian culture.

Christmas Cards

"Christmas pieces" which schoolboys made at the end of the winter term — sheets of paper with colored borders on which the boys wrote greetings to their parents — were the predecessors of the Christmas card.

MINIATURE, TOO

More Cars Than Ever Are Rolling

Little boys' love for automobiles has created an industry that simply dwarfs the production figures of all Detroit. That business is the miniature car field, which is also given impetus by adult collectors.

This Christmas the manufacturers expect to sell more of these autos than ever.

The technical skill required to produce some of the more elaborate mechanical models is fantastic. Many have working parts such as opening doors, hoods, trunks and folding seats.

Often the manufacturere works in advance with a motor car company enabling them to bring out a model simultaneously with the introduction of the real car. This behing-the-scene relationship is carried out under the cloak of strict secrecy.

Tooling costs for these intricate models may run as high as $10,000 to $50,000 per car and a tremendous amount of research goes on before a car is selected for production.

Corgi, a division of the Mettoy Company, Ltd., has a normal development period for a Corgi model of nine to 12 months. However, it is possible to speed up this time on a crash program. Replics of the Mini-Cooper 'S,' which won both the 1964 and 1965 Monte Carlo Rallies, were in the shops less than 10 days after the winner was announced, complete with authentic rally plates, numbers and internal details.

Made in England, each Corgi car is a die-cast scale model, about 50 times smaller than life. The cars have a baked-on enamel finish and spring suspension.

The task of cutting the final mould is highly exacting — the toolmaker uses watchmaker's glasses and micrometers to cut in the minute details. As an example of the fine limits necessary, a tool the thickness of a cigarette paper is used to make the moulds for die-cast spoke wheels.

The assembly is done on a production line just as with full-sized cars. Women are almost exclusively employed on assembly because the handling of the tiny parts requires skilled fingers.

FAMILY GOES SNOWMOBILING —Exciting winter sport that opens up new avenues of enjoyment. Snowmobile will go through any amount of snow, lets you winter-hunt and fish in formerly hard-to-reach places. Great family gift! Even if you don't live in snow-blanketed area you can still enjoy sport via snowmobile trailer hitched onto your car.

A Snowmobile Makes An Ideal Gift For The Entire Family

Snowmobiling is the most exciting winter sport to come down the snow trail since skiing.

A Canadian idea, the snowmobile swept into the U.S. about four years ago, and has since opened up a totally new world of winter family fun.

For example, the once inaccessible summer cottage is now being used for winer activities because the snowmobile will go through any amount of snow.

The winter picnic, unheard of a few years ago, has become commonplace because of the snowmobile. After all, that cooler that keeps things cold during the summer will also keep things hot during the winter.

Winter hunting and ice fishing in remote places are also easy — you can leave the snow shoes at home and ride to your favorite spot.

Like sports car buffs and boating enthusiasts, snowmobile fans have grouped together to form clubs in all the major snow areas. A cross-country rally, a snowmobile race, a breakfast ride or ski-joring — an arrangement similar to water skiing but on snow using the snowmobile as the "tow boat" — are just a few of the snowmobile club's activities.

Snowmobiling may appear to be confined to those who are lucky enough to live in the 15 northern states where snow is on the ground for an average of 80 days each year.

Corsage Gifts

Dainty inexpensive corsages can be purchased and stocked at home to pin on your holiday guests. They'll be flattered by your thoughtfulness!

Queen Victoria's German husband, Albert, brought the Christmas tree from his native land, and the custom was not until then popularized in England.

Japanese Holiday

Many Japanese have adopted Christmas as a secular holiday devoted to the love of children. This has happened during the 20th Century as a result of their familiarization with products made in Japan for world distribution.

Brazil nuts should be frozen before cracking with a hammer or mallet.

Corsage Time

Florists have on hand a large supply of ready-made Christmas corsages of holly berries and sparkling, lovely ornaments all ready to give as extra gifts.

Give Your Mate The Very Ultimate In Goldilocks

NEW YORK (AP) — The ultimate Goldilocks.

It is right there in the Neiman-Marcus Christmas catalogue — a wig spun of 24-karat gold. For $35,000, some affluent Santa Claus can make his girl a golden cherub with this golden hairpiece.

It may be the wiggiest Christmas in history. Wigs are scattered through the Christmas catalogues now in the mail.

The Dallas department store even has wigs for men. They come in blonde or brown—human hair—bountifully unbarbered and earthling priced at $45.

Even the kiddies may have a hairy Christmas.

F.A.O. Schwarz, the toy chain is sending out 900,000 Christmas catalogues—100,000 more than last year— offering Pamela and Party Kit, for $25.

Pamela is a dainty ballerina who keeps up with the world of fashion by changing her wig. Included are blonde and brunette wigs, which transform her appearance for each party.

Neiman-Marcus has a thing about equality of the sexes. Each year its catalogue features His and Her junks, His and Her bathtubs.

This year's bit of togetherness is a matched pair of desert plutocrats, His and Her camels "for people who have been promising themselves to slow down." The store will fly a pair of the first Christmas beats to your private oasis for $4,125.

There may be some smaller animals under the Christmas tree, too.

Tiffany & Co., the Fifth Avenue jeweler, has a zooful of baubles—a dancing dragon of diamonds, $9,000, an emerald-eyed sea serpent, $10,700, a dog bracelet, $10,000 and a diamond-clawed alligator pin, $7,200.

They'd all fit in a golden basket — Tiffany's vermeil berry basket, $280.

J. C. Penney Co. features the newest member of Santa's menagerie since Rudolph — Santa Mouse.

There are Santa Mouse sleepers, ($2.96), Santa Mouse gowns, ($2.96), Santa Mouse pocketed holiday party dresses ($3.95), Santa Mouse luxurious pants sets, ($5.96), Santa Mouse dolls, ($3.29), Santa Mouse story books, 94 cents, Santa Mouse records, 88 cents and Santa Mouse His and Her robes, $3.94, size 1 to 4.

In the doll department, there are L'il Miss Fussy who kicks and cries until you change her diaper and Baby's Hungry, who rolls her eyes and chews, $10.88 apiece.

Tubsy splashes and turns her head when you dunk her in a tub, $10.99 and That Kid, who talks tough if you pull his slingshot out of his jeans pocket $11.88.

Penneys also caters to the tinkerers. If there is someone on your list whose ambition is to make a mechanical locomotive —or a cement mixer or a bulldozer—there's a kit for it that costs $3.77. You even can make a copy of a V8 engine for $8.98.

There even is an atomic energy lab, $8.95. A spinthariscope shows exploding atoms, and vapor trails of alpha and beta particles and of cosmic rays can be observed through an atomic cloud chamber.

It comes with safe radioactive materials — the alpha source in handy container of uranium ore — and comprehensive instructions.

St. Francis created the creche as a Christmas symbol in the Middle Ages.

Ribbon Wreath

For a pretty ribbon wreath, cut a cardboard circle about three inches wide. Take one-inch wide satin or grosgrain ribbon, and cut four one-inch lengths. Fold in half. Take a row of these ribbon loops across the circle until it is completely covered, one row overlapping the other. Alternate rows of red and green ribbon for a very Christmas-y wreath.

Christmas goes by many names. The Dutch call it Kerst-Misse, in France they celebrate Noel, in Italy it's Il Natale, Weihnachten in Germany, and El Natal in Spain.

Toys Seem To Be For A Giant Race

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) Santa Claus is making toys for a race of giants this year.

Conservationists better take notice. The big, stuffed toys will need giant redwoods for Christmas trees if the tendency continues.

I say this with some authority. As a doting grandfather, and really only a tall dwarf, I confronted a 66-inch teddy bear at the Toy, Juvenile and Wheel Goods Show given for retailers.

The bear was just two inches taller than I am. It was billed as "the largest teddy bear in the world." I believe it. A giant's pocketbook will be needed to buy it, though. It retails for $75.

The bear was one of many toys and amusements made on the West Coast where manufacturers have turned Santa Claus helpers.

It was a good show with toys, games, bicycles and other wheel goods, dolls, stuffed animals, educational toys, party goods, playground gear and other juvenile fol-de-rol.

Many items have been made in Japan and Hong Kong.

The amusement items ran from just plain old-fashioned dolls to educational make-it-yourself kits. But even the dolls have gone highbrow.

There was, for example, "Buttons'n Bows," a stuffed clown, with all the snaps, zippers, watches, and even money to teach a child how to button his clothes, zip zipper, comb his hair and put money in the bank. Santa Claus will have to pony up with $10 to buy "Button'n Bows."

Also interesting were redwood and Ponderosa pine kits to make everything from bird feeders to a "Don Quixote" windmill with moving vanes.

One of the clever gadgets in the show was the "Surprise Treasure Chest. It consists of a wound ball, 75-feet in length and each foot containing a toy—something like toys in the old Cracker Jack boxes but of better quality. The ball is made for toys for boys and toys for girls with a set of printed clues parents can hide around the house for the kids' treasure hunt.

There also was, with Western flavor, an elaborate miniature "Circle X Ranch," a spread that included Indians, cowboys, cavalry soldiers, girls, boys and complete tiny tools of the trade down to roping gear, branding irons, costumes, even a tiny bugle and binoculars with its shoulder kit.

The same company offered "Marvel the Mustang" a sophisticated horse on which the child sits and the horse gallops — always forward — by itself.

Electric Ice Blades

Julius Czaga of Syracuse, N. Y., was granted patent 3,119,921 for ice skates with heated blades. He asserts that the blades make for more controlled and easier skating on both soft and hard ice, and perform a secondary service by warming the feet. Each skate is fitted with a rechargeable battery and a thermostatic switch.

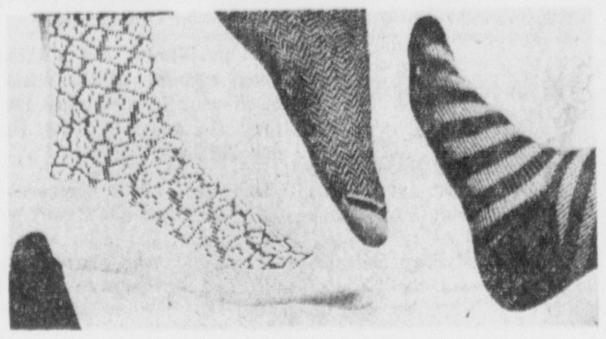
Christmas Spirit Easily Spotted In Hong Kong

Chinese children have no trouble recognizing Father Christmas, no matter what costume he wears. This is true not only with boys and girls of the Christian faith, but with the great majority of people in Hong Kong who are non-Christians.

Every year, philanthropic and welfare organizations stage entertainment programs for the needy, nearly all of whom are refugees or offspring of refugees from neighboring Communist China. Every child gets a present, from a hearty meal to a rubber balloon.

For the poverty-stricken children, this is a brief moment of great joy, of goodwill toward them, only to end too soon and to return to the grueling life.

To the better-off strata of the population, this is an occasion for merry-making, although they do not celebrate the birth of Christ.



WHY NOT SOCKS?

Puzzling over what to give a man? Treat him to a wardrobe of colorful, patterned socks, the extra special find that he hesitates to buy himself but would love to own. Give him an assortment of stripes, checks and abstract patterns in an assortment of colors.

Nice Gifts To Find In Animal Shelters

There are approximately 10 million homeless cats in this country.

You won't find all of them at your local SPCA or Humane Society, but you can see a fair sampling. Sleek, beautiful, well-behaved cats. Many of them have been abandoned by their owners for reasons good or evil.

These are cats used to a family, to care, and to love, and make good Christmas gifts.

Here's Guide On Cosmetics For Menfolk

Many a woman who is confident about her own good grooming is slightly shaken when it comes to selecting grooming aids for the men in her life.

Not only has she never honed a razor, slapped her face with after-shave lotion, or sloshed herself with a gentleman's cologne, but she is often confused by the bewildering array of products labeled: For Men.

During the Christmas season, for example, she will have literally thousands of gifts items to choose from — over 260 men's cologne brands, over 160 shave lotions, over 100 soaps made especially for men, twenty men's hair sprays, ten men's essences, and at least two men's bubble baths.

There is only one sensible way to navigate this maze of men's grooming aids—by knowing how and why men use them. Here are some tips from experts at the Kanon Institute for Good Grooming:

Integrity of Fragrance: A man's grooming aids should be matched for aroma. If his cologne smells different from his after-shave, hair groom or deodorant there will be a fragrance conflict and he can wind up smelling like brussels sprouts.

After-Shave: Cools and refreshes the face that's just been shaved. Acts as a mild antiseptic, helps close pores. Scent is light.

Cologne: A man's scent that lasts. For use as a body splash and in place of after-shave if he prefers. Cologne is basic to the aroma as part of man's total grooming.

Esence: Highly concentrated. A few drops assure continued fragrance action for many, many hours. Fine on handkerchiefs, or at the collar line.

Deodorant: Its purpose is obvious. Most popular category is spray-on. Should match the fragrance of after-shave, cologne, essence, etc.

Soap: Keep's man's grooming scent consistent all the way down the line. Get a bar big enough for the masculine hand, or if it has to be small, with a wood toggle and "braid" so it won't get lost.

Experts at the Kanon Institute point out the importance of a man-sized cologne bottle.

It should be easy to grab, hard to knock over, and with a cap big enough to be turned by a male fist. It should look ruggedly masculine. Best source is a firm specializing in grooming aids for men only.

One final point: a woman can establish her presence with a scent, leaving a lingering aroma of feminine fragrance. You know she was there.

This is not for men. The fragrance shouldn't be too strong and you should be aware of it only when you're up close — as when dancing with a man.

In short, a man ought to smell clean and strong, the way you want him to.

Gift For A Girl

The gentle and ladylike art of sewing and embroidering can be made extremely attractive to a favorite little girl if the reward is a silver thimble for her first successful try. As she gets better, she may receive a coveted gold thimble as a sign of her accomplishment.
